Totally Destroyed

A house on the Lonnie Bellamy farm just west of LaMonte burned to the ground late Saturday night. The two-story structure was more than two-thirds destroyed when the Pettis County Fire Department arrived, making salvage efforts close to impossible. The house burned very quickly, according to Democrat-Capital Staff writer Warren Ripley. The cause of the blaze was unknown at Democrat-Capital presstime. All of the residents were in Sedalia at the time of the fire. (Democrat-Capital Photo by Keith A. Owen)

Friday's Severe Weather Leaves Wide Destruction

By PETE DANIELS
Managing Editor

Friday's frightening series of tornadoes, high winds and flooding destroyed trailer homes, barns, sheds and injured at least 12 persons from Pettis and Benton Counties. It was one of the worst weather days in Pettis County since 1951, when a tornado leveled a section of the midway on the Missouri State Fairgrounds.

The intensity of destruction was focused in two areas, Crestview Court on East Highway 50, and an area just west of Cole Camp. At Crestview, authorities Saturday morning estimated the loss at $150,000 or more.

No official loss estimate was made in the Cole Camp area, but officials there reported a mile-wide swath of destruction from a twister that dipped out of the sky in the late afternoon, went back up into the clouds and then touched the earth again.

As if Friday's events weren't nerve-rattling enough, the tornado warning sirens again blared through the clammy, night air Saturday, after a line of severe weather activity stretching from Knob Noster to Glasgow intensified as it headed northward and apparently spawned two more funnels.

Pettis, Saline and Howard Counties went on a 7:40 p.m. tornado warning which was lifted without incident at 8:15. Radar equipment at the National Weather Service station, Columbia, indicated tornado activity associated with the line of storms, and at one point in the warning a funnel cloud was reported five miles northwest of Sedalia heading toward Marshall. A funnel was also reportedly sighted aloft near Sweet Springs about 6:40 p.m.

Large hail and damaging winds were associated with the line of activity, and some damage was reported to the Warrensburg airport, according to the Highway Patrol, Lee's Summit.

Four Crestview residents were admitted to Bothwell Hospital, where 30 or 40 staff members, most of them volunteers, manned the emergency rooms to care for the injured.

Those injured in the trailer court included Goldie Farr and her husband, Wilburn W.; Fern Simmons and Elizabeth Roark. Another Crestview resident, Terry Twenter, received cuts and scratches but was not admitted. Mary Hartman, 710 East Broadway, Mrs. Wilma Williams, 496 North Stewart, and Elizabeth Duerr, 3455 East Seventh, also were injured. It was believed they were in the trailer court when the storm struck, authorities said.

The other injured include George Kreisler, Route 2, Cole Camp, admitted; Mary Wilson, Warsaw, admitted; Amos Kreisler, Route 2, Cole Camp, treated and released; and Ernest Keeton, Route 3, Warsaw, treated and released.

In all, 15 trailer homes were damaged and, according to Pettis County Sheriff Emmett Fairfax, "we're listing them as demolished." At least three of the homes vanished — including one belonging to Steve Bryant, a Sedalia radio announcer. Another home, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Robert McDonald, was advertised for sale until Saturday.

Fairfax said that most of the trailers did not have "general, over-all tie-downs." Some of them, however, were on temporary foundations, it was reported. At least one trailer that was securely anchored remained upright, while those on either side of it were overturned.

Confusion still was evident at Crestview Saturday as families and their relatives picked through the debris to find personal belongings. In most instances, Fairfax said, they were successful. However, the nearly-mile-long stretch of wreckage and debris made the task difficult.

At least three farms and one home in the path of the storm also sustained extensive damage. At the Lloyd Lewellen farm on Route 2, southwest of Crestview, a metal pole barn-silo combination vanished. A short distance away, the twister touched the J. W. Rissler residence, tearing off the television antenna and a large number of

Path of Destruction

This is the scene of the devastation at Crestview Court, just east of Sedalia on Highway 50, after a tornado touched down there Friday evening, destroying 15 mobile homes. Four persons were injured in the incident, and were treated at Bothwell Hospital. The tornado which struck the trailer court was apparently one of five sighted in the Sedalia area during turbulent weather Friday. (Democrat-Capital Photo)

Nixon Aides Hiring Watergate Attorney

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two of President Nixon's most important aides and closest advisers have hired a lawyer to represent them in connection with the Watergate case.

Washington attorney John J. Wilson confirmed Saturday that he represents H.R. Haldeman, chief of staff at the White House, and John D. Ehrlichman, Nixon's chief domestic adviser.

The Washington Star-News, meanwhile, quoted sources as saying plans for the Watergate bugging were personally approved by former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell.

Mitchell had denied Friday ever approving such plans although he conceded they had been suggested to him during the 1972 presidential campaign he managed for Nixon.

Sources close to Mitchell also confirmed on Saturday reports that Mitchell told a grand jury that he believes people in the campaign went over or around him to get approval of the bugging.

The sources said Mitchell contends the bugging and other espionage was done against his will and without his having been told about it. The sources said information about the incident was kept from Mitchell even after five men were arrested in the act of burglarizing and bugging Democratic party headquarters.

Mitchell told a federal grand jury Friday that he approved funds from Nixon campaign funds for the seven men arrested in the case but that it was only for their legal defense, the sources said.

Wilson said he was hired by Haldeman and Ehrlichman during the past week to advise them in connection with Watergate.

"I was retained to consult with them in regard to things concerning them in the news media," Wilson said.

Asked if this meant the Watergate case, Wilson said, "the things in the media had something to do with the Watergate, didn't they?"

Wilson said, however, that he was only giving advice at this point and that neither man had been summoned to appear before the federal grand jury now probing the political espionage case.

In Key Biscayne, Fla., where President Nixon is spending the Easter weekend, a White House source said Haldeman and Ehrlichman retained an attorney simply because their names have appeared in various news accounts relating to Watergate.

The White House source said that the action was not associated with any wrongdoing.

Bridal Section Featured Today

For the bride this spring, and all those involved in wedding preparations, The Sedalia Democrat-Capital today is offering its annual bridal section.

The newest fashion trends in bridal gowns, tuxedos and attendant's wear is featured, as well as stories about local women who have directed weddings, services provided by Sedalia florists, the effect of premarital counseling as seen by area clergymen and procedures for obtaining marriage licenses.

These are only a few of the many informative and interesting items included in today's bridal section.

Deluge Soaks Sedalia Vicinity

Friday's chain of violent weather deluged some areas of Pettis County and Sedalia with up to six inches of water, various weather reporting stations indicated.

The sudden, prolonged downpour caused streams, storm sewers, ditches, fields and roads to flood. In some locations, such as Georgetown Road north of the Highway 65 by-pass, the flow of water was so rapid that it posed a threat to motorists passing through it.

At the height of the storm, this section of road, about three miles from downtown Sedalia, was impassable.

In a period from 7 a.m. Friday to 10 a.m. Saturday, the weather station at the Sedalia Water Department's pumping station reported a rainfall of 4.19 inches.

Radio station KSIS said that from 4 a.m. Friday until 4 p.m. Saturday rainfall there was measured at 5.65 inches. KDRO radio, measuring only for a period including Friday, indicated more than 6 inches of rain.

The same story held true for communities throughout Missouri. A Moberly observer reported 9.07 inches of rain had fallen from 4:30 a.m. Friday to 3:20 a.m. Saturday. Rain was still falling when he made his report.

Marshall reported 5 inches of rainfall Friday.

Friday's deluge came on the heels of several weeks of almost continuous rain. With the ground already saturated, streams overflowed and normally-placid creeks became raging torrents.

This was also the case with storm sewers. Basements throughout Sedalia were flooded when water began to back up. Streets were covered in many cases with a foot or more of water, especially in low-lying areas.

When the water finally receded, a heavy layer of grime, mud, cans and other debris remained on the roads — creating yet another road hazard.

Cole Camp Cleanup Underway

By VAUGHN HART
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

COLE CAMP — Residents along the western edge of Cole Camp were faced with a massive clean-up job Saturday, after a destructive tornado that hit here at 5:45 p.m. Friday.

The tornado was one of four confirmed sightings by area residents, but apparently the only one that touched down. It cut a path approximately two miles long and 200 yards wide, near the west city limits, according to one source.

Heaviest hit was the property of the Ray Dean Beuer family, 2 miles southwest of the community. Beuer, along with Wilbur Canida, Lincoln, and Harvey Lutjen, Cole Camp, was working in a newly-constructed automobile repair building when the tornado hit.

They managed to get out of the building and into the basement of the house, approximately 25 feet away.

"We just made it," Canida said. The tornado destroyed the 50 by 100-foot building and ripped the roof off the new house. The interior of the Beuer home also sustained heavy wind and water damage.

Debris from the Beuer farm was found as far away as Bond's TV Repair Shop, located on Highway 52 on the west edge of Cole Camp — nearly 2 miles from the Beuer farm.

Fortunately, there were only two injuries, George and Amos Kreisler. George Kreisler was inside a barn on his farm when the twister struck. Both were

CD Director Says:

Need Improvement In Shelter Planning

"We need to develop better plans for opening shelters...Some of these buildings are not adequate, both from the viewpoint of safety and comfort."

That was the summation of Pettis County Civil Defense Director Jerry Iuchs after an almost night-long, nerve-wracking period of tension and fear over further tornadoes Friday.

Iuchs and countless other Sedalia and county residents worked until mid-morning Saturday co-ordinating clean-up efforts at Crestview Court, the hardest-hit area in the county. At least 15 trailer homes were destroyed there and several persons were injured by one of five twisters sighted Friday.

"We had some schools opened for a very short time, but nobody showed up," Iuchs said. Early in the evening radio broadcasts informed residents that anyone desiring shelter could go to one of Sedalia's elementary schools for protection.

However, there was some confusion when at least one unidentified Sedalian went to a school and found the building locked. Iuchs admitted there had been mix-ups.

Charles McNealy, superintendent of buildings and grounds for the Sedalia public school system, said he was called by Civil Defense personnel and asked to open the schools.

McNealy reported he agreed to do this if CD would offer security personnel while the buildings were opened. "I couldn't just leave them open," he said.

He reported he went to Whittier School and opened the building, waiting for Civil Defense personnel to arrive. Finally, he said, after no one came to take shelter in the building he locked the doors after 8 p.m. He had been called at 7:30 p.m.

Iuchs said Civil Defense contacted several school principals to open the schools. They in turn obtained authorization from the Board of Education.

McNealy said he saw many persons driving along city streets — apparently "curiosity seekers." No one, however, asked him for shelter at Whittier School, he said.

The Pettis County chapter of the American Red Cross contacted Iuchs about an hour after the Crestview Court disaster. "We asked them to help us find shelter for these people," Iuchs said. At about the same time the Salvation Army arrived with coffee and food for victims at Crestview. Law enforcement officers, Civil Defense personnel and others also received refreshments.

Celebrate Despite Snowfall

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pilgrims marching through the streets of Jerusalem bucked cold winds, and visitors to Rome saw a rare Easter snowfall as they and others around the world celebrated Christianity's most joyous feast.

Pope Paul VI discarded penitential purple robes and changed to joyous white Saturday to mark the end of the mournful Lenten season and herald the resurrection of Christ.

The pontiff stood on the porch of St. Peter's Basilica and carved a cross, an alpha and an omega — first and last letters of the Greek alphabet — in his tall white Easter candle. The scattered snowflakes that fell across Rome in the morning had melted away by the time he lighted the paschal flame and carried it into the basilica.

"Here is Christ, here is the light," a deacon chanted.

Changed into the white vestments to symbolize the joy of Easter, Pope Paul celebrated the only Easter vigil Mass allowed before sunset in the Roman Catholic Church. He planned to say a second Mass in the open air on Easter morning for Romans and pilgrims in St. Peter's Square.

Pilgrims in Jerusalem were chilled by winds sucking down the narrow streets of the Old City as they walked to Holy Saturday services at the Crusader-era Church of the Holy Sepulchre.

The 800-year-old church marks the site where tradition says Jesus suffered, died and lay three days before rising from the dead.

Jewish pilgrims who traveled to the Holy City to wind up the seven-day festival of Passover gathered at the Wailing Wall, Judaism's holiest shrine.

They and the Christian pilgrims were protected by units of the Israeli army. Tight security precautions were ordered because of government fears that Palestinian guerrillas might try to disrupt the Easter observances or celebrations of Israel's 25th anniversary set for next week.

The jubilant religious festival also provided the occasion for secular enjoyment in many countries where families traveled to mountain and seashore resorts.

Claim Computer Offers Best Method of Defense

MENLO PARK, Calif. (AP) — The best detective for nabbing persons who use a computer as a partner in crime is a computer, reports Don B. Parker, a researcher in computer abuse and security.

"I have studied 130 cases of computer crime and almost every one was discovered by accident," Parker said on Friday at Stanford Research Institute.

In one of these, an accountant embezzled over $1 million from his company in six years. The accountant used a computer to limit the amount he took at any one time and to distribute the shortage among accounts where it wouldn't be noticed, Parker said.

Other illegal operations by skilled program manipulators included the stealing of corporation information or assets and the theft or copying of computer programs.

"If all we're doing up to now is accidentally discovering these things, one wonders how much of this kind of criminal activity is going on that never gets detected," he said.

"So my message to the proprietors of computer systems is:

"The computer is the ideal tool for detecting wrongful manipulation of its systems. I say we better be using it now."

Parker, heading SRI studies on computer security, has worked more than six years on analyzing criminal use of data-processing systems.

He has designed a detection and reporting system for a large bank as a model for techniques to uncover any illegal activities.

Parker said the computer can be programmed for continuous checking of the smallest details and in a random fashion.

"The penetrator with an embezzling or theft scheme in mind may even know the basic rules of the detection system," Parker said.

"But he still can't know what changes are being made, day by day, hour by hour or minute by minute."

For instance, an attempted retrieval of confidential information would be reported by the computer with the names of the people running, using and guarding it at the time, he said.

"The possibility of exposure represents a real threat to the computer criminal, who has an investment in his professional life that would be ruined if his acts became known to his associates," Parker said.

taken to Bothwell Hospital. Amos Kreisler was treated and released, however, the other Kreisler was admitted with an injured knee and possible head injuries, according to a hospital spokesman.

The Beuer farm was only one of many that were hit by the tornado. Zelma Tucker, who lives at the west edge of Cole Camp, said that the twister ripped off her attached garage and did extensive damage to the roof of her home.

At the Albert Schumaker residence, a tree was uprooted, and thrown on top of a car, which was demolished.

The Reno Viebrock farm counted one barn completely destroyed, and another damaged.

A utility shed in the Cole Camp Industrial Park was demolished, while Bob Fowler reported the loss of a porch roof.

Some farmers reported missing livestock, due mainly to downed fences.

Fate can be credited for averting a tragedy on a farm owned by Henry Bohling, east of Mora.

The farm, which Bohling reportedly rents, was unoccupied when a tornado touched down just after the Cole Camp destruction.

The tenants returned to find the house, barn, machine shed, chicken house and grainery leveled.

One person put the damage estimate at $100,000 in the Cole Camp area.

A trailer at the intersection of Routes BB and OO, seven miles south of Lincoln, was overturned by high winds about the same time the tornado struck near Cole Camp. The occupants, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Keeton, were inside the trailer, but apparently were not hurt.

Mary Wilson, Warsaw, was taken to Bothwell Hospital after winds there damaged her trailer. She was released Saturday.

Numerous power lines between Green Ridge, and Cole Camp also were downed.

Service Station Pump Is Damaged

Approximately $250 damage occurred at the Derby service station, 2701 South Limit, when a truck backed into a gasoline pump.

The Sedalia Fire Department responded to the call at 2:44 p.m. Friday and extinguished a small blaze at the scene.

Dollar Eggs

roofing shingles. Rissler was forced to use temporary plastic coverings to protect the interior of the home.

A barn owned by Rissler, located north and east of Highway 50, also was heavily damaged.

Mrs. Lewellen reported her electric clock stopped at 7:23 — the time the storm evidently struck on her farm. "I was in the basement," she said. She said her husband remained upstairs and later told her he heard a "loud roar" seconds before his barn was wrecked.

The tornado evidently did a tap-dance around the Lewellen home, eliminating the barn, just north and west of the house, knocking down a large tree south of the house and ripping a door off a workshop in another area.

"It literally picked the barn up and blew it away," she said. The only damage sustained by the house was the loss of outside electrical wiring, she said.

The Bill Cline residence, a few houses to the west of the Crestview trailer court, also sustained heavy damage when the tornado picked up a large camper trailer and dropped it on the northwest corner of the house, according to Fairfax. Windows, awnings and a horse ring and other fixtures were heavily damaged, but no estimate of the loss was available.

The first confirmed tornado sighting was at 12:10 p.m. Friday at 32nd and Grand, where minor damage was reported. From that time until 7 a.m. Saturday, city and county Civil Defense officials, police, sheriff's department officers, amateur radio operators, Citizens Band mobile units and others set up a continuous vigil — eventually confirming as many as five tornado sightings in the immediate Sedalia area.

One report late Saturday night from the U.S. Weather Service in Columbia indicated that the length of time the storm cell remained in Pettis County was extremely unusual.

The last tornado "warning" came around 10:30 p.m. Friday when a funnel cloud was sighted, still in the air, over the National Guard Armory. It did not touch down and dissipated rapidly, Jerry Iuchs, Civil Defense director here, said. Perhaps the longest tornado warning was from 8 p.m. to 10 p.m., including a one-hour extension.

A tornado "warning" is an indication that a tornado has been sighted and confirmed and that residents in the area should take immediate shelter from the storm.

Iuchs said it was impossible to determine exactly how many tornadoes were spotted in the area because many calls were received about the same funnel cloud. He said, however, they were "numerous."

Crestview Court residents had the most intimate experience with Friday's storm. Fortunately, the tornado did the worst damage to trailers that were not occupied at the time. The entire northern part of the trailer court was hit heavily.

Mary Roark, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Roark of Crestview, said the tornado struck in the midst of a heavy rain and moments after power had been lost at the court.

"All we heard was kind of like a big hum, then the windows started popping out and that was it," she said. She, her mother and two sisters took shelter under tabkes as the tornado struck. Their trailer escaped major damage, although those on both sides of it were severely damaged.

Another resident at Crestview, Don Williams, was sitting in his truck about 10 feet from his mobile home when the storm came through. "All I heard was a hard rain. Then a little vibration. Then, before I knew it, it was all over," he said.

Williams said his trailer was destroyed by the tornado, but 10 feet away his truck escaped damage of any kind. It was the second major tragedy for Williams in less than two months; on March 3 his trailer at Crestview was destroyed by fire.

Williams' son Terry was in the trailer when the tornado appeared. He leaped out of the mobile home seconds before the unit was blown into a nearby field, it was reported.

The force of the winds was graphically illustrated by cars half imbedded in mobile homes and homes that disappeared entirely. Disruption of the area also caused breaks in butane gas lines — a situation that could have resulted in even greater disaster if officials had not immediately cleared the area of the fumes.

Joe Wank, Crestview, was sitting in the front room of his trailer when the winds struck. His neighbor's shed came through the wall of the home and knocked Wank out of his wheelchair. "It blew me right out," he said. "It is hard to explain. It came like that and then was gone."

Mrs. Otis Carver's trailer had the entire front section blown away. The sides of the remaining trailer looked like a pincushion, with two-by-four boards stuck in it.

Mrs. Carver said she tried to gain as much protection as possible by lying on the floor of the trailer with her two children. "It went through in one big roar. Sounded like a freight train," she said. "My first reaction? Oh, God! Why, how could this happen?"

As of Saturday evening, 20 families in Pettis and Benton counties were left homeless as a result of the severe weather. Of that figure, 15 of the families had resided at the Crestview Court, while the other five families were living in the area surrounding Cole Camp, authorities reported.

Electrical power to the southern half of the trailer court was reportedly restored between 1 and 2 a.m. Saturday, about six hours after the storm, according to a spokesman at the Central Missouri Electric Co-op, North Highway 65, Saturday.

Son, to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Peterson, Louisberg, at 3:29 a.m. Saturday at Bothwell Hospital. Weight, 8 pounds, 10 ounces.

Burglaries, Auto Theft Reported

Two burglaries and an auto theft occurred Friday evening despite stormy weather conditions.

Robert S. McFarland, 422 East Second, reported to police Saturday morning that a tool box and assorted tools valued at $50 were stolen from the cab of his pickup truck at approximately 11 p.m. Friday. The owner told The Democrat-Capital that the theft happened while seeking shelter from the violent weather.

George Chamberlin, 501 West 23rd Street, told police that a large amount of tools and equipment were taken from Chamberlin's Champlin station, 1601 South Limit, Friday night. Entry was said to have been gained by breaking a small window on the east side of the building. Value of the stolen equipment was undetermined.

A 1965 Dodge owned by William G. Salmons, Sweet Springs, was recovered in Blackwater at 1:50 p.m. Saturday, after it was reported stolen to police Saturday morning. The vehicle, which contained tools valued at $200, was unlocked with the keys left in the ignition, according to the report.

Improvement

Jiedel, assistant administrator. "We went into all the rooms, closed the windows and drapes," he said. He reported that two patients were moved out of one room to give hospital staffers additional space for treating the injured.

"The worst thing with this type of situation is that we never know what we'll have to deal with," he said. "But last night (Friday) we had more than enough people on hand for the circumstances as they were."

Iuchs reported that several persons sought shelter in the Armory. Many other residents went to church buildings that were equipped with basements. About 30 residents, including children, went to the Pettis County Courthouse, he said.

This latter location, he indicated, was the least favorable because there were few comfortable places to sit and in many instances little safety was offered by the area people chose to use.

The instances of damage to farm buildings in Pettis County and the surrounding area were virtually too numerous to list. The Dan Jenkins farm, located just off Highway 52 south of Sedalia, received about $7,000 to $8,000 in damage when a barn, granary, hog sheds and chicken sheds were destroyed. Jenkins, who lives on Route 4, said he also lost three hogs and about 200 baby chicks to the storm. He estimated that eight or 10 farms in an area near Highway 52 and Route ZZ received extensive damage.

A vacant house on the Jenkins farm also received damage, it was reported.

THE DIRTY DOZEN ARE STILL AROUND

It is 1973 and we have improved health and living conditions generally. Along with this we have developed specific ways to identify diseases, treat them and sometimes prevent them by the use of vaccines. But, despite this vast improvement a threat to life still exists today from a group of well-known killers who have been around for a long time.

1. Polio
2. Diphtheria
3. Tetanus
4. Measles
5. Small pox
6. Influenza
7. Venereal disease
8. Viral & Serum hepatitis
9. Tuberculosis
10. Rubella
11. Typhoid
12. Cholera

It takes constant surveillance and quick reaction to outbreaks by health authorities at all levels to prevent epidemics and keep these killers under control.

Purchase Contract Is Vital

By PETER WEAVER

Choosing the right carpet color, fiber and weave is just half the battle. Getting a good purchase contract is the other half.

You should pick a carpet store by reputation. Local carpet cleaners often know who sells junk and who sells carpets that can stand the test of time. Reputable carpet stores have seasonal sales with some good bargains but beware of schlock outfits that repeatedly trumpet: "Prices Slashed."

Be sure to measure rooms yourself to get an idea of the number of square yards of carpeting you'll need. Remember, the rooms almost always require more carpeting than your measurements because carpeting doesn't come in exact sizes. It has to be cut to shape. If the seller seems too far off in the measurements, it's a good idea to get another figure from a competitor.

Be careful with showroom colors. Most places use lighting that's different from the kind used in your home. Get a large carpet sample and take it home to see how it looks under your own lighting conditions. To get a big enough sample to be useful, you might have to leave a deposit.

When the estimator comes to your home to take measurements, be sure to ask where the seams will go. Otherwise, they might be put in places that attract attention. It's also a good idea to ask if stairway edges are to be covered or left open. Specify what you want.

You should have these items in your contract:

1.—Type of fiber by weight, type of weave and color (with code number).

2.—Statement that carpet passes government flammability tests.

3—Exact yardage, price per yard, yardage and price for padding, installation fee and total contract price.

4—Any promises or guarantees as to durability, color fastness and shrinkage should be in writing. For example, if the carpet is claimed to be suitable for heavy-duty use on a stairway, get it in writing.

It's a good idea to get a small piece of sample carpet when you sign the contract. Say you need it to match colors for your drapes. This sample might come in handy in case the seller tries to install carpeting that has a different color or inferior pile. You can compare it with a piece of remnant to make sure you're getting what you paid for.

As extra protection, ask if you can pay for your carpeting over a three-month period without interest. One-third down and the rest in monthly installments after installation. This way, you can hold up payments for bargaining leverage if something goes wrong. Unfortunately, not many give this extra service.

As a last resort in arguments with the store, you can have a test made to see if your original carpet sample matches a piece of remnant from the carpet installed.

Tests cost around $50 to $60 and can be used as evidence in court. For more information, write: U.S. Testing Co., 1415 Park Ave., Hoboken, N.J. 07030.

Keeping a carpet properly cleaned can lengthen its life. Richard N. Hopper, technical director, Aids International (represents professional carpet cleaners), says "Steam cleaning is the best way to really get all the dirt out." Cleaners use lots of hot water and detergent — not steam — then vacuum it out immediately. Shampooing with a rotary brush gets a carpet's surface clean but doesn't get out the deep-down dirt.

Professional cleaners say an upright vacuum cleaner is best for home-carpet maintenance. Here's a tip: Ask housekeeper services in local motels what kind of vacuum cleaner they use and which shop gives the best service.

Gained Pledges

Jeffrey Bremer, shown here riding on the back of his brother, Paul, recently participated in a Metro Denver March of Dimes Walk-a-Thon. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Skip Bremer, Hughesville. Paul carried Jeffrey for 7 of the 20 miles he walked to collect pledges and, when he crossed the finish line, he handed March of Dimes officials pledges for $1,700 — the greatest number of all the participants in the march. Jeffrey has undergone numerous operations, including open heart surgery, to correct a defect known as hydrocephalus, or water on the brain. He is now reported in good health.

Pre-Enrollment Dates Set

Pre-enrollment of children entering kindergarten next fall will be held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the gymnasiums of local elementary schools at the following dates, it was announced recently.

Horace Mann, Tuesday; Whittier, Wednesday; Washington, Thursday and Friday; Jefferson, April 30; Hubbard, May 1; Mark Twain, May 2; Heber Hunt, May 3 and 4; and Striped College, May 7.

Although parents are encouraged to pre-enroll their children at the schools they will attend in the fall, it is not mandatory.

Children must be five years old on or before Sept. 30, 1973, in order to pre-enroll in kindergarten. Children who will enter the first grade and were not enrolled in kindergarten at a Sedalia public school this year should also pre-enroll at this time. These children must be six years old on or before Sept. 30.

Parents are asked to bring their child's birth certificate and immunization records at the time of pre-enrollment. Vision and hearing examinations will be administered by school nurses. In addition, a speech therapist will test children for speech difficulties.

National Parks in Canada cover approximately 48,000 square miles.

Water Shortage Big Problem

Ready and Waiting

Pettis County firemen Howard Teague, left, and Bob Paxton relax in the kitchen of the fire station. There are times when the fires are few and far between and boredom is one of the worst enemies a fireman has to face. (Democrat-Capital Photos)

By DAVID HAMBY
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

On March 5, 1973, a fire of undetermined origin destroyed the trailer home of the Donald E. Williams family in Crestview Trailer Court, East Highway 50. The Pettis County Fire Department almost had the fire under control when the firemen's 500 gallon supply of water ran out. The firemen took their truck to the Sedalia airport to refill the tank, and by the time they had returned the blaze had started up again and destroyed the trailer.

The files of the fire department show that the loss of a home or barn due to an inadequate water supply is not an unusual occurrence.

On April 10, 1971, two barns on the Parkhurst farm were burned out and it was noted in the day's log that "lack of water was a great handicap."

The county fire department responded to a call at the Gerald Meyer Farm, Aug. 17, 1971, and reported that the home and garage were "lost from lack of water."

The records for Jan. 22, 1972 show that a partially-constructed home in "Monsees Estates" on Route O was a "total loss — ran out of water." The firemen had to go to Smithton to refill their water tank and by the time they had returned, the building had been destroyed.

More than a dozen buildings have been lost because firemen ran out of water, records going back to early 1971 show.

Need Improvements

The fire department wants more men and better equipment. The firehouse on west Main contains basically the same equipment it started out with when the department was created in December, 1955.

Built at a cost of $17,793.64, the concrete and brick building consists of an engine room with accommodations for one truck; sleeping quarters with two beds; a small kitchen (added on later) with a refrigerator and a stove that was donated; and a lounge area containing a desk, couch, two chairs and a television set.

The fire department is responsible for a 720 square mile area in Pettis County, including, on occasion, Sedalia and 1,347 acres of property in smaller communities. The burden of responsibility falls on five men who say they are underpaid. They use one fire truck, purchased in 1968, that still has the original hoses from 1955. The front-mounted pump can put out 450 gallons of water a minute. The department's firefighting equipment is rounded out by a jeep, donated to the department by the Forestry Service in Jefferson City. The jeep is capable of carrying 100 gallons of water.

Robert Paxton, 712 East 18th, a fireman with more than 13 years experience, said, "As far as the men themselves are concerned, it's a good fire department. But as far as the equipment goes, it isn't as good as it should be. I think we should have at least one more truck and use the present one as an auxiliary truck and tanker."

The firemen agree that a new 1,000 gallon firetruck is needed to bolster the department's fire-fighting capabilities. The present firehouse should be expanded, they say, to accommodate two trucks, and at least two extra men should be hired to provide enough manpower.

Morale Takes Beating

Fire Chief Robert Sisemore, Route 4, stated that the morale of the department occasionally suffers when a house is lost due to lack of water. "When you fight a fire for more than 2½ hours and then lose it because you run out of water, that man isn't going to thank you," said Sisemore. "We could save 50 per cent of what we're losing now with better equipment."

Although the pay is relatively low, starting at $396.94 a month for firemen, wages do not seem to be the main cause for low morale.

The judges of the Pettis County Court visited the department not long after the 1972 elections, toured the facilities, and were given a list of changes firemen think should be made. The judges promised action.

"It's been almost four months now," said one fireman, "and so far, nothing. They've just talked so far."

"We're doing a hell of a job for what we've got," said another. "I think we could do much better, though, if we had better equipment, but I don't know if they (judges) will let us have it. The roof of the courthouse seems more important now than somebody's home out in the county."

Changes Coming

Presiding Judge Harry Walch said the fire department would be given new equipment. According to Walch, the building will be expanded to house another truck and the department will receive a new 1,000 gallon-capacity truck. He said other equipment would be updated and there should be no problem in providing more men.

"We're going to get with it just as quickly as we can," Walch said. "It will be in the near future, hopefully by this summer."

Walch indicated that money for improving the department would come out of revenue sharing funds. That would include the salaries of any new men hired. However, he could not estimate how much the renovations might cost.

Walch said the fire department was "stretching the general budget so badly that it's hard to keep up with it." It cost nearly $25,000 to operate the station last year, including $20,422.98 in salaries and $3,375.57 for general expenses, such as gasoline and maintenance supplies, according to courthouse records. These funds for expenses came out of general revenue.

There are no county statutes authorizing the organization of a county fire department. According to Judge E. L. (Red) Birdsong, one of the three judges who established the department in 1955, the fire station "was requested by many people in the rural areas so we did not worry about the legality of it so much as we did the necessity of it. We already had the land, so all we had to do was build the firehouse and get the equipment. It went over real smooth."

The department has responded to 3,467 calls from 1955 through March, 1973. From January, 1971, through March, 1973, the department responded to 442 fire alarms. Of that number, 89 fires were structural and in 41 cases, or almost 45 per cent, the buildings were lost, often due to lack of water. The jeep is used to a large extent to fight grass or timber fires, of which there were 266 during that same 1971-72 period. Water in these cases is always in short supply and many times the two men on duty are forced to fight the fire with rakes and shovels.

No Training Given

The training received by county firemen is nonexistent According to Paxton, when a new man is hired, "all they do is walk you around the truck and show you how to start it. We have no books to learn from and no type of formal training. Sure, you get on-the-job training, but there's really not that many fires to get in a lot of experience in a hurry."

Ronnie Ollison, 20, who has been with the department less than a year, would like to have some type of formal training, including textbooks, but he doesn't feel that it is entirely necessary. "You don't learn anything from a book that is anything like a real fire because no two fires are the same," said Ollison. "The best way to learn is to be there."

The men also recieve no first-aid training, and, according to Paxton, "even our first-aid kit isn't complete."

The firemen point out that it is hard enough for only two men to fight a fire. If first-aid is ever required, one man would have to leave the fire, increasing the risk of losing a building. This, the firemen feel, is another reason for having a third man per shift, allowing at least one man to be trained in first-aid.

Mayor's Son Joins Insurgents, Splits Family

By ARNOLD ZEITLIN
Associated Press Writer

JOLO, Philippines (AP) — The prospect of civil war among Moslems of this embattled southern Philippine island already has shattered families, but none more dramatically than that of the mayor of Jolo, Barlie Abubakar.

While Abubakar, 50, struggles to prevent war from erupting around this capital of the Sulu archipelago, his son, Nizam, 26, is a leader of the youthful insurgents who say they are fighting for Moslem secession.

"My son is there in the hills, and he is fighting," the father said. "I have requested him to leave. As a father, I can not kill my son.

"I wrote him that his mother was ill. He did not come. I finally took his mother to the place where he is in the mountains. But he said he would not be the first one to surrender. I had to pry his mother's fingers, one by one, from around his arm when we left, she was holding him so tightly.

"Then he went up the mountain, and I went down the mountain."

The Abubakars' problem is a capsule illustration of the strains among families and between generations in the struggle in the heavily Moslem areas of Sulu and Mindanao provinces.

While the army, backed by some Moslem civilian officials and many Christian residents of the area, has threatened to wipe out the rebels, Abubakar has been a leading advocate of peaceful talks for a nonviolent solution.

"I am suspected, I know," said the four-term mayor of this ancient town. "I expose myself to suspicion because I go out to these insurgents. My going out is not to protect my son. It is to protect the 100,000 people in this Jolo municipality.

"The only solution is to have a dialogue with the insurgents. The way to the solution is not to use guns but to use persuasion."

As a result, when the army told the mayor to enlist 50 men in a Sulu self-defense unit to fight the insurgents, he recruited no one.

"I gathered all my people, and they were against the idea," he said. "They did not want Moslems to fight Moslems. 'What do these people do against us?' they asked. 'They only fight the government.' To these people, the activists are heroes."

The mayor's political career is a further difficulty. He is a member of the Liberal party, the rival to the Nacionalistas of President Ferdinand E. Marcos, who has declared martial law.

"I am against Marcos," said the mayor, whose family traces itself to the original Arab settlers who were believed to have brought Islam to this part of Southeast Asia. "But I also believe that, if he carries out what he says he will do under martial law, it will be good for the country. I am willing to give him time to carry out his program. I am not a supporter of secession."

Not a high school graduate himself, Abubakar sent his son to the University of the Philippines. Nizam is his eldest child. The mayor also has a daughter who is a nurse and a second son, 6.

In the university in Manila, Nizam came in contact with a Jolo townsman, Nur Miswar, believed to be heading the secessionist movement from an outpost in Sabah, the Malaysian state with close historical, religious and trade links to the Sulu islands.

Nizam first went to Sabah on what was supposedly a trip to the Middle East seeking help for Philippine Moslems who were targets of Christian bandits called Ilagas. He later was the only Moslem among 27 young Filipinos who visited Peking as part of a cultural exchange, his father said.

Abubakar said Nizam later turned up again in Sabah and wrote home that he was being given military training there. The Filipinos have accused Sabah's chief minister, Tun Mustapha, who was born in the Sulu islands, of backing Moslem secession.

Nizam then turned up in Jolo, his home island, as part of a group the armed forces estimate includes 1,200 armed activists and at least 3,000 unarmed sympathizers.

Says Religion Advancing to New Stage of Vitality

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — As the world's Christians celebrate the climactic event of their faith this Sunday, one of the religion's foremost American teachers sees signs it is advancing to a new stage of vitality and scope.

"This is an age in which man is exploring his inner self and the whole spiritual dimension of experience," says the Rev. Dr. James I. McCord, a Presbyterian who is president of Princeton Theological Seminary. "As I see it, today is as much an age of faith as any we've ever known."

Although church institutions are having difficulties and are discounted by some critics as dying relics, Dr. McCord thinks it is only the outward "stalk" that is shriveling, but the "seedbeds" are germinating new life.

"Read history, and as every stage closes, the church is seen as ready to be swept away," he said in an interview for Easter Sunday. "But every time, in every new age, there she is again, fresher, leaner, purer, ready to go again ...

"Among young people of high school and college age today, there are far stronger religious impulses stirring them I've seen in 30 years of teaching.

"If the organized church can relate to the varied, stirring religious impulses that have become so extensive, if it can train and in a sense culture the vine into healthy directions, we may be on the verge of a great new chapter in church history."

At 53, Dr. McCord is a sharp theologian and educator. He has held the Princeton post 14 years and is a roving church emissary attuned to the moods of both the younger and older generations.

Here are some other comments in the question and answer session:

Q. How do you view the status of Christianity now, compared with the past?

A. It's easy to be romantic about previous ages, but there is much evidence of a revival of faith in our age. The motivation of the counterculture is strongly religious. There is a strong demand for quality and a strong desire for depth of religious experience.

Q. Isn't some of this new religious searching taking rather divergent twists, as in the wave of Oriental cults, seances and parapsychology?

A. In some ways, it takes bizarre and erratic forms, but the important thing is that the quest is there. William James was right—man is incurably religious. At present, people feel that culture has been so objective, scientific and secular that it has squeezed out the spiritual dimension and left them without any interior at all. They're trying in many ways to regain that sense of life's inner validity and purpose.

Q. But isn't historic Christianity itself slipping?

A. Interestingly, there's much less talk recently of a post-Christian age. For one thing, it is increasingly recognized that many parts of the world still are pre-Christian and that the church is experiencing phenomenal growth in such places as Korea, Indonesia and East Africa, to name a few. Another thing is that the churches in Eastern Europe have demonstrated a tremendous staying power. They simply haven't disappeared as was predicted, but have real, enduring vitality.

Q. What about statistical trends in Western Europe and America where church growth has slowed to nearly a standstill, and in some cases, has declined?

A. What this means is that the churches in the West have not yet really adjusted to the new situation in the world. To an extent, they lost their initiative and tended more to react to their environment than act in it. What I see coming now is a revival of the theological perspective that will put human life and human history in the perspective of God at work in history. This is something that has been lost largely because so much of our theological thought had become simply that of adaptation to modern culture and secularity.

Q. Would you elaborate a bit on this emerging kind of theology?

A. There is evidence of a theology that is far more robust, that captures the full dimensions of the Christian message. That's one reason the "theology of hope" has caught on so widely in this country. Previously, much of the popular theology had left this generation divorced from the past and without a future because of all the radical threats that stood over it—nuclear devastation, starvation, ecological disaster, genetic control. A world seen in those terms is a world of apocalypse.

Q. Is there not a good deal of that escapist, end-of-time attitude nowadays?

A. There's a strong streak of it. It produces phenomena like "The Late Great Planet Earth," a hugely selling book that comes close to setting the date for the end. It suggests God has a master calendar for it. But this also is part of the quest for some knowledge and kinship to a real future, some sense of hope.

Are the churches harnessing the new interests?

A. What has gone on in the church institutions is like a plant that goes to seed. When it goes to seed, the stalk shrivels. We're seeing the stalk—the agencies, boards, the superchurch—shrivel. But the seedbed is in the congregations.

Ten or 15 years ago, everybody said the parish is dead. Today, everything else is dead and the parish is the thing that's alive. This parallels the phenomenon of localism in politics. Partly it's a retreat from over-all, absolutist solutions. Now there is a far more sober realization that we have to rebuild communities at the local level.

Q. But isn't a good deal of religious energy being deflected away from these traditional congregations into a variety of other sorts of religion, like Zen, glossolalia, encounter groups, witch covens and the like?

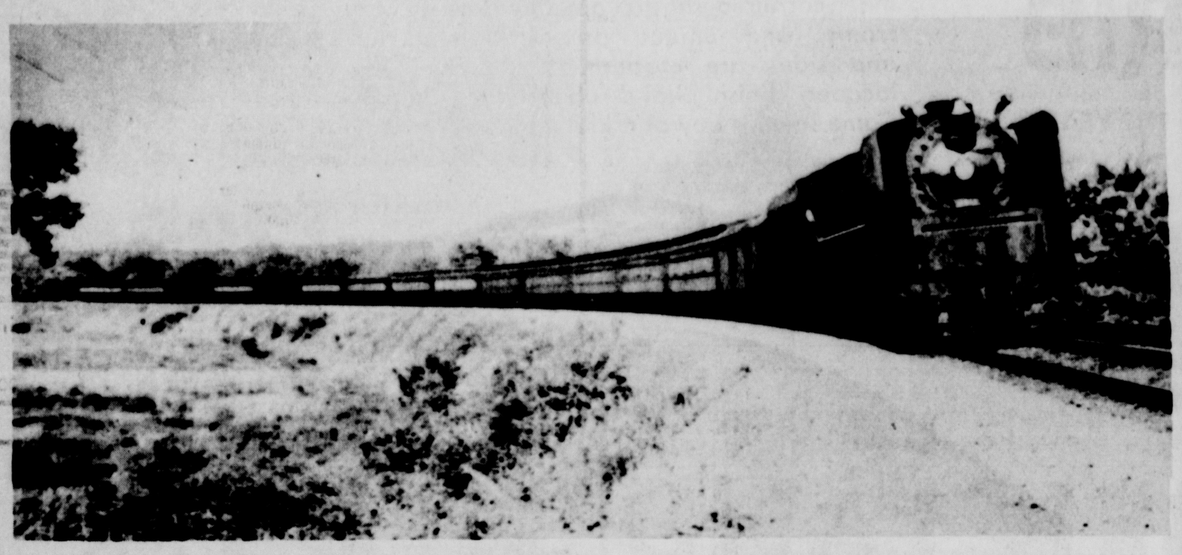
A. Variety is something that is sought these days. Different kinds of religious experience is considered good in a culture like ours. Some of it is of dubious value. It puts a great emphasis on personal experience. This emphasis on experience always is strong when the question is one of credibility, and that's been the question of our time. The one thing that people can believe, that is credible, is what is experienced.

Q. Considering these tendencies, is there a possibility faith might be scaled down to a kind of personal emotional realm apart from the whole of life?

A. In every period of cultural romanticism, one of its characteristics is a return to the primitive, to the simple emotional life, as over against the difficult, disciplined, reasoning life. But everybody knows that tomorrow we're going to require more discipline, more knowledge, more hard work. We just haven't yet summoned up the psychic energy for it. It's far easier to dream of Consciouness III. But I think we're in for what Peter Berger called the "bluing" of America that will take over from the "greening" romantics through the impact of a rising group of blue-collar offspring with discipline, will and a sense of direction.

Q. Psychologists these days speak of a prevalent "existential vacuum," a sense of pointlessness about life. Has this stimulated the new inner concerns?

A. Indeed, the vacuum does exist. One thing we ought to expect from our faith is a structure of meaning, purpose and direction. However, in the church's previous inclination to adapt to secular culture, some of Christianity's foundational material was drained away. Youth especially now are seeking that center, and if they don't find it in the faith of their parents' generation, they'll seek it in Eastern faiths. Many find it in fervid fundamentalism.



Steam Is Back

For the first time in 20 years, the deep-throated sound of a steam locomotive will reverberate along the tracks of the Delaware and Hudson Railway. The special train, to commemorate the 150th anniversary of the rail line, will be the first since 1953, when the company last ran steam-powered trains. Hauled by a powerful 4-8-4 unit, like the one shown here in a 1949 photo, the 22-car train will go to Montreal and return. (UPI)

Chinese Hold Pilot Sought In Bombing

TOKYO (AP) — A renegade air force captain who tried to bomb Cambodian President Lon Nol's palace last month, killing more than 40 persons, is in Peking, the official Chinese news agency said Saturday.

Hsinhua quoted the man, So Potra, as urging his former fellow officers to "direct their planes against the handful of traitors whose chieftain is Lon Nol—to bomb them to pieces."

Potra flew his stolen fighter to Communist-held areas of Cambodia after his March 17 one-man attack and then flew to China's Hainan Island.

Two 250-pound bombs he dropped from the plane missed the presidential palace in Phnom Penh but hit a nearby barracks and military area.

Club Sandwich 'Victory'

By MICHAEL A. PIEDMONTE

There is no need to fear the club sandwich. Just follow the simple directions below:

When picking up a sandwich half, grasp it firmly on top with your eight fingers. Place your thumbs horizontally along the bottom to cover as much surface as possible. Don't use the tips of your thumbs as props to support the weight of the sandwich. It will not work!

This positioning done, you will discover you cannot fit the sandwich into your mouth. Your teeth, at best, will separate only an inch to two inches. You are not a reptile.

A sandwich press is necessary. This means a return trip to the plate because the press is accomplished with the palm of the hand pressed firmly on the top of the sandwich.

Now the sandwich will fit into your mouth. Unfortunately, however, several tomato slices, chicken chunks, and loose lettuce are lost to the pressing demands of the moment. No matter. They can be eaten separately, perhaps with a fork or even picked at with the fingers depending on whom you are with at the time. The important thing is that at least now the sandwich fits. People are beginning to line up waiting for tables.

This tricky feat of getting the sandwich into your mouth accomplished, you are now ready to take your first bite. Proceed with caution! You can never be really sure of the location of the embedded toothpick. Then there are the tomato slices. When you bite into the sandwich, the tomato slice may not be quite severed enough to free itself from the part remaining in the sandwich. This remaining piece is dragged from the sandwich and now hangs from your mouth against your chin. With luck, the weight of the slice may cause it to merely fall from the sandwich to your plate to join the fragments accumulated there.

At this point, you have taken only one small bite from your sandwich half but already only a few of the originally stuffed contents are intact and in place.

The only major obstacle remaining is the plastic toothpick that now must be removed. Once again, retreat to the plate. Performed in mid air, this delicate operation of removing what has now become the spine of a crumbling body would prove disastrous.

With crumbs literally sprinkled over plate, napkin, tablecloth, and you; with chicken fragments and tomato seeds floating in your coffee; and, with mayonnaise smeared on your chin and cheeks, you can now enjoy what remains of the first half of your club sandwich.

Of course, you still have the second half to go.

Placing the Blame For Any Successes

By JULES LOH

They probably wish they had never sent a man to the moon. They probably also wish they couldn't fly across the country in four hours. There are other successes they probably also regret but I'm sure they view those two as their worst.

Don't you suppose they often say to themselves, tearing their hair, "Oh, why did we ever send a man to the moon!" "Oh, why did we ever make jets that can fly across the country in four hours!"

Everybody is down on them for it.

Every time somebody tries to sharpen a pencil, for example, they have to hear it again: "Good lord, if they can put a man on the moon you'd think they could make a decent pencil sharpener."

Or, "My god, if they can fly to the opposite coast in four hours you'd think they could get me to work on time in a city bus."

Don't you suppose they're tired of everybody rubbing it in?

Looking at it from a humane point of view, I have a proposal.

I propose that from now on, whenever the red tab on the cellophane wrapper does not release the crackers, whenever the flash bulb does not go off, whenever the metallic voice says the circuits are busy, whenever the plastic tip comes off the shoelace, whenever the umbrella won't stay up or the stamp won't stick, or the drinking fountain won't squirt, I propose that from now on we should blame it on one of their other successes.

They have many. They have laser beams, speed reading courses, washable crayons, self-winding watches, tie-dyed bluejeans — lesser successes, admittedly, but successes none the less which ought to share the blame.

Haven't they suffered enough for moon visiting and jet flying?

Store Heavily Damaged By Wild Deer

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Three deer leaped through the plate glass windows of a department store in suburban Boardman and stampeded in the aisles.

Several employes and shoppers suffered minor injuries Friday when hit by flying glass or frightened deer. And the deer were cut by the glass.

One of the deer jumped back through the window and ran off with a fourth deer that had stayed outside. The other two animals were destroyed.

Officials said the store, in a busy commercial area, was a shambles but no damage estimate was available.

Scrubbed Services

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — An Easter Sunday service at the Old Stone Church in downtown Cleveland has been canceled by the pastor because the Cleveland Indians are to play a baseball doubleheader.

Dr. Raymond Lewis said the 9:30 a.m. service was dropped because it would be difficult to get that group out quickly enough to get the 11 a.m. group in.

The pastor said the 11 a.m. service would be held but the parking lot must be cleared by noon so baseball fans can use it.

Plastic 'Ice'

Jean Abbott, a technician at the Otis Elevator Co., factory in Yonkers, N.Y., displays what appears to be frozen electronic circuit boards. Actually, the 'icicles' are hardened drippings of the plastic used to protect finished components from dust and dirt. The excess plastic is removed before the circuit boards go into a special computer which controls the firm's new VIP-260-CL elevator system for medium and high-rise buildings. (UPI)

The Sedalia Symphony Orchestra
PRESENTS
The Final Concert of the 38th Consecutive Season with ABE ROSENTHAL conducting
MONDAY EVENING, APRIL 23
8 P.M. Smith-Cotton High School Auditorium
GUEST ARTIST
MIMI ALLEN
HARPIST

Miss Allen is noted as both a classical and a jazz harpist, and has performed with both symphony orchestras and in jazz recitals. She is also known as a speaker and music educator, and has presented two CBS television shows, one on the harp in jazz and the other on George Gershwin.

For four years she was an associate of Carlos Salzedo, and toured with his concert ensemble. She is a consultant in the music department of Stephens College, Columbia, and is a master teacher of harp.

Mimi Allen is one of the few harpists to be recognized in the international edition of "Who's Who in Music" as a performer, teacher and arranger.

In her concert appearance here, Miss Allen will play selections by the Spanish composers Albeniz and Salzedo, and six numbers by Gershwin.

During the first segment of the program she will also play Introduction and Allegro, by Ravel, accompanied by Stuart Smith, pianist.

Integration Is Opposed Here

Democrat-Capital readers who responded to last Sunday's survey opposed, by 90 per cent, a plan to integrate the city's public elementary schools.

The question was: "The Board of Education has revealed details of its plan to integrate the elementary schools in the district. Do you approve of this plan."

One reader responded, "These colored children have a nice school and teachers and if they want to learn they can. Mixing the children won't make things any better for the white or the colored. I feel like the colored people would rather have their children go closer to their home.

"There will be trouble. I don't feel that this is the people's wishes," he said.

In slightly stronger language, one respondent wrote, "The plan to integrate the elementary schools is one of the worst things that could happen. I think the best way is for each of us white and blacks to have their own schools. I don't think the kids are going to be happy and I know the parents are not satisfied with such a plan."

A reader who approved of the proposal said, "With black children being introduced to the all-white schools, it is important that parents and teachers cooperate to work out arrangements so that children begin to know one another as individuals rather than unknown groups to be attacked or to defend oneself against."

She added, "There are some attitudes that will never change, but that doesn't mean we can't start the children of today out on the right foot. It is time now to look forward, and with healthy attitudes we can have a better society and a better community in which to live."

One final subscriber wrote, "No, I do not believe in integration of our schools. We never heard of any kind of trouble until the schools were integrated. White and black are two different races and mix about as well as oil and water. There will always be . . . hatred as long as the two races are thrown together."

DEMOCRAT-CAPITAL SURVEY

QUESTION — It was recently announced that an Older Adults Transportation Service will soon begin operations in a 16-county area, including Pettis County. The service is open to all persons over age 55 and to all handicapped people regardless of age. Do you favor such a plan?

Hopes For Quiet Weekend

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — Leaving his three top assistants in Washington, President Nixon is at his bayside home here for what he says he hopes will be a quiet Easter weekend with his family.

Missing from the presidential entourage were H. R. Haldeman, Nixon's closest personal aide; domestic policy assistant John D. Ehrlichman, and foreign policy adviser Henry A. Kissinger.

Haldeman and Ehrlichman often have accompanied Nixon on holiday trips to Florida and Southern California, sometimes bringing their families. Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, who did fly South with Nixon, explained their absence by saying they were spending Easter with their families.

Kissinger, another frequent traveler with Nixon, will address The Associated Press annual luncheon in New York Monday.

Arriving at nearby Homestead Air Force Base Friday afternoon, Nixon was asked by newsmen about the Watergate inquiries. He did not respond.

Ziegler said the President wound up a cabinet meeting in Washington earlier in the day by pointing out "that he had instructed everyone in the White House and government to cooperate fully with the on-going investigation by the grand jury." Ziegler quoted Nixon as saying "the objective is to develop facts and the entire truth of the matter."

Before leaving Washington, Nixon had a telephone conference with Asst. Atty. Gen. Henry E. Petersen who is directing the Justice Department's Watergate inquiries.

More Pentagon Testimony

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A former Defense Department official has testified that Daniel Ellsberg said in the spring of 1969 that the top secret Pentagon papers should be in the public domain.

Ellsberg earlier had testified that he didn't decide to copy the papers until October 1969, while the government contends that Ellsberg intended to copy the papers for release when he first picked them up in March 1969.

Leslie Gelb, a director of the Pentagon task force that produced the study of U.S. involvement in Vietnam, was called as a government rebuttal witness Friday. He said he believed that Ellsberg in the spring of 1969 "said something to the effect that he felt the documents and studies were documents of great importance and should be in the public domain."

Final Check Is Presented From Drive

A check for $202.65, representing the remaining sum of money earned from a wooden nickel sale during the Sedalia Centennial celebration in 1960, was presented Friday to Mayor Jerry Jones for use in Centennial Park.

The presentation was made by Aaron W. Haller, finance chairman of the centennial association, and Mrs. Vivian E. Warren, treasurer of the association.

Added to the $14,683.78 earlier presented by the association, the total amount of funds derived from the wooden nickel sale is $14,886.43.

Jones indicated Friday he did not yet know for what purpose the funds will be spent.

In 1972 Canada had 47.35 telephones per 100 population.

All That's Left

This is one of approximately 50 automobiles that was destroyed in the tornado which killed one person and did extensive property damage in Harrison, Ark., Friday morning. Damage estimates are not yet available although about 200 buildings were damaged or destroyed. (UPI)

Complains of Being Hit By Brick Wall

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Paul Jones, 22, told police he was driving along minding his own business when his station wagon was hit by a brick wall.

An investigation by police officers showed Jones' vehicle indeed was struck when a line of old buildings being demolished collapsed Friday, sending hundreds of bricks flying into the street.

BUREAU OF ENGRAVING AND PRINTING

Lots of Cash

This $100,000 gold certificate, series 1934, is the largest denomination of paper currency ever authorized to be printed. Gold certificates of the 1934 series in $100, $1,000, $10,000 and $100,000 denominations are issued only to federal reserve banks against an equal amount of gold bullion held by the Treasury Department, for certain credits established between the U.S. Treasurer and the banks.

$100,000 Bill Is Set for Show Here

In case you've never seen a billion dollars, all in one place, the opportunity will present itself in Sedalia next month.

On May 5-6 the Bureau of Engraving and Printing of the U.S. Treasury Department will bring its "Billion Dollar Display" here. It will be set up in Convention Hall in Liberty Park in conjunction with the 15th annual Central Missouri Coin Club show.

The display will feature a billion dollars in U.S. currency dating back to 1863. Exhibited will be uncut sheets of currency as they come from the press, examples of ornate currency from the 19th century, and a display of counterfeit bills.

A $100,000 bill, the largest denomination ever produced in this country, also will be exhibited.

Bill Hert, 706 West Fourth, a director of the Coin Club, arranged with James A. Conlon, director of the Treasury Department, for the exhibit to come to Sedalia. "In the past the Billion Dollar Display has been limited mainly to larger cities," said Hert. "It was a lucky break to obtain it here."

The display is 75 feet long, and will be guarded by Treasury security agents. Representatives of the Treasury Department also will be available to answer questions. Hours will be from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. on May 5, and from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. the following day.

Admission will be free.

Favors Further Probe of Long's Death

BOWLING GREEN, Mo. (AP) — The body of former U.S. Sen. Edward V. Long should be exhumed and examined, says J.O. Mudd, Pike County coroner, who signed the death certificate Nov. 6.

"If there's foul play involved, we certainly have to get to the bottom of it," said Mudd, who stated on the certificate the cause of death had been a stroke or "a cerebral vascular accident."

Authorities are investigating a report from Miss Helen Dunlop, Long's secretary and companion, that the late Missouri Democrat told her minutes before his death he thought he had been poisoned.

Long thought the poison was in candy given him by a Clayton, Mo., man, whose name has not been revealed.

Mudd said Friday he will confer with Thomas Osborne, a prosecuting attorney from Audrian County, who has been appointed special prosecutor to investigate Long's alleged murder.

Mudd said a county grand jury could be called and could ask for the court to order Long's body exhumed and examined.

The former senator's widow, Florence Long, who Friday filed a $3.25 million alienation of affection suit against Miss Dunlop, said she could see no reason to object to having the body exhumened.

"There is no reason for me to object to this. Had we had any suspicion at the time he died that he was poisoned we would have had the proper examination made then," she said.

Mrs. Long said she was "shocked" by the poison report which was contained in a letter to authorities written by Miss Dunlop four months after his death.

Long's son-in-law, Frank Miller, called the report of Miss Dunlop's account "questionable."

"He was constantly being checked by his physician for high blood pressure. He was heavy, you know, about 100 to 110 pounds overweight," Miller said.

Speaking for himself, Miller said he would have no objections to exhumation.

Osborne, who agreed April 10 to investigate the circumstances of Long's death, said a break-in at Long's Brookhill Farm home two days after Long's death was also being investigated. Vandals caused about $5,000 damage during the break-in but apparently took little of value.

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Harris Jr., the farm's caretakers who were present the night Long died, said they had been told by Osborne not to speak with newspaper reporters.

Osborne explained that he did not want "to try this case in the newspapers."

Mrs. Long's suit, which was filed in Pike County Circuit Cosrt, claimed Miss Dunlop "intentionally and wrongfully gained the affections" of her late husband

The suit charged that Miss Dunlop "willfully and wrongfully ...did carry on criminal conversation and carnally know Edward V. Long" between the years of 1968 and 1971.

Sought in the petition by Mrs. Long was $2.25 million in actual damages and $1 million in punitive damages. She filed for separate maintenance from her husband in June of 1972, charging he had abandoned her the previous month.

Long had served in the Senate from 1960 until 1968. He had been a state senator for 11 years and served one term beginning in 1956 as the state's lieutenant governor.

After his death, Miss Dunlop, who had been employed by Long for 26 years, was named executrix of his estate in Long's will, but the status is being challenged in probate court litigation filed by Mrs. Long, her daughter and her son-in-law.

Mrs. Long and her daughter, Mrs. Frank Miller, were left $10 each in the will. Long's granddaughter, 5-year-old Ann Miller, is to receive half of an estate estimated to exceed $2 million when she is 20 and the remainder when she is 30.

Mrs. Long has also charged in a petition that Miss Dunlop and two other employes of the late senator "have concealed or embezzled or otherwise unlawfully held" his property. The charges were contained in a petition to determine assets in the Long estate.

Miss Dunlop admitted in depositions her signing of papers for Mrs. Long, her daughter and son-in-law but said she had received oral permission to do so.

Osborne said authorities are also trying to determine if there is any criminal wrongdoing in any of Long's other tangled affairs. The Internal Revenue Service is investigating the assets of Long's estate.

Say Drive For Amtrak Progressing

Darryl Swaim and Hank Monsees, co-chairmen of the Realtors to Save Amtrak Committee, told members of the Sedalia Board of Realtors at their monthly meeting Thursday at State Fair Restaurant that the drive has gained support on a state and national level.

Local sororities, businessmen and professional groups have indicated their firm support in the program, Monsees and Swaim told the group.

It was also announced at the meeting that Monsees had been elected state director of the Missouri Real Estate Association for the 1974 term.

Bob Jones, chairman of Multilist, reported that the service has $1,500,000 in property listed and that it is functioning satisfactorily.

Guest speaker at the meeting was Mrs. Nellie Iman, regional vice-president of the Missouri Real Estate Association. Mrs. Iman discussed the new national and state programs that will be introduced next year.

It was also announced at the meeting that Dale Maggard has joined the organization.

Nixon Asks Federal Judge To Stay Order

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has asked a federal judge to stay an order for the acting director of the Office of Economic Opportunity to halt his dismantling of the agency.

The stay was requested Friday by the Justice Department.

U.S. District Court Judge William B. Jones ruled April 11 that only Congress could phase out a program it had funded and mandated, a description that covers OEO.

The Justice Department asked Jones to allow acting director Howard Phillips to proceed with the scheduled April 28 closing of 10 regional OEO offices and the shifting of some programs to other agencies.

Funding for OEO runs out in June, but Phillips proposes to phase out the agency before then.

Jones was asked to delay the effective date of his order until the cases involved in the OEO closures can be decided by appeals court. The administration, however, has not indicated whether it will appeal.

The hake, a family of marine fish closely related to the cod, is a source of annoyance to salmon fishermen because of net damage.

Level Generosity Accusation

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Gov. Christopher S. Bond says the Missouri House has been too generous in approving appropriations for the 1973-74 siscal year.

The House appropriations chairman says the governor's staff got its figures wrong.

Bond said in a speech at Moberly Thursday night that the House has "approved new spending programs which exceed by more than $50 million the funds available in the coming year."

"Irresponsible spending is not what the people of Missouri expected when they voted for reform," the governor said.

"The people of Missouri are not getting irresponsible spending from the legislature," Rep. James "Jay" Russell, D-Florissant, the House appropriations chairman, said Friday.

"What they are getting," he said, "is irresponsible reporting from the governor's office whose own budget request was 56 per cent higher than that of the former governor."

Last week the House approved six bills in the governor's budget requests for the 1973-74 fiscal year. They totaled $721 million from general revenue (taxes).

So far, the money approved by the House is running about $3 million ahead of the governor's recommended expenditures from the general fund, an aide for Russell said.

If the House approves the rest of Bond's recommendations, Russell said, there still would be $74 million in the general fund balance.

Aside from appropriations, Russell said, 11 bills have been reported out of the House Economics Committee for new spending programs and the total cost of these bills is $12.3 million from state tax money.

18-Month Journey Is Over for Bottle

PETALUMA, Calif. (AP) — The bottle Jack Brewer tossed into the Pacific Ocean at Pt. Reyes on the California coast 18 months ago has been found in the Philippines.

Jack, a 15-year-old Petaluma High School student, reports he recently received a letter from Cecilia Escuyos, who said she found the bottle and its note on a beach near her home.

Cecilia wrote that she lived at Pilar, Surigao del Morte, the Philippines.

Ann Landers

Ann Stands By Her First Answer

Dear Ann Landers: Little Miss Innocence who signed her letter "Shattered In Sheboygan" didn't fool me for a minute. How come a hip chick like you got taken in? She complained because after two years of hoping he would notice her, she finally got asked out for a date. So what does he do? He takes her to a drive-in, gets bored with the movie and goes on the make. She gives him that well-known Virgin's Stare, and a fat lip, breaking his glasses in the bargain. The question arises: Who is going to pay to fix the specs?

After two years, how did she get him to notice her? I'll bet she wiggled past him at every opportunity and posted "I'm ready" signs in every direction. When he finally takes the bait she clobbers him. I am of the opinion that "she who advertises should produce." I dare you to print this. — Tortured In Oxnard

Dear Torch: I would not deny the possibility that the girl gave the guy the come-on. There are plenty of aggressive little females loose these days and sometimes the fella is the victim.

In this particular case I got no such vibes. I can't look inside people's heads. All I can do is evaluate the situation based on the facts as they are presented to me, flip on my built-in radar, and lean on 18 years of experience. I say he got fresh and she belted him and he should pay for his own glasses.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have just had our first argument. We were married last week.

My mother-in-law has requested that we give her a list of the gifts we received including the cash. She says she wants to know who gave what.

I say it is none of her business. My husband is siding with his mother. You are going to make the final decision. — Trouble In Paradise.

Dear T.: It is not out of line for your husband's mother to want to know who gave what. "How much," however, IS none of her business. A list of the gifts should be sent to her, but the cash gifts should be listed simply as "cash."

Dear Ann Landers: Something has been bothering me for a long time and I've been meaning to write to you about it. Today is the day I put my good intentions down on paper and mail them.

Whenever I go to the laundromat I see small children who are forced to sit still while their parents do the wash. These little ones, often preschoolers, have too much energy and too short an attention span to behave like little angels for an hour or more. When they get restless the parents become upset and yell and sometimes they even spank them for being "naughty."

When I witnessed such a scene yesterday (for the 50th time) I went over to the mother and tried to explain that she is expecting too much — that the child should have a toy or a coloring book, something to keep him occupied. I was told to "shut up and mind my own business."

If any parent who reads this feels guilty, I'm glad — provided he learns something. — Columbus, Ohio Reader

Dear C.R.: Me, too. Thanks for writing.

New Trombone King?

Kevin Brando is out of diapers and into Dixieland. But, the two and one-half-year-old was only 16 months when he first picked up his brother's trombone and blew his first note. Since then he has learned "Jingle Bells," "The Star Spangled Banner" and a little Dixieland. Kevin uses an unsocked foot to balance his trombone as he plays. (UPI)

Acupuncture History Is Made in Nevada

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — Nevada has become the first state to allow acupuncture without supervision by doctors.

Gov. Mike O'Callaghan termed the bill he signed Friday "landmark legislation" but cautioned against the view that "this represents the ultimate medical panacea."

The bill creates a board of Chinese medicine to oversee acupuncture—use of needles to relieve various ailments—but no doctors are required as board members.

The measure cleared the legislature easily after earlier opposition from medical groups fearing an influx of quacks vanished.

O'Callaghan said there is "great excitement about Chinese medicine in this state and there are high expectations. There is no doubt in my mind that many of those expectations will be met."

AMERICA'S FARMERS AND RANCHERS URGE YOU TO CONSIDER THE WHOLE ISSUE OF FOOD PRICES.

INSTEAD OF LOOKING FOR SOMEONE TO BLAME IN THE PRESENT FOOD PRICE CONTROVERSY, LET'S LOOK FOR WAYS TO UNDERSTAND IT.

The way things are now, nobody's happy. Some people blame the processors for higher prices. But the facts are that processors' profits are held in line by competition, as well as price controls. Meat packers average less than 1¢ profit per dollar of sales. Some others blame the retailers, yet food retailers average less than three-tenths of a cent profit on each dollar of sales. And some consumers blame them all, including the farmer. Nobody's happy. Is one group all to blame? Let's look at all parts of the problem.

Food prices ARE up, no question about it—but the whole cost of living is up. So are wages and salaries. Over the last 20 years, industrial workers have enjoyed a 129% pay hike. Even with food prices moving up 46% during that period, farmers' income has increased only 11% gross.

The cost of PRODUCING food is up, too. Farmers' total costs of producing food have increased 109% over the last 20 years. Taxes are up 297%; labor up 141% and machinery up 100%. On top of all of that, farmers and ranchers are faced daily with the very same cost of living pressures (food, clothing, housing, medical, etc.) we are all feeling.

Are farmers and ranchers entitled to a fair income? Answer quickly. Yes or no? Of course they are—just as we all feel we have earned the right to a decent living. But, did you know, for example, that the average farm family's annual income last year was only about two-thirds of the average industrial worker's?

Yet, the fact is—farmers have increased their productivity more than any other industry. (In just the last 13 years, they've increased productivity over 20%—on 7% fewer acres!) If it weren't for that increased productivity, beef prices might have gone up to match hourly pay increases in industry and cattle would be selling at market for $80 per hundredweight, instead of the recent $45!

So WHO is to 'blame'? Well, it's really not possible to point fingers at middlemen or farmers or truck drivers or anybody—and blame them for food price levels. Food prices are a reflection of our whole booming, inflating economy. And what inevitably follows that economy—a rising demand. Food producers, of course, will increase production as long as they can make a decent living at it. Import controls, price controls and boycotting can affect demand, but in the main, consumer demand is the one factor that sets the price of food at retail. Just as demand and production costs set the price of clothing, housing and everything else.

What's the ANSWER, then? Farmers and ranchers need your support. They're in this squeeze, too. They need time to increase production. They need a stable situation. They need assurance of fair prices for their present livestock. They need reasonable assurance of a market.

Either an extended, one-sided price freeze or unduly continued boycotts can work against production increases.

Thousands of farmers each make their independent business decisions. If, because of uncertainty about the future, each one decides to raise a few less hogs or cattle instead of more, the result will be an even smaller supply of meat a year from now. And that means even higher prices, perhaps a black market, and truly serious meat shortages. Uncertainty has the same depressing effect on decisions to plant grain or other crops.

Understanding and working together does it. It's not easy, but be patient. It takes 27 months to produce a market-ready steer; 9 months to produce a market-ready hog. But farmers are already working on the problem. At the beginning of this year, cattle and calves on hand were up 4 million head, as compared with a year ago. And this year's calf crop will be 5% to 7% over last year's. In addition, farmers now are expected to return to production more than 40 million acres of farmland.

So, with disposable income rising faster than food costs, the consumers' share of income being spent for food will drop again—to an estimated 15.5%. (Compared to 20% in 1960.) And that's good news.

America's farmers and ranchers are, in the main, dedicated to increased production and efficiency. If thoughtful Americans, and the men they send to Washington, will help, farmers can get the job done.

WHY HAS FARMLAND CHOSEN TO SPEAK OUT FOR FARMERS?

Farmland Industries is owned by some half-million families operating farms and ranches in the nation's mid-section. Our owners have felt a growing need to present to the nation their point-of-view on some of the central issues that are vitally important to them as basic food producers. Four years ago, Farmland began speaking out for farmers, presenting balanced reports on issues vital to farmers but perhaps overlooked or misunderstood by the rest of the nation.

No issue we have explored has been more vital to farmers than the subject of this advertisement. We think this message will help you better understand and appreciate the nation's food supply system—and farmers' and ranchers' place in it.

If you have questions or comments, please write to me.

Festival Study Group Is Selected

A six-member steering committee has been appointed by Jake Siragusa, Chamber of Commerce president, to investigate the possibility of holding an annual Scott Joplin Ragtime Festival in Sedalia.

The Chamber board voted unanimously Tuesday to look into such a festival after a presentation by Larry Melton, local Joplin buff.

Melton, 29, told the board a Joplin festival could bring numerous well-known musicians to Sedalia and give the city nationwide recognition as the home of ragtime music. Melton holds B.A. and M.A. degrees in history from Central Missouri State University, and is a leading local authority on Joplin. He helped put together the Joplin display at the Public Library and recently was featured in a KDRO Radio special on Joplin.

Siragusa named Melton chairman of the steering committee, and appointed the following members: Firmin Boul, William C. Hopkins, Doug Kneibert, Gary Edwards and James Denny.

The steering committee will investigate the feasibility of having a Joplin festival and report back to the Chamber board in a few weeks, Melton said.

Drug Haul Is Said To Be The Largest

SAIGON (AP) — A U.S. narcotics official says the seizure of a Thai fishing trawler loaded with raw opium and morphine base possibly was the largest single haul officials ever have made anywhere in the world.

William Cunningham, special agent for the U.S. Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, said on Friday that the seizure included 12,220 pounds of raw opium and 281 pounds of morphine base.

"To my knowledge, this is one of the largest seizures anywhere, possibly the largest," Cunningham told newsmen.

Cunningham said the trawler was seized Thursday in Vietnamese territorial waters but there was no indication it was planning to unload the narcotics in Vietnam.

Cunningham said if the opium were converted to heroin and sold wholesale in New York, the haul would be worth $16.5 million, or about $137 million on the street market.

PRUNE-ENERGY DIET

THE SUCCESSFUL DIET FOR ACTIVE PEOPLE

LOS ANGELES (Special)—The most important key health food known to man, neglected and overlooked by all but a small percentage who know the Hi Energy value of prunes in their daily lives. Heavy abundance of Vitamin C and E plus iron. 100% digestible for all ages. This diet plan works wonders for men, women, children without pills, drugs or exercise.

Prunes give quick vital energy which is crucial in any diet. No tired, dragged-out feeling as with other diets.

10 Lbs. in 10 Days

Those who follow the simple plan exactly as directed, report a loss of 10 pounds in 10 days, starting from the day they begin the diet. There is usually no weight loss for the first 4 days, but suddenly on the 5th day you can expect to drop as much as 5 pounds, and continue to lose about a pound a day up until the 10th day. Thereafter, you'll lose a pound and a half every two days until you reach your proper weight.

Eat Almost All You Want

Better yet, you can still eat almost as much as you want of foods like steak, chicken, lobster. And you will continue to lose weight. Full money back guarantee.

The use of prunes as prescribed by the plan, will, through natural action, act to help your body release excess fat and body fluids, allowing you to keep your weight down and figure in firm control.

THE SEDALIA DEMOCRAT

In Combination With The Sunday Morning Capital

Sedalia, Missouri, Sunday, April 22, 1973—Section B

Diana Jackson - T. W. Preston Wed

Miss Diana Jackson and Thomas W. Preston were united in marriage April 14 at Emmett Avenue Baptist Church by the Rev. Harry A. Moore, uncle of the bride.

Mrs. Richard Harmon was organist and Miss Patty Preston, sister of the groom, was vocalist for the twilight double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Jackson, 415 East Saline, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alva Preston, Buckner.

Decorating the altar was a pair of seven branch candelabra entwined with fern and white satin bows centered by a large emerald palm.

MRS. THOMAS W. PRESTON (Fine Art Studio)
Miss Diana Jackson

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of imported organza and silk floss lace. Silk lace enchanced the bodice, high neckline and empire waist and delicate pleating edged her Renaissance sleeves and encircled the hemline which swept to a chapel train. Her Juliet headpiece of re-embroidered Alencon lace secured her three tier elbow length veiling and the bride carried a Victorian bouquet of marguerite daisies, white sweetheart roses and baby's breath.

Maid of honor was Miss Linda Keele and the bridesmaid was Miss Carla Jackson, cousin of the bride. Both wore long crepe formals of nile green. A band of self-color cluny lace accented the bodice and leg-o-mutton sleeves of each dress which were edged with a tiny lace ruffles. The raised waist fell to a flared skirt and was enchanced with a sash that tied in the back. White hats with nile green ribbon completed their attire.

Junior bridesmaid was Miss Denise Brown, cousin of the bride, and honorary birdesmaid was Miss Jacqueline Helsey. Each attendant carried a nosegay of yellow marguerite daisies and baby's breath tied with yellow streamers.

Miss Janet Wear and Miss Nancy Pritchard, cousins of the bride, were candlelighters and flower girl was Miss Amy Jackson, cousin of the bride, dressed identical to the bridesmaids. She carried a prince basket of yellow rose petals. Rings were carried on a white satin and lace pillow by Vernon Moore, cousin of the bride.

Robert Preston, brother of the groom, was best man and William Campbell, brother-in-law of the groom, was the groomsman. Junior groomsman was Gary Dillion, cousin of the bride, and performing ushering duties were Paul Choplin and Mrs. William Campbell, sister of the groom.

A church reception followed the ceremony where the bride's table was covered with a floor length white lace cloth over mint green satin centered with a two layer wedding cake and garlanded with fern and yellow daisies. Silver candelabra with yellow tapers were on either side.

Serving were Mrs. Price Jackson, Mrs. Harry Moore, Mrs. Donald Brown, Mrs. William G. Bowen, Mrs. Larry Hoover and Mrs. Dennis Raabe, aunts of the bride.

Miss Debbie Preston, sister of the groom, presided at the guest book while gifts were attended by Mrs. Paul Buso and Mrs. Victor Jackson, aunt of the bride.

For traveling on a honeymoon to the Lake of the Ozarks, the bride wore a dress of lavender and white.

The couple will reside in Independence. The groom is employed at the IGA in Buckner.

Mrs. Virgil Moore, 400 East Saline, grandmother of the bride, hosted a rehearsal dinner April 13 at her home.

MRS. GARLAND WRAY JOBE
Miss Lura Lee Dirck

Miss Lura Dirck Is Bride of G. W. Jobe

Bethany Baptist Church formed the setting April 6 for the wedding of Miss Lura Lee Dirck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Dirck Sr., 517 North Prospect, and Garland Wray Jobe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Garland A. Jobe, 615 East 17th.

The Rev. Roger Pickard officiated at the early evening ceremony where Mrs. Tommy McCown was pianist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white full length wedding gown with an empire waist. Long lace sleeves with lace circling the high neckline enhanced the dress and the bridal headdress was a simple cap-like veil with small white bows. The bride carried bouquet of daisies with baby's breath.

Mrs. John R. Dirck Jr., sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor in a pink full length gown with a corsage of white carnations.

Dale Vinson was best man.

For traveling on a honeymoon to an undisclosed destination the bride wore a brown knit dress with white trim.

The couple will reside in Green Ridge where the groom is a self-employed carpenter.

Former Sedalian To Speak At State Convention

A former Sedalian Dr. Lorrene Love Ort, of Bowling Green, Ohio, will address the president's banquet at the 40th annual state convention of Delta Kappa Gamma International to be held April 27 through 29 in Springfield.

Also addressing the convention will be Dr. Mary Frances White, immediate past international president, who will serve as convention consultant and who will speak on the Gandhi philosophy that "A nation's culture resides in the hearts and the soul of its people."

Dr. Leslie Irene Coger, professor of speech and theater, Southwest Missouri State University, Springfield, will address the Sunday breakfast meeting.

Future Brides Announce Spring Engagements

Miss Joy Dene Davis

KANSAS CITY — Mr. and Mrs. Alexander L. Metzler, Kansas City, announce the engagement of their daughter Carol to Capt. Robert Gage, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harlan L. Gage, Versailles, N.Y.

A graduate of Kansas Wesleyan University, Miss Metzler earned a master's degree in English from Central Missouri State University where she is working on a specialist degree in the same field.

Her fiance, a graduate of the State University of New York, College of Environmental Science and Forestry, received a master's in business administration from the University of Missouri at Columbia in 1972 and is serving as a missile launch officer at Whiteman AFB.

A July 21 wedding is planned at the Whiteman Base Chapel.

LaMONTE — Announcement is made by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sparks, LaMonte, of the engagement of their daughter Charla Ann to Alvin A. Jording II, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin A. Jording, 2018 Fairview Court, Sedalia.

Miss Sparks, a 1969 graduate of LaMonte High School and a 1972 graduate of Central Missouri State University, is employed as a second grade school teacher at the R-V School in Houstonia.

Mr. Jording, a 1967 graduate of Smith-Cotton High School, is employed by Duke Manufacturing Company as a production coordinator. He attended Central Missouri State University.

Our Savior Lutheran Church will form the setting June 23 for the couple's exchange of wedding vows.

HUGHESVILLE — Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Wiskur, Hughesville, announce the engagement of their daughter Sonya Marie to Kenneth C. Hampy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Hampy, Smithton.

The bride-elect is a senior at Northwest High School and her fiance is a 1969 graduate of Smithton High School. Mr. Hampy has completed three years of college at Central Missouri State University.

A June wedding is being planned.

The engagement of Miss Patricia Sue Jennings to Ricky Linn Craig is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas N. Jennings, 2025 Fairview Court.

Miss Jennings and her fiance, son of Mrs. Betty Craig, 128 South Park and the late Hayden Craig, are seniors at Smith-Cotton High School. Mr. Craig is co-owner of Craig's DX and U-Haul Service Station.

First Baptist Church will form the setting for the Aug. 4 wedding.

Mrs. Frances George, 1101 New England Drive, announces the engagement of her daughter, Patricia Ann, to Michael M. Fischer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice D. Fischer, 1901 South Prospect. Miss George is also the daughter of the late Robert L. George.

A graduate of Smithton High School and State Fair Community College, the bride-to-be attended Central Missouri State University and is now employed by Insurance of North America in Kansas City.

Mr. Fischer, a 1966 graduate of Sacred Heart High School, served in the U.S. Navy and will be a junior at Central Missouri State University Residence Center in Independence this fall.

An Aug. 25 wedding at Sacred Heart Catholic Church is planned.

CARROLLTON, Ga. — Mrs. Duke Davis Jr., of Carrollton, announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Joy Dene Davis, to Emanuel M. (Skip) Tornquist, III, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Tornquist Jr., 2514 Southwest Blvd., Sedalia.

The bride-elect is a 1970 graduate of Carrollton High School and attends Georgia Baptist School of Nursing where she will graduate in June.

Mr. Tornquist, a 1969 graduate of Smith-Cotton High School, attends the U.S. Military Academy at West Point. He will graduate in June and be commissioned as a lieutenant in the U.S. Army.

The wedding will take place June 30 at Kennedy Chapel in Carrollton.

Button Show To Be Here This Week

The Missouri State Button Society will hold its annual meeting and competitive show Friday, Saturday and Sunday at Bothwell Hotel, it was announced recently.

The show will be open to the public from 1:30 to 5 p.m. Saturday and from 1:30 to 4 p.m. Sunday. There will be no admission charge.

Trays of buttons in all shapes, materials and subjects will be on display. Money, ribbons, cups and trophies will be awarded winning trays.

A banquet will be held Saturday evening at the hotel, with Mrs. Mildred Reid, Kansas City, to be the featured speaker.

A business meeting will be held Sunday morning.

Members of the state society are affiliated with the National Button Society. Herbert Meir, St. Louis, is state president and Miss Enis Sister, Kansas City, is show chairman.

Wedding Vows Spoken by Two

GREEN RIDGE — Wedding vows for Miss Cheryl Lyn Jefcoat and Lynn Eugene Brown were solemnized April 7 at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jefcoat, Green Ridge. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Brown, Ionia.

The Rev. Norman Hardin, uncle of the bride from Hays, Kan., officiated at the double ring ceremony and Miss Phyllis Hardin and Mrs. Pamela Clark, cousins of the bride, provided music and song for the afternoon event.

The altar area was centered with an arch arranged with palm leaves. Two baskets of gladioli and white and yellow daisies were flanked by a pair of seven branched candelabra. Wedding candles were carried by Miss Debra Jefcoat, sister of the bride, and Danny Brown, brother of the groom.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of white bridal satin with a lace empire bodice, low scooped neckline and long lantern sleeves with satin bows. The bride's three tier shoulder length veil of illusion was secured to a satin bow with brocade leaves and pearls. A bouquet of white and yellow daisies was carried by the bride on a white Bible, a gift from her late grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Jefcoat, Sweetwater, Okla.

Her only jewelry was a diamond necklace belonging to her step-mother and her "something borrowed" was a blue garter belonging to the maid of honor's mother, Mrs. Larry Turner.

Miss Jeanie Turner wore a floor length gown of mint green bridal satin with lace empire bodice, low scooped neckline and long lantern sleeves with satin bows for acting as maid of honor. Her headpiece was mint green illusion with satin bows and pearls and she wore a yellow daisy corsage.

Best man was Larry Brown, brother of the groom, and ushering duties were performed by Randy Benton, step-brother of the bride.

A reception followed the ceremony where the bride's table was decorated with a white linen tablecloth and a bouquet of daisies and white sweetheart roses. A pair of two branched candelabra flanked the two tier wedding cake.

Serving were Mrs. Beverly Hoard, sister of the groom, and Mrs. Carol Brown, sister-in-law of the groom.

Mrs. Charlotte Lunsford, step-sister of the bride, was in charge of the guest book and Mrs. Sandra Benton, sister-in-law of the bride, attended the gift table.

Following a honeymoon to an undisclosed destination the couple will reside on Route B in Green Ridge.

Europe's busiest

More than 220,000,000 tons of cargo move each year over the barge-clogged course of Europe's busiest river — the Rhine. A tug may tow a chain of barges nearly a mile long. Some 16,000 vessels jostle each other on the waterway, carrying coal, oil, iron ore, automboiles, cheese, wheat, wine, etc.

Miss Painter, a graduate of Pilot Grove High School, is attending Central Methodist College, Fayette, where she will graduate in May with a bachelor's degree in sociology.

Dr. Rubinski is a graduate of St. Louis University School of Dentistry where he was a member of the Delta Sigma Delta national dental fraternity. He is affiliated with Tate, Rubinski and Associates Inc. at St. Louis.

An Aug. 25 wedding is being planned.

Candlelight Ceremony for Couple

First United Methodist Church formed the setting April 13 for the candlelight wedding of Miss Karen Ann Kraft, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Kraft, Hughesville, to Bruce Randall Bird, son of George Bird, Dodge City, Kan., and Mrs. Ronald Viebrock, 117 South Grand.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Denis R. Craft before an altar decorated by a large pedestal vase of yellow gladioli and orange and yellow majestic daisies. Seven branch candelabra entwined with fern and white satin bows were placed on either side of the altar.

Mrs. Robert Woolery was organist and Steve Gray was vocalist for the evening wedding.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of white voile and cluny lace. Cluny lace formed a high collar and V bib effect on the bodice then banded and softly ruffled at the cuffs of the bishop sleeves. A wide band of lace made its way midway down the full skirt and formed a deep flounce encircling the hemline and cluny lace bordered the edge of her mantilla. The bride carried a Victorian bouquet of white miniature carnations, yellow sweetheart roses and baby's breath tied with lace.

Miss Donna Kraft, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor in a floor length gown of dark brown dotted Swiss, trimmed in white lace and styled in colonial fashion similar to the bride. She wore a white hat accented with yellow daisies at the brim and carried long stemmed yellow and orange majestic daisies with yellow streamers.

Miss Roberta Knight was the bridesmaid, dressed identical to the maid of honor.

Ken Mosier was best man and Bob Kraft, brother of the bride, was groomsman. Performing ushering duties were Bart Bird, brother of the groom, and Fred Kraft, cousin of the bride.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony at the church where the bride's table was covered with beige lace over walnut brown. A three-tiered wedding cake centered the table and on each side silver candelabra held lemon yellow tapers. Orange and white marguerite daisies accented the color scheme.

Serving were Mrs. Judy Runge, Mrs. Vicki Stuart, and Miss Sheryl Wagaman.

Miss Robert Bird and Miss Sandra Bird, sisters of the groom, attended the gift table. Miss Kathy Reynolds, cousin of the bride, attended the guestbook for the wedding and Miss Kay Verts, also a cousin of the bride presided at the guest book at the reception.

For traveling on a honeymoon to southern Missouri, the bride wore a beige and white pant suit with dark brown accessories. She had a yellow sweetheart rose and baby's breath corsage.

The couple will resided at 212½ South Ohio.

The parents of the groom hosted a rehearsal dinner April 12 at Flat Creek Inn.

Explore potential of Joplin festival

The Sedalia Chamber of Commerce is to be applauded for taking the first firm steps toward initiating an annual Scott Joplin Ragtime Festival in Sedalia.

On Tuesday the Chamber board approved setting up a steering committee to look into such a festival. It will report back to the board after investigating several angles and the availability of top ragtime artists.

Although several other cities (Atlanta, St. Louis, Texarkana) already have made their bids for Joplin-ragtime fame, Sedalia unquestionaably has the best claim. It was here that the young Negro composer did his most creative work in the late 1890s, including "Maple Leaf Rag." Sedalia holds the undisputed title as the real Cradle of Classical Ragtime.

We have remarked before about the growing revival of interest in ragtime music, and especially Joplin. Since Joplin is important in the literature of both popular and classical music, mingling as he does elements of both in his works, his whole position in the history of American music is being seriously re-evaluated.

As a result of this trend, and because Joplin is synonymous with Sedalia in the minds of ragtime musicians and scholars alike, there should be no difficulty in generating interest in a Sedalia festival. In fact the idea has been suggested before by respected ragtime figures who have wondered why it hasn't been done before now.

This community has been something less than appreciative of its ragtime heritage in the past, sitting by as others have taken the lead. Now it's time to see what can be done to put Scott Joplin on the map where he belongs — in Sedalia.

We will be eagerly awaiting the report of the steering committee and what it recommends for the first Scott Joplin Ragtime Festival.

His Way

And so He walked across the land
Healing with the touch of His hand,
Giving the warmth that people need
Sowing in hearts always the seed
Of kindness and as He went about
He inspired faith yet increased doubt
For very often the words He spoke
A fear of him awoke,
A fear and hatred of Him spread
Through things He did and things He said,
What was He like, this man of sorrow
Who promised to faithful a glorious tomorrow?
A man of sorrow? Not my belief,
He wasn't a man of sadness and grief,
He liked weddings, feasts and places of fun,
He appealed to children and loved every one,
He was welcome in homes where He'd sit down to eat
Break bread with His friends and share their meat;
Somehow I don't think He'd appeal to a child
If He went around sad, never laughed, never smiled,
He knew the weakness of flesh that too often gives in
To the temptations in life that lead to sin,
He knew well the type who first cast a stone,
The ones who have plenty of sins of their own,
How human He was in the things He would say
In the things that He did as He went 'long His way,
Many stories about Him today are still told
The stray lamb that He brought back to the fold,
The love that He gave, hope he tried to renew,
The kind of a life He urged men to pursue,
Through the man himself life's course is shown
That sets good examples for lives of our own,
The one thing He asked is that God we obey,
A thing to reflect now on this Easter Day.

Merry-go-round

Three spotlighted all Nixon's aides

WASHINGTON — The Watergate web is tightening around three of President Nixon's closest advisers — former Attorney General John Mitchell, former aide Jeb Magruder and White House counsel John Dean.

All three have protested their innocence and the case against them is still largely circumstantial. But witnesses before the grand jury have given secret testimony which darkens the cloud over the trio.

The case against them rests heavily upon Watergate wiretapper James McCord's charge that the burglary-bugging operation was actually planned in Mitchell's Justice Department office by Mitchell, Magruder and Dean, with Watergate ringleader G. Gordon Liddy giving the briefing.

On April 2, we quoted from McCord's confidential, initialed memo that "John Dean, Jeb Magruder, Gordon Liddy and John Mitchell in Feb. 1972 met in Mitchell's office at the Department of Justice and held the first formal discussion of bugging and related operations."

The memo states that Liddy prepared huge four-feet-by-four-feet charts for the meeting. "The charts were brought in late one afternoon and life in (Liddy's) office on the 4th floor wrapped in brown paper," McCord related.

Liddy's former secretary, Silvia Panarites, has confirmed to the grand jury that a meeting was scheduled. "It was a meeting at the Justice Department," she testified, "among Mr. Liddy, Mr. Magruder and Mr. Mitchell."

"Now, Miss Panarites," asked Assistant U. S. Attorney Donald Campbell, "did there come a time when you observed a brown package in Mr. Liddy's office?"

"Yes, sir," she replied. She described the package as about four feet in dimensions, an inch thick, wrapped in brown paper. "Mr. Liddy himself carried the package into the office...," she testified. "He did say that I was not to look in the package; that it was better for me not to know of its contents..."

The mysterious package was left in Liddy's office overnight, she said, so Liddy asked her to hide it in case "somebody should happen to walk in, it would not be seen... So I moved the bookcase and put the package behind the bookcase."

Another prosecutor, Seymour Glanzer, asked whether Liddy's removal of the package the next day was "related in your mind to this appointment he had at Justice?"

"I can't relate it to anything," she responded, "other than the fact that he removed it himself."

Mitchell reiterated to us in a telephone conversation that he had no advance knowledge of the Watergate bugging. Magruder acknowledged attending the February 1972 meeting but insisted the bugging had not been discussed. We couldn't reach Dean, but our White House sources say he has now admitted to his superiors that Liddy presented various "wild" bugging plans at the meeting.

The most damaging grand jury testimony disputes Magruder's sworn statement that he knew nothing of the Watergate bugging. Another Liddy secretary, Sally Harmony, testified that she had typed up reports on the conversations of Democratic party officials. She used secret stationery with the code word, "Gemstone," printed on top, she said.

She reported that the campaign committee's own printer had delivered the "Gemstone" stationery to Liddy's office and had cautioned her: "Mr. Liddy said no one is to see this."

After the arrest of the burglary-bugging squad at the Watergate, Magruder in a phone call from California instructed his assistant, Robert Reisner, to remove sensitive files from his office. One was a blue folder, which Reisner testified he associated with Liddy.

"Now my memory is vauge," he stated, "as to whether it said 'Source' or whether it said 'Memorandum from.' But it said that first, and then the second word was 'Gemstone.' It seemed to me that was from Mr. Liddy."

"Gemstone?" asked prosecutor Earl Silbert.

"That's right."

Reisner said he turned the "Gemstone" folder over to campaign official Robert Odle who later testified he returned it to Magruder without examining it.

Reisner also recalled that Magruder, in introducing Liddy to the staff in January 1972, said: "This is Gordon Liddy, who is going to come to the staff as a lawyer, and Gordon Liddy also has other talents."

Commented Reisner: "(Magruder) was trying to make a joke about the fact that Mr. Liddy was... engaged in doing kinds of research activities." Afterwards, Reisner overheard enough around the office to "infer" that Liddy "was responsible for some sort of secret activity or research."

It would appear Magruder must have had more knowledge than he has admitted of Liddy's Watergate operation.

MODERN DREYFUSES? — Persons charged with a federal crime can be incarcerated for life without ever being tried. Under an obscure federal law, 292 persons were put in mental institutions last year after being labeled incompetent to stand trial. A Justice Department spokesman acknowledged that the present system could result in people becoming "lost in the bureaucratic shuffle" and forgotten. He also acknowledged that the law could be used by unscrupulous attorneys or judges against their political enemies. Most of the accused incompetents are sent to the U.S. Medical Center for Federal Prisoners in Springfield, Mo.

Quick Trip to London is a joy

By CYRENE DEAR

WASHINGTON — "At that price you cannot afford not to go," was the general reaction of some of the National Press Club members when they learned of "a week in London for $249" — round trip flight, hotel, a tour of the city, and two theaters.

So off we went. Nearly everyone on the tour had been to London before so aside from the prescribed accommodations we were on our own. Some of them took the regular daily tours which included midmorning coffee, luncheon and afternoon tea. Visitors from other countries also added interest to these tours which are part of the London tourist business.

The free trip was the city tour of London's West End. This three-hour bus ride consisted of such highlights as Oxford Street, Marble Arch, Piccadilly Circus, Westminster Abbey and luckily the changing of the guard at Buckingham Palace.

The next day belonged to the bard. En route to Avon we stopped at Oxford where the freedom of its scholastic system was explained. Students there go to learn and there is no nonsense. Their work is assigned and they study with tutorial guidance to prepare for their examinations. They either make it or out they go.

Near Avon (which means "river") is Warwick Castle, ancestral home of Sir Anthony Eden. The state rooms with historic furnishings are still used for ceremonials.

Stratford-on-Avon is where William Shakespeare was born. The small, cramped cottage is open to visitors. He was baptized and is buried in the nearby church. Ann Hathaway's thatched roof cottage is not far away. The roof is covered with narrow mesh to keep the birds from nesting there. It was on the courting bench that the 18-year-old furture playwright courted the 26-year-old Ann. They had three children, and some of their descendants lived there until a few years ago. It was a little early for the often-pictured garden, but there were flowers along the paths. Unfortunately the Royal Shakespeare Theater situated on the Avon was closed.

Queen Elizabeth II was in residence at Windsor so the state rooms were closed. The boat trip on the Thames from Maidenhead to Windsor offered historic views. The queen's sheep grazed contentedly on the royal grounds. This trip included Hampton Court, another royal palace built by Cardinal Wolsey in 1514-25 for Henry VIII.

Stonehenge with its strange architecture is believed to belong to the Bronze Age. Cathedrals at Salisbury and Winchester filled another sightseeing tour. The sturdy adventurous travelers found time to go to the British Museum, the Tate Gallery, the Tower of London, and even went shopping at Harrod's, Selfridge's and antique shops. The smart ones rode the subway.

'Buy of the day' out of sight

Buchwald

WASHINGTON — In an effort to help the housewife fight inflation, the U.S. government has been giving daily tips on the big bargains in food items.

The only trouble with the system is that by publicizing the cheaper cuts of meat and fish, the government is unwittingly driving up the prices on them and creating shortages in foods where there were none before.

I learned this from personal experience the other day. My wife and I were listening to the radio and we heard a Department of Agriculture nutritionist say, "Housewives are advised to buy flounder today which is in ample supply and will give your family as much protein as steak."

"That's it," I said to my wife. "I'll go down to the supermarket and buy some flounder."

I guess other people were listening to the same radio broadcast by the time I got to the fish counter there were hundreds of housewives screaming for flounder. The harassed men behind the counter were wrapping the flounder as quickly as possible while the manager of the store kept changing the price on it after each sale was made. When I got to the store, flounder was selling for 59 cents a pound. By the time I was waited on, two hours later, it had gone up to $1.80 a pound, and they were giving only one small flounder to a customer.

I called my wife to tell her I didn't think we could make a meal out of flounder.

"I just heard on the radio," she said, "That this is the day to buy cooking onions. Get all you can."

I hung up the phone and ran down the aisle to the vegetable stand.

"Cooking onions?" I said breathlessly to a clerk.

He laughed at me. "We haven't had a cooking onion for four hours."

"But my wife just heard on the radio it was the buy of the day."

"She must have heard a repeat broadcast," the clerk said. "They announced that this morning. There isn't a cooking onion in the whole town. When we get some in, they'll be more expensive than asparagus."

I called my wife back. "No cooking onions. What else are they pushing?"

"Just a minute," she said. "I think they're putting on a bulletin. Yes, it's direct from Virginia Knauer at the White House. She says the magic word is 'calf brains.'"

"I got it," I said. I ran down another aisle to the meat counter, fighting my way through another mob. Three old ladies started pummeling me. "We were here first for the calf brains!" one of them screamed.

"There's enough for everybody," I shouted. "Virginia Knauer said so."

The butcher behind the counter said, "We just got word calf brains are now $2.50 a pound. Who's next?"

We all backed away from the counter.

"I guess the White House will recommend is horse meat," I muttered.

"Did you say horse meat?" one of the little old ladies who had been battering me asked.

"Yes, I said horse meat."

"What is it, Amanda?" the other old lady asked.

"The man says there's a big sale on horse meat. Heard it on the radio." The mob ran toward the horse meat counter and the manager prepared to change the prices.

As I walked slowly toward the checkout chasier, I saw a steak which was marked $1.59. I looked around to see if anyone was watching me. No one noticed so I threw two steaks into my basket and covered them with a box of oatmeal. When I left the store, horse meat was selling for $4.50 a pound.

Opening lead—♣5

By Oswald & James Jacoby

East and West were playing one of those fancy club systems in which a two-club opening showed a normal club bid with a good suit.

The combination of this opening plus a barricade preempt by West got actor Omar Sharif to a really bad heart slam. Omar made the best of his horrible situation and made his 12 tricks by an extraordinary series of plays.

It looks impossible, but here is how he worked it out. He ruffed the club; entered dummy with the king of trumps and ruffed a second club. Next came the lead of a spade to dummy's king and the ruff of a third club.

Omar continued by cashing his ace of spades; ruffing a spade with dummy's four of trumps and ruffing dummy's last club with his last small trump.

This left him with just the ace of trumps; two good spades and two diamonds. He cashed his ace of trumps and led another spade.

West was down to three diamonds and the one remaining trump. He could do nothing better than to ruff in and lead a low diamond. Omar played dummy's 10 and was sure of the rest of the tricks irrespective of which diamond East played.

We take this hand with a grain of salt. Somehow or other it looks too good to be true, but Omar is almost as good a bridge player as he is an actor.

KC's McKeon: Dynamic And Very Successful

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Jack McKeon of the Kansas City Royals could be the most dynamic manager to hit baseball's major leagues in a long, long while.

He certainly is different from any guy who has donned a big league manager's uniform in quite some time. Still, he has some of the qualities of several familiar managerial faces of today and the past.

McKeon, named Royals manager last Oct. 3 to succeed the fired Bob Lemon, possesses the gentle touch, at times the fiery approach, occasionally the brash techniques, and he could give Casey Stengel a pretty fair lesson in mile-a-second talking.

Yet, McKeon, 42, is Jack McKeon ... nobody else.

McKeon came up with this statement when he found out his 15 years as a minor league pilot were history:

"I'm ready for the major leagues. I don't know whether the major leagues are ready for me."

At the start of spring training, McKeon told his players:

"Our whole theme is going to be 'How to win.' I want the Royals to be known as the smartest team in baseball."

Just after spring training ended, he had reached this conclusion:

"The players believe we'll win the pennant. I certainly believe we'll win the pennant."

This raised eyebrows all over the American League West where the world champion Oakland A's had been quickly cast as the odds-on favorite. People who took more than a passing note of McKeon's boasts asked this question:

"What have the Royals got this season they didn't have last year when they finished fourth in the West 16½ games behind the A's?"

And they had the answer, at least their answer:

A sore-armed pitcher named Wayne Simpson, an injury-prone outfielder named Hal McRae, a rookie hurler named Steve Busby and an assortment of castoffs from other clubs.

Apparently, in their analysis, they overlooked one factor about the Royals:

Jack McKeon.

McKeon has changed the entire atmosphere surrounding the Royals ... in the clubhouse, on the field, in the dugout, on the street.

The players found out very quickly that their refugee manager from the minors who never played in the major leagues is 100 percent baseball. In the short span of a few weeks, some of the players have begun to idolize McKeon. All respect him.

The result is that McKeon has the Royals off to their best start in their comparatively short history. Kansas City won eight of its first 10 games and romped out front in the West.

McKeon sums it all up with a few simple words:

"I go along with the modern day thinking. Times have changed. We drive 1973 cars now instead of 1930 Model A's, and we have a breed of players entirely different from those of 1949 when I started playing.

"I think it's a good breed. I try to treat my players like men by recognizing their individuality and their philosophy. You're concerned with their entire lives, not just with whether they hit .300 or win 20 games. I may not make better players out of all of them but I'll make better men out of them."

McKeon, who rarely stops talking, has one favorite word... visible.

"I make myself visible in the clubhouse," says McKeon, who smokes big cigars one after the other. "The players know I'm there and that I'm available. I like to joke and kid with them. I just like to keep in communication with them."

McKeon can be a little bit of a character at times. Once when he managed in the International League, his Atlantic team was off to a 0-9 start and McKeon wanted to liven things up.

He did such things as wear a Beatles wig to home plate to turn in his lineups, used a green lantern to give his players the green light to swing away and sent a batter to the plate with a golf club "when the umpires kept calling low pitches strikes."

Still, beneath the stocky frame of John Aloysius McKeon, there is an undercurrent of dead serious philosophy and a personality that overwhelms people, including baseball players.

"I don't consider myself a rookie manager," McKeon concludes. "I just don't feel that I am. My entire makeup is not going to change because I'm a big league manager now.

"Basically, I think this way: I like to treat guys as I wanted to be treated when I was a player."

Pacers Take ABA Western

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The defending American Basketball Association champion Indiana Pacers, led by George McGinnis with 23 points and Donnie Freeman with 21, won the Western Division playoff series 4-2 with a 107-98 victory over Utah Saturday.

Indiana will play the winner of the Kentucky-Carolina Eastern Division playoffs for the ABA championship.

Before a national television audience, the Pacers led nearly the entire game, running into difficulty only for a short time in the second quarter. They built their lead to 18 points and coasted to victory. Utah scored the last eight points of the game.

The Stars were led by Willie Wise with 17 points and Cincy Powell with 15.

Indiana went ahead 29-21 at the end of the first quarter as Roger Brown, bothered by a back injury, dropped in a three-point goal just ahead of the buzzer.

Utah stormed out in the second period and tied the game at 35-all as Powell scored 13 of his game points in the first half. The Stars then moved ahead 44-37, their biggest lead.

Indiana, with McGinnis hitting six free throws, came back and tied the game at 51-all. After an exchange of baskets, Brown hit another bucket as time ran out with Indiana ahead for good, 55-53, at the half.

Pacer guard Billy Keller came off the bench in the second half to spark Indiana's winning drive with hot shooting, passing and ball handling. He tossed in 15 points, 13 in the second half, and collected four assists. Starting guard Freddie Lewis had seven assists to go with six points, all in the first quarter.

Foils Jump Shot

Gerald Govan goes high in the air to block a shot by Indiana's George McGinnis during the ABA play-off game Saturday at Indianapolis. Govan's Utah teammates Zelmo Beaty and Bob Warren look on while Indiana's Mel Daniels, bottom left, waits in vain for the rebound. The pacers won the game 107-98 and the series four games to two. Pokes Hang On To First

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Oklahoma State University held onto its number one place in the Big Eight Conference baseball race Saturday by splitting a double header here with the Oklahoma Sooners, 7-1, 2-0.

The Sooners were a game and a half behind when the three-game series started Friday and held the Big Eight lead briefly by taking the first two games. Friday they won 1-0 in eleven innings and then defeated the 'Pokes in the first game Saturday.

But Oklahoma State's 2-0 squeaker in the third game of the crucial series returned their one-half game lead over the hosting Sooners. The Cowboys are now 9-2 in the conference and the Sooners 9-3.

In the first game of the double header, Oklahoma untied a 1-1 knot with a six-run outburst in sixth inning.

The big sixth inning consisted of two walks, two sacrifice bunts, two doubles, and three singles.

The victory was Oklahoma hurler Stan Meek's fourth of the season against no losses. The loss spoiled David Lewis' 6-0 record for the Cowboys.

However, the second game of the Saturday twin bill belonged to Oklahoma State.

Cowboy shortstop Mike Cross, a Midland, Tex. senior, led off the first with a walk. Two sacrifice flies moved him to third and then a double by Rick Ollars sent him home.

The second inning saw Oklahoma State score its final run as catcher Frank Thomas singled in Rick McIntire.

OU's Doug Schaefer was tagged with his second loss of the season, even though he was relieved in the second by Dean Byrom.

Meanwhile Jim Jacobsen, Cowboy ace, chalked up his sixth win of the season without a loss.

OU didn't mount any threat until the sixth when Kenny King's lead off double gave the Sooners a spark.

Jacobsen, however, shut down the next three batters.

The Cowboys will host Oral Roberts University in Stillwater next week for their next series. The Sooners play host to John Brown University Tuesday.

NU Freshman Does Well

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—Freshman quarterback Glen Ray, moved up to the second unit after Dave Humm was injured last week, directed the Nebraska No. 2 offense to the first touchdown of the spring training season against the No. 1 defensive unit Saturdaay.

Ray divided quarterbacking chores with Steve Runty in the 2½-hour scrimmage conducted under game conditions.

Ray's unit climaxed a 60-yard march against the first defense when Dave Goeller scored on a three-yard run. Goeller was back in action after an absence of ten days with injuries.

Against the second defensive team, Ray engineered two consecutive 60 yard touchdown drives, climaxed by short plunges by fullbacks Maury Damkroger and Ralph Powell.

Runty quarterbacked the first offensive unit to one touchdown, a touchdown pass to Frosty Anderson against the No. 2 defense. Anderson caught six passes for 70 yards.

Tony Davis was the workhorse runner, carrying 26 times for 111 yards.

Marv Crenshaw, offensive right tackle who has been out with injuries, saw his first action of the spring drills.

Coach Tom Osborne got a scare when Runty went down after being blindsided while completing a pass to Anderson and didn't get to his feet immediately. He suffered a slight knee injury but stayed in the scrimmage.

Stanley Pleased With Scrimmage

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma State's first-teamers outclassed the rest of the squad, both offensively and defensively, in a 90-minute scrimmage here Saturday afternoon.

"I was real pleased, especially with the first two units, both ways," Cowboy coach Jim Stanley said. "Offensively we had a lots more consistency - which is what we're looking for."

Led by quarterback Brent Blackman, who rushed 16 times for 157 yards and passed for another 116 yards, the first-unit put across most of the seven scores.

"Blackman threw better today than I have ever seen him throw before," Stanley said. "He's got a lot of confidence in himself and this is great."

Three of Blackman's seven completions, went to tight end Rueben Gant for a total of 75 yards, including the longest of the day at 51 yards.

On the defensive side Stanley said, "We hit real well and put a lot of pressure on the passer. It was aggressive."

Stanley cited Blackman, Vann, Gant and fullback George Palmer as seeming to play good.

"I want to mention Marty Abel," the first year coach added. "He's been our second and third team fullback during most of the spring but today was his best effort from the standpoint of consistency."

Asked about the best punter Stanley said "I guess I'd have to go with Mike Terry, although Scott Christman did well too. Terry gets the ball away quicker."

Terry punted three times, averaging 55.3 yards while Christman had eight punts for a 37.3 yard average.

Halfback Fountain Smith scored three touchdowns on runs of one, eight, and ten yards and had a total of 94 yards rushing while Plamer and James Nunn each had 81 yards and a touchdown a piece.

Tony Boxell scored the other TD on a one-yard plunge.

Tag Team Heads Wrestling Card

The main event on Tuesday's professional wrestling card at Convention Hall in Liberty Park pits the tag team of Harley Race and Bob Brown against Omar Atlas and Black Angus.

In the semifinal event, E. D. Lewis will take on Benny Ramirez, while the opener pairs Brown and Atlas.

The added attraction will be a boxing match between Jean Antone and Betty Niccoli. The bout is scheduled for six rounds.

Matches will begin at 8:15 p.m.; tickets are now on sale at the Coffee Pot Cafe and Zips Drug Store.

Little League Major Division Tryouts Set

Tryouts for the major league division of the Sedalia Little League program will be held this week at the Liberty Park Little League Stadium.

The trouts are for those boys who did not compete in the major division last season.

Tryouts will be held according to the following schedule: Monday — 10-year-olds, Tuesday — 11-year-olds and Wednesday — 12-year-olds.

All tryout sessions will begin at 5 p.m.

Rain dates for the tryouts are scheduled for Thursday and Friday, also at 5 p.m.

Richard Vansell, president of the 1973 Little League program, also announced that the major league draft for both the American and National League will be held Friday at 8 p.m. at the Missouri State Bank.

Men's Softball Meeting Slated

A meeting of managers and coaches of men's softball teams will be held Monday night in the Sedalia Park Board Office in Convention Hall. The meeting is scheduled to get underway at 7:30 p.m.

Robert A. Linsenbardt, one of the co-ordinators of the city softball program, said that the meeting will consist of discussion of scheduling, playing sites and other league information.

Undergoes Surgery

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Missouri fullback Ray Bybee underwent surgery Friday for removal of medial cartilage from his left knee.

Bybee injured the knee against Oklahoma State last fall and reinjured it during the first week of spring drills. However, Al Onofrio, head coach, expects Bybee to be able to compete next season.

Missouri Pounds Jayhawks

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Missouri pounced on Big Eight baseball rival Kansas Saturday and took an 8-3 victory, winning the second game of their three-game weekend set.

The Tigers, picking up their second conference victory against nine losses, tallied 13 hits, their best production for the season. Kansas, now 3-5 in the league, managed only five hits off winner Bob Foster. Two were home runs.

Jayhawk catcher Dick Bradley hit his third home run in as many games with a solo shot in the second inning. Steve Huntze slammed a pitch over the left field fence for the final Kansas run in the ninth.

Missouri fashioned a five-run second inning, with all runs charged against loser Bob Cox. Second baseman Bob Dundee opened the scoring by crossing the plate on two straight wild pitches by Cox after Dundee doubled. The other four runs scored on three singles.

The 16-1 victory by Kansas City over Oakland on May 19, 1972, gave the Royals the biggest winning margin (15 runs) of their four-year history.

Champions Defend Cow Chip Throwing Titles

BEAVER, Okla. (AP)—Harold Smith of Forgan, Okla., stepped to the line Saturday and successfully defended his world championship by throwing a cow chip 166.11 feet for an audience of more than 8,000.

The women's world title also was won by the defending world champion, Northwestern Oklahoma College coed Patti Bruce of Beaver. Her throw covered 101.1 feet.

The world championship in the third category—VIPs—was taken by Carl Engel of Odessa, Tex., who heaved his chip 165.8 feet.

A cow chip, for the uninitiated, is best described as what is left when the cow moves on.

Oklahoma Gov. David Hall, in the tradition of presidents and baseballs, set the pace for the contestants by throwing out the first chip.

His throw, 101 feet, was a considerable improvement over the 68-foot throw he made last year. He had predicted that an additional year in politics would improve his performance.

More than 8,000 spectators gathered to view the annual competition, which attracted more than 150 contestants from 10 states besides Oklahoma.

Interest this year was so high that the sponsor—the Beaver Chamber of Commerce—had to authorize regional "throw-offs" around the country to eliminate some competitors. They were held in Pittsburgh, Pa., Little Rock, Ark., Beverly Hills, Calif., Odessa, Tex., and in Kansas, Iowa, Indiana and Tennessee.

Besides Engel in the VIP category, the only non-Oklahoman in the first three places was Teresa Ross of Meade, Kan., who placed third in the women's division. Her throw went 92 feet.

In the men's division, Wayne Wagoner of Oklahoma City placed second with 166.11 feet, and third went to John Lee of Weatherford, Okla., for 160.10 feet.

Judy Mills of Forgan, Okla., placed second in the women's division with 93.2 feet.

Runner-up in the VIP division was Harry Wilson of Oklahoma City, who tossed his chip 130 feet, followed by Bill Wygle of Ada with a throw of 113.7 feet.

Might Not Start

Veteran Boston Celtic star John Havlicek wears a pensive expression as he sits watching his team work out Saturday at Lexington Academy in Lexington, Mass. Havlicek is a doubtful starter for the fourth game of the NBA New York-Boston playoff series Sunday. The hot-shooting Havlicek suffered a pulled shoulder and neck muscle in Friday's game at Boston. Hilton Bests Wottle in Kansas Relays Mile

Wins Cunningham Mile

Leonard Hilton of the Houston Striders wins the Glenn Cunningham one-mile run at the Kansas Relays Saturday with a time of 4:10.9. Olympic 800-meter champion Dave Wottle, identifiable by his famous running cap, takes second. (UPI)

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Leonard Hilton of the Houston Striders turned loose his blazing speed on the final one-half lap to win the Glenn Cunningham mile in 4:01.9 Saturday during the 48th Kansas Relays.

Hilton zoomed past Dave Wottle of Bowling Green (Ohio) and Richard Selby of Northern Arizona with a brilliant burst midway through the last quarter and held the lead the rest of the way.

It appeared that Wottle, the Olympic star, might overhaul Hilton over the final 40 yards, but the Houston speedster turned it loose again as they raced for the tape.

Wottle's time was 4:02.5. Lowell Paul of the Chicago Track Club finished third in 4:04.6.

Then came John Clark of Iowa in 4:04.6 and Larry Rose of the Pacific Track Club, who led in the early going, in 4:05.0.

The Cunningham record of 3:54.7 was set by Jim Ryun, the world record holder who is now a professional, in 1967.

Two records fell during the day's early stages. Marshall Smith of Colorado State University tossed the discus 189 feet 10 inches. The old mark of 189-8 was set by Doug Knop of Kansas in 1969.

Greg Vandaveer of Kansas barely beat out Scottie Jones of Texas A & M for a 120-yard high hurdles record. Both were clocked in 13.5.

Harrison Dillard of Baldwin-Wallace had held the old mark of 13.6 since 1948.

Michigan State's Marshall Dill won the 100-yard dash in 9.3.

George Stevens of Oklahoma State grabbed the javelin crown with a heave of 255-11.

The University of Illinois two-mile relay team of Rich Hill Dave Kaemerer, Mike Durkin and Rob Mango, scored its 13th consecutive victory over a three-year period by winnning in 7:25.0.

Missouri beat Oklahoma State by two-tenths of a second in the university distance medley relay with a time of 9:43.2. The team consisted of Bill Daily, Mike Melichar, Dave Rogers and Charlie McMullen.

Kansas State's Josh Washington, Fred Merril, Dan Fields and Dean Williams took first in the 440-yard relay in 39.9 to tie the meet record set in 1971 by Texas A&M.

Baylor's Danny Brabhan took the long jump trophy with 26 feet.

Eastern New Mexico's crack distance medley relay team of Regi Brown, Sam Yavala, Rex Maddiford and Mike Boit had little trouble winning the college event in 9:53.4.

Eastern Illinois, with Keith Jacobi, David Nance Mike Larson and Kenneth Jacobi, proved the class of the college two-mile relay competition with a time of 7:33.9. Lincoln, Mo., University, represented by Matthew Brown, Lloyd Williams, James Amerison and Willie Lyles, won the college 440-relay in 40.8.

Al Feuerbach of the Pacific Coast Club broke his own open shot put record with a toss of 69-2½. His old mark, set a year ago, was 69-1.

Herb Washington, competing unattached, tied the Kansas Relays open record in the 100-yard dash in 9.2. Washington, who performed for Michigan State in 1972, and Ivory Crockett of Southern Illnnois, set the former record a year ago.

Tom Hill, unattached, won the open 120-yard high hurdles in 13.5, and Jim Neugent of the Eagle Track Club of Oklahoma City took the open hammer throw with 180-10½.

The open one-mile walk title went to Augie Hirt of McPherson, Kan., timed in 7:04.4. Paul Geis of the Oregon Track Club took the open three-mile run in 13:39.6.

Terry Ziegler of Oklahoma broke his old record in the Kansas Relays marathon with 2:21:15. A year ago his time was 2:23:07. Phillip Ndoo, the Eastern New Mexico ace who won Thursday's six-mile run, came back to take the 3,000-meter steeplechase in 8:50.6.

Wes Santee, a Lawrence insurance man who once was a great track star, ran unattached and was first in the Masters 880-yard run with a 2:05.7 clocking.

Larry Jones of Northeast Missouri State, timed in 46.4, was the winner of the open 440-yard dash.

Steve Smith of the Pacific Coast Club topped the field in the open pole vault with 17-¼.

Dave Roberts of Rice, who had won the event at the Texas Relays last week with a vault of 17-1, was third with 16-6¼.

Barry Schur of Kansas took the high jump going a quarter of an inch over seven feet.

Lousiana State's Barney Cobb, Greg Stevens, Lloyd Wills and Allen Mischer finished in the university 880-yard relay in 1:23.7, and Ed Wright, John Lee, Billy Jackson and Don Sturgal of Texas won the mile relay in 3:08.9.

Lincoln University's Matt Brown, Lloyd Williams, James Amerison and Brian Green, won the 880-yard college relay in 1:25.2. The mile relay championship went to Stephen F. Austin team of Don Mayes, Ricky Britain, Bob Coleman and Charles McManus, who turned in a 3:09.7.

NL Roundup

Atlanta Shades Reds

CINCINNATI (AP) — Marty Perez' ninth inning triple drove in the winning run as the Atlanta Braves defeated Cincinnati 5-4 Saturday, ending a seven-game losing streak.

Perez' shot was first ruled an error against Cincinnati first baseman Tony Perez but was changed to a triple by the official scorer after the game.

Bobby Tolan had dropped Dave Johnson's leadoff fly ball for a two-base error before Perez' hit delivered the deciding run.

The Reds had wiped out a two-run deficit to tie the score at 4-4 in the seventh. Pete Rose, who had two hits in nine of Cincinnati's first 15 games, singled home Gene Locklear with the tying run.

The Braves had jumped Reds' starter Jack Billingham for three runs in the first inning on leadoff singles by Ralph Garr and Johnny Oates and Darrell Evans' home run.

Rose's first hit of the game helped the Reds build a run in the first. Atlanta nicked Jim McGlothlin for another run in the sixth on Dusty Baker's RBI single but the Reds got that back on Perez' sacrifice fly.

Then Cincinnati tied it in the seventh, setting the stage for the Braves' winning run in the ninth.

New York 5, Montreal 0

NEW YORK (AP) — Rookie Harry Parker and reliever Tug McGraw combined for a three-hitter Saturday as the New York Mets shut out the Montreal Expos 5-0 Saturday.

Parker, 2-0, pitched the first seven innings and then was forced to leave the game when he pulled a leg muscle while running the bases. McGraw preserved the victory for his third save of the season.

The game was scoreless until the sixth inning when New York tagged Expo starter Balor Moore for three runs.

Bud Harrelson opened the Mets' sixth with a walk and one out later, Willie Mays also walked. After a force play left runners at first and third with two out, George Theodore, John Milner and Jim Fregosi delivered consecutive run-scoring singles. In the eighth, Milner added a two-run homer.

Pittsburg at Chicago, halted

CHICAGO (AP) — Darkness suspended a National League game between Chicago and Pittsburgh with the Cubs holding a 10-8 lead after six innings Saturday. It will be completed at a later date.

Rick Monday's leadoff home run triggered a six-run first inning in which the first eight batters hit safely to help the Cubs take a 6-2 lead.

The game after the first inning was delayed for an hour and 25 minutes by rain.

Al Oliver, who drove in four runs, put the Pirates ahead in the top of the first with a two-run homer, his first of the season.

Monday then hit his second homer and Glenn Beckert, Billy Williams, Joe Pepitone, Ron Santo, Jose Cardenal, Randy Hundley and Don Kessinger hit safely before pitcher Ferguson Jenkins fanned. Monday then followed with a single before Beckert bounced into an inning-ending double play.

The Cubs also batted around in the fourth inning when they scored four runs but Jenkins couldn't get through the fifth inning when the Pirates rallied for four runs to cut the Cubs lead to 10-8.

Angle Light Wins Wood Memorial

NEW YORK (AP) — Angle Light scored a front-running victory in the $114,000 Wood Memorial Saturday as Secretariat, the favorite for the Kentucky Derby, finished a soundly beaten third behind Sham.

Secretariat's defeat was only the second time in a 12-race career that the 1972 Horse of the Year had failed to cross the finish line first.

Angle Light, owned by Edwin Whittaker, ran as an entry with the Meadow Stables' Secretariat because both are trained by Lucien Laurin. But Angle Light has remained short of attention in the light of Secretariat's past performances.

Angle Light, ridden by Jacinto Vasquez, finished a head in front of Sham, Sigmund Sommer's Santa Anita Derby winner and second early favorite for the Kentucky Derby.

The stretch-running Secretariat, who just couldn't make up enough ground this time, finished our lengths back of Sham and 1½ lengths ahead of Step Nicely.

The winning entry paid $2.60 and $2.10 and Sham paid $2.10. There was no show betting. The time for the winner in the 1⅛ mile race was 1:49 4-5 on a fast track.

Secretariat's defeat likely will mean a good-sized field for the May 5 Kentucky Derby now that his aura of invincibility has been badly dented.

The only other time the son of Bold Ruler failed to finish first was in the first start of his career when he was bumped badly leaving the gate.

Laurin said he probably would send Secretariat to Kentucky early next week but did not know yet about Angle Light.

Favorite Takes 3rd

Torborg Hits In Big Runs For Angels

OAKLAND (AP) — Catcher Jeff Torborg doubled with the bases loaded to drive in two runs as the California Angels defeated the Oakland A's 4-2 Saturday. Torborg's hit came after Oakland Manager Dick Williams had ordered an intentional walk to Alan Gallagher, loading the bases in the fourth inning.

The victim was Vida Blue who gave up five hits and all four California runs in the six innings he pitched.

The victory went to Bill Singer, who struck out 10 and allowed eight hits before leaving in the ninth inning. Oakland scored their final run in that inning on two walks and Sal Bando's single. The A's left 15 runners on base.

Oakland left the bases loaded three times. Singer got Dick Green on a foul pop up to end the fourth inning after the A's had loaded the bases on two errors and a walk Catcher Ray Fosse struck out to end the fifth inning with the bases loaded.

In the ninth, Billy Conigliaro struck out for the final out of the game, again with the bases loaded.

The loss was the eight in 12 American League baseball games for the World Champion A's this season.

MU Signs Paulsen

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — The University of Missouri has announced that two-time Missouri high school wrestling champion Jim Paulsen of St. Louis has signed a national letter of intent to enroll on the Columbia campus.

Hap Whitney, wrestling coach, said Paulsen, who competed from St. Louis Riverview Gardens and was 167-and 185-pound state titlist, is one of the best prospects to attend Missouri during his tenure.

Paulsen is a cousin of Joe Paulsen, the Tigers' 190-pound wrestler last season.

John Mayberry, who set a Kansas City Royals record with 100 rbi in 1972, did slightly better on the road than in Kansas City. He had 51 rbi away from the spacious Municipal Stadium in Kansas City.

Twins Shade Texas

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Jim Holt's run-scoring single capped a two-run rally in the last of the ninth inning as the Minnesota Twins defeated the Texas Rangers 5-4 Saturday.

Bobby Darwin, who had walked earlier and moved to third on a single by Jerry Terrell that tied the game, came in with the winning run.

The rally erased a sixth-inning home run hit by designated hitter Alex Johnson that put the Rangers into a 4-3 lead.

Rico Carty's three-run first inning homer had given the Rangers a 3-0 lead off Twins' starter Jim Kaat.

Colonels, Cougars Now Stand at 3-3

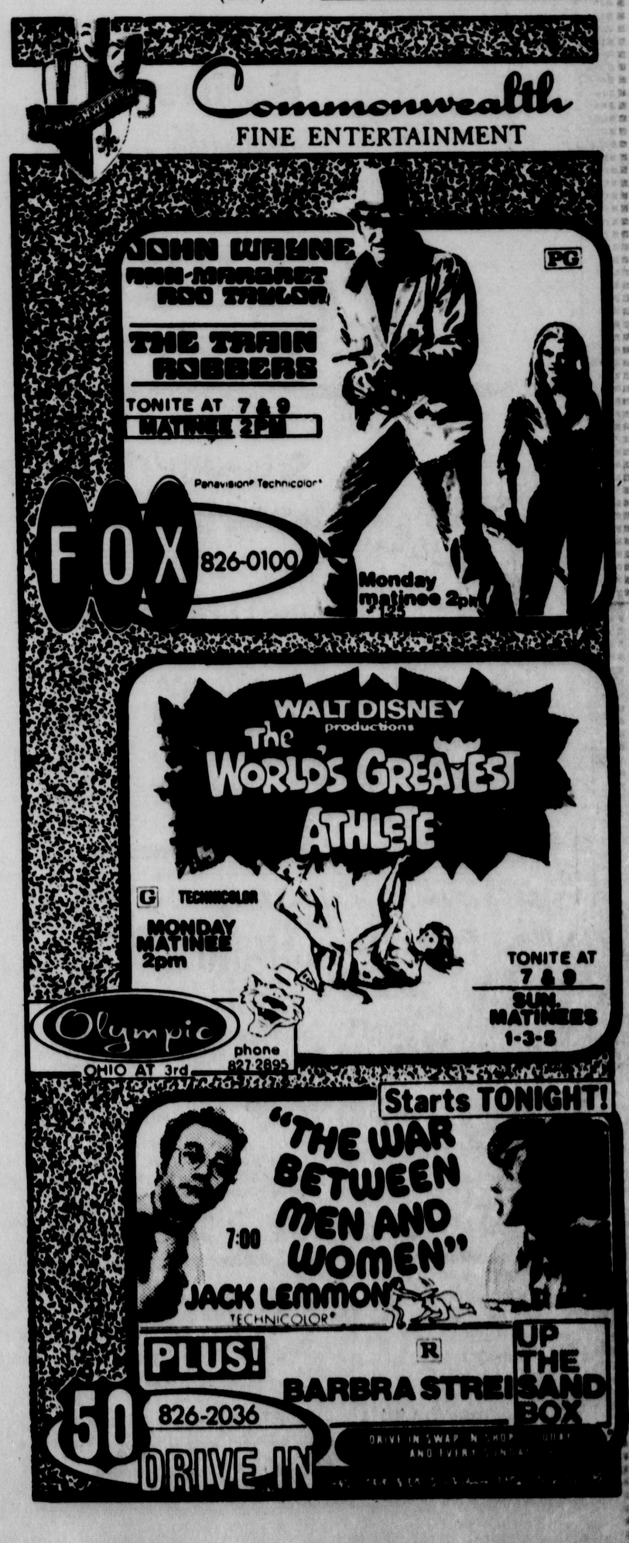
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — With Rick Mount scoring 25 points, the Kentucky Colonels defeated the Carolina Cougars 119-100 Saturday night to tie their American Basketball Association playoff series 3-3.

Kentucky led from the opening seconds and steadily expanded its margin throughout the game to set up Tuesday's seventh and deciding game at Charlotte, N.C., for the league's Eastern Division championship.

Mount connected for 15 of his points in the final half as the Colonels pulled away fgm a 55-48 halftime lead.

Carolina's Billy Cunningham led all scorers with 28 points.

The closest Carolina could come in the final quarter was 95-88, but then Kentucky scored 10 of the next 12 points to put the game out of reach. Kentucky's largest margin was the final score.



Wottle, Milburn Lead Stellar Field at Drake Relays

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Thirty-seven Olympians led by gold medalist Dave Wottle and Rodney Milburn will grace a power-packed field here April 27-28 for the 64th annual Drake Relays.

Eight current world record holders are entered in what is the final stop on the Texas-Kansas-Drake relays Midwest circuit. Competition opens on Drake's all-weather Tartan track Wednesday and Thursday with the decathlon.

"Considering the Olympians and people available this is the greatest field we've ever had," said Drake Relays Director Bob Ehrhart. "There are not many big names missing."

The special 880-yard run with Olympians Mike Boit and Rick Wohlhuter and the distance relays shape up as premier events among the 53 scheduled for the final two days.

Wottle, the Munich gold medalist at 800 meters and world record holder in the half mile, will lead Bowling Green in a bid for a rare double-victories in the four-mile relay at both the Drake and Penn relays on the same weekend.

Bowling Green tuned up with a record-setting 16 minutes, 24 seconds victory Friday at the Kansas Relays with Wottle running a 4:01.9 anchor. Oklahoma State, Wisconsin and national collegiate indoor champion Manhattan are the top challengers.

In addition to Wottle, the world record holders on hand will be Milburn, who is seeking his third straight Drake title in the 120 yard high hurdles, high jumper Pat Matzdorf and hurdler Ralph Mann, who set 440 intermediate mark here in the 1970 NCAA outdoor.

Also entered are indoor record holders Herb Washington (60-yard dash), Marshall Dill (300), Steve Smith (pole vault) and George Woods (shot put).

Smith, who set the indoor record of 18-¼ in the Millrose Games in January, is one of three 18-foot vaulters entered in one of the eight special invitation-only events.

Woods will battle Iowan Al Feuerbach in the special shot put. Woods, who owns a world indoor best of 69-9½, will be trying to stop Feuerbach's streak of Drake victories at three.

Olympian Feuerbach will be one of three members of his family competing. Brothers Tom, a senior, and Bob, a sophomore, will compete for Preston in the high school division.

In addition to Milburn and Feuerbach, Dave Roberts of Rice will be seeking his third straight title when he competes in the university college pole vault.

Matzdorf, the former Wisconsin standout now performing for Club West, will face Olympian Dwight Stones in the special high jump. Matzdorf's world mark is 7-6¼, while Stones, the youngest member of the U.S. Olympic team, took a bronze medal for third at Munich.

A turnout of about 34,000 is expected for the final two days, said Ehrhard, including a sell-out 18,000 Saturday.

"We could easily have collegiate records in the two-mile, four-mile and distance medley relays," offered Ehrhart. "And there is not a favorite, so that's a pretty fine field."

Illinois, which has won 12 straight times at two miles over three seasons going into the Kansas Relays, heads the two-mile field, but faces strong challenges from Nebraska, Missouri and Texas Relays victor Texas.

Manhattan, the surprise winner of the NCAA indoor team title, Illinois, Oklahoma State and Kansas State are the top contenders in the distance medley, which saw K-State run a world best 9:31.8 here last year as Iowan Jerome Howe ran a blazing 3:59.1 anchor.

Pittsburgh and Florida State, which dominated the Florida Relays last month, also enter top relay units.

Marty Liqouri, the only man to ever run a sub-four minute mile at Drake stadium, will headline a special mile run.

Liqouri is returning after a disappointing 1972 when he missed the entire season due to injury after reigning as the top-ranked miler in the world in 1971, turning the world's best 1,500 meters time of 3:36.

The former Villanova star now running for the Florida Track Club ran 3:59.9 to beat Wottle for the NCAA mile title here in 1970 and will face defending Drake champion Bob Maplestone and Texas Relays winner Leonard Hilton.

Maplestone, from England, won last year in 4:00.4, whipping a field that included ailing world record holder Jim Ryun, who finished next to last in the eight-man field in 4:09.

Surprise Kansas Relays winner Bill Hancock has filed an entry for the decathlon, but relays officials said he may pass up the meet.

Hancock, competing in only his second decathlon, won with 7,223 points at Kansas and in the process set a world decathlon high jump record of 7-1.

Olympian Bruce Jenner, who has been sidelined with an injury, will be back to defend his title. The Graceland College senior won with 7,678 points last year, went on to surprisingly finish third in the U.S. Olympic trials and was 10th at Munich.

Also entered in the grueling two-day, 10-event test are NCAA college division champion Don Allbritton and former Iowa Stater Rex Harvey of Dexter.

Illinois ranks as the winningest team in the university division with 101 titles — 61 relays and 40 individual — going into classic, while Kansas State-Pittsburg with 32 including 24 relays victories heads the college division.

Michigan's outstanding long jumper W. DeHart Hubbsard, St. Cloud, Minn., State distance ace Van Nelson and Southern University's premier distance relay anchor man Theron Lewis will be inducted into the Drake Relays Hall of Fame at a special presentation Saturday.

Phils Top St. Louis

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Jim Lonborg gained his first National League pitching victory with the help of an early seven-run cushion and late relief pitching by Max Scarce as the Philadelphia Phillies beat St, Louis 7-4 Saturday.

The Phillies staked former American Leaguer Lonborg to a 4-0 lead in the first inning. Bob Boone's two-run single completed the damage against Cardinals' starter Scipio Spinks.

In the fourth, Denny Doyle led off with a triple and scored on Larry Bowa's double to start a three-run outburst. Tommy Hutton singled home Bowa. Hutton, who had taken second on the throw and third on an infield out, scored on a wild pitch.

Lonborg had checked the Cards on two hits when they tallied for three runs in the sixth. Pinch-hitter Ed Crosby started the inning with a triple and scored on Lou Brock's double. Sizemore doubled in Brock, moved to third on an infield out and tallied on Joe Torre's sacrifice fly.

Nicklaus Leads Trevino

RANCHO LA COSTA, Calif. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus emerged from a seesaw battle with Lee Trevino and shot a four-under-par 68 Saturday to surge into the third round lead in the $200,000 MONY-Tournament of Champions.

Trevino led on three occasions and they were tied for the lead three other times before Nicklaus pulled away to a two-stroke lead with a 54-hole total of 208, eight under par on the 7,114-yard La Costa Country Club course.

Trevino held a one-stroke lead when play started in bright, warm sunshine but could do no better than a 71 for 210.

That put him two strokes behind Nicklaus and just one in front of Australian veteran Bruce Crampton shot a 70 for a 211.

First-round leader Jim Colbert and big J.C. Snead were tied at 212 in this event that brings together pro golf tour winners of the last 12 months. Colbert had a 70 and Snead matched par with a 72.

Disappointed Arnold Palmer, just two strokes out of the lead when play started, shot himself out of it and announced he may be taking an extended break from the game he once dominated. He had a 77 and was 10 strokes away at 218.

Trevino, the current British Open champion and runner-up to Nicklaus on this season's money-winning list, lost his lead when he bogeyed the first hole. He missed the green, chipped to about four feet and missed the putt.

Trevino, playing head to head with Nicklaus in the last two-some on the plush, beautifully-conditioned course, regained the top spot with a 12-foot birdie putt on the third hole. Both birdied the sixth and Nicklaus pulled even again with a birdie on the eighth.

Both made birdie-four on the 12th. Nicklaus three-putted the 13th to stake Lee to the lead for the last time. But the Golden Bear got a share of it again with a 12-foot putt for a duece on the next hole.

He went one stroke in front when Trevino hit a poor second shot on the 15th and three-putted from a great distance, perhaps 50 feet. Trevino had to one-putt the 16th to save par from a bunker.

Nicklaus, seeking his third title of the season and a record fourth T of C championship, stretched his margin to two strokes with a 30-foot birdie putt on the 17th.

Royals-White Sox Game Postponed

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Rain washed out the Chicago-Kansas City American League baseball game Saturday with the White Sox batting in the fourth inning and holding a 5-4 lead.

It will be replayed as part of a twinight doubleheader on July 26.

Two-run homers by Kansas City's Hal McRae and Chicago's Dick Allen were lost as a result of the rainout.

'Huskers Down Colorado, 7-4

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Nebraska catcher Rich Wilson led off the seventh inning with a game-tying homer and the Cornhuskers went on to beat Colorado 7-4 Saturday in a Big Eight Conference baseball game.

The Cornhuskers followed Wilson's blast with five base-hits to score two runs and take the lead for good. The victory improved Nebraska's over-all record to 9-7 and its conference mark to 4-5.

Colorado, which is 20-7 overall and 8-4 in league play, got three of its four runs on a homer by pitcher Mike Archer in the second inning with two men on base. But the Cornhuskers' rally cost him the game and his first loss in six starts this season.

Friday, the teams split a doubleheader, with CU winning the opener 2-0 but losing the nightcap 2-1.

SFCC Basketball Camp Dates Are Announced

The athletic department of State Fair Community College announced Saturday that the third annual two-week basketball camp will be conducted June 4-8, and June 9-14, in the Agriculture Building on the State Fairgrounds.

Bill Barton, basketball coach at SFCC will conduct the camp with other outstanding college and high school coaches.

Each boy will receive individualized instruction on every phase of the game of basketball, as well as participation in team play. The cost of the camp is $20 for one week or $35 for two weeks. The camp is designed for boys 11 through 16 years of age. There will be two sessions per day with ages 11, 12 and 13 attending the morning session and ages 14, 15 and 16 attending the afternoon session. Morning sessions begin at 9:30 a.m. and runs until noon; the afternoon sessions begin at 1 p.m. and conclude at 3:30 p.m.

Unless you mean business.
We are now considering qualified applicants in your area to become a working part of our National "Hot Food" Distributor System. You are not applying for a job! You are applying for a very high profit business of your own. NO EXPERIENCE NECESSARY — NO SELLING INVOLVED. This business can be started part time — no need to quit your job. Can be expanded full time with company financing. We need people we can depend on. Our products are nationally famous "Hot Food" items made by Heinz. We have over 36 varieties of Hot Soups and Hot Entrees, such as Beef Stew, Chicken & Dumplings, Chili & Beans, and on and on. We have all of America's favorites. All these delicious products are sold from the latest in automatic vending equipment. Your route will be established and installed by us. Your age is not a factor, if you qualify. Perfect for a nice couple to operate as a family business.

CASH INVESTMENT REQUIRED
PLAN ONE $2,147.00
PLAN TWO $3,432.00
PLAN THREE $6,795.00

INVITATION FOR BIDS
City of Sedalia, Missouri, for New Industrial Building for Alpha Sintered Metals, Inc.

Due to change in site location, invitation is made to submit stipulated sum proposals for the furnishing of all labor, materials, service and equipment to erect a single gabled multiple span rigid frame type building, roadway and parking lots, and all utilities, all as described and shown in specifications and plans for the construction of a new manufacturing facility for Alpha Sintered Metals, Inc., at a site designated by the company located in Sedalia, Pettis County, Missouri.

Sealed proposals will be received by the City of Sedalia at the office of the City Clerk, Second and Osage Streets, City Hall, Sedalia, Missouri, at or prior to 8:00 p.m. on Monday, April 30, 1973, and between 7:30 p.m. and 8:00 p.m. on the same date during the open meeting of the City Council on the second floor of the City Hall, Second and Osage Streets, Sedalia, Missouri. The sealed proposals shall be clearly marked on the outside thereof, "Sealed Proposal for Alpha Sintered Metals, Inc. Facility", and "Not to be opened until 8:00 p.m. on April 30, 1973."

All bids must be accompanied by a certified check or bid bond payable to the City of Sedalia in an amount equal to five (5) per cent of the bid.

No bid may be withdrawn after the scheduled closing time for the receipt of bids for a period of thirty (30) days.

Bids received after the scheduled closing time for the receipt of bids will be returned unopened to the bidders.

All bids properly submitted and received will be opened and publicly read at a special meeting of the City Council at 8:00 p.m. on Monday, April 30, 1973.

The City of Sedalia reserves the right to reject any or all bids and to waive informalities therein, and to determine which is the lowest and best bid and to approve the bond.

Specifications, plans and contract documents will be available for public inspection at the office of William H. Hall, Office of Economic Development, 113 East Fourth Street, Sedalia, Missouri. A copy of the same may be obtained upon deposit of $25.00 for each set of documents. Upon return of the documents in good condition no later than May 4, 1973, the full amount of the deposit for each set of documents will be returned to each actual bidder who submits a proposal.

All wages paid under the contract shall be governed by the prevailing wage law of the State of Missouri (Sections 290.210 to 290.31, R.S. Mo.)

The successful bidder will be required to furnish a satisfactory surety bond in an amount equal to the contract price for the performance and payment for all labor and material.

Q — Is Mayor Jerry Jones seeking the position of full-time mayor? Why was he throwing names around at a council meeting? — C.B.

A — Mayor Jones acknowledged that he is considering running for re-election because he enjoys the role of mayor. However, he indicated your first question was not applicable since conditions at present mean that no one can "seek the full-time" mayor position — at least until there is one. He said this could not be accomplished until next year when the mayor's term expires. Council approval for the full-time mayor plan must also be obtained.

Concerning your second question, Jones said he referred to individuals at last Monday's council meeting "because I think the people are entitled to know the truth."

Q — Why doesn't Mayor Jones use revenue sharing, which he is always bragging about, to improve some of the city streets around here? — C. B.

A — Jones said a "good share" of revenue sharing money will probably be used to help finance an expanded street-repair program this summer. The specific amount, however, has yet to be determined by the council.

According to City Engineer Robert Cunningham, approximately $133,000 is being requested for use during the next fiscal year, beginning June 1. This figure is some $48,000 more than the approximately $85,000 approved for the current fiscal year. The increase in requested funds, Cunningham indicated, was caused by the anticipated use of revenue-sharing money in addition to city sales tax monies and general revenue funds.

Q — In the past, when meetings of the Sedalia Environmental Quality Commission have been reported, about the only thing they say is they're taking an interest in planting trees. My question is, why didn't they take an early interest in the drastic cutting back of trees along Broadway and other streets in the city.

I would also like to know who is the chairman of the commission is. It's my understanding that no one has been named yet. — Mrs. J.S.

A — Dr. Robert Solomon, a member of the Commission, said the Commission members were not made fully aware of the Broadway tree trimming situation until a large part of the work had already taken place. He said that, while nothing was directly done by the Commission during the recent incident, the group is currently formulating a series of recommendations on the subject. They plan to submit these to the City Council in June.

Mrs. Naomi Edmonds, another member of the Commission, said that no one has yet been named to replace former chairman Peter Anderberg, who stepped down last fall. She indicated a chairman may possibly be named following the appointment of new commission members in May or June.

Feels Helplessness on Lonely Mountain

By ELLSWORTH SCHNEBLY

SEDONA, Ariz. — I should have never strayed off up the mountain like that. An old man like me, of 73 years.

But I enjoyed hiking the desolate beauty of this central Arizona range. And since I have arthritis really bad, walking helps ease the stiffness in my bones.

Mostly, though, I liked to get out because of intense loneliness. You can't be married 44 years and not miss her when she's gone. Lucille had passed on a year before. Our three children are all married.

That Saturday morning I packed my back pack, canteen and ski pole into the car. The ski pole helps me get around on the trails. Then I picked up my friends, Alma and Claude Good, along with their little granddaughter.

We parked at the base of Mingus Mountain and started hunting for stones. A wash attracted my attention. A wash is a dried up stream bed that's been scoured out of the mountainside by rain, and usually there's a lot of interesting stones uncovered.

Leaving the other folks, I climbed over a ridge and followed that wash. I noticed a jeep trail almost parallel to the wash and thought it easier to follow. I started down it, but something began to bother me.

I stopped and looked around. It wasn't the same area through which I'd come.

Figuring I'd veered too far to the left, I turned to the right. I found what I thought was the wash but it deepened.

The wash sank deeper until it became a canyon.

Dust caked on my skin, and my lips cracked from the heat. Only a little water sloshed in my canteen now, but I saved it.

The wilderness darkened and it became very cold.

As I wore only light trousers and a shirt, I covered my aching knees with my back pack and pulled some deciduous boughs over me.

About midnight the rocks had cooled, and a cold rain began to fall. I cramped more, shivering violently. It was about this time that I thought I was going to die. And I felt so alone.

Then the rain ceased, and the stars came out, a billion twinkling lights. And I saw it. The North Star. It was a familiar, reassuring sight. I used to point it out to Lucille when we'd sit on our patio.

As I hung onto its steady light, I began to realize that as sure as His star was there, so was He. And even if I was going to die because of my own foolishness, God would be there with me through it, and would welcome me home.

I began to talk to Him, thanking him for the years He had given Lucille and me, for our children and grandchildren.

And soon I didn't feel lonely anymore.

By now the peaks around me were beginning to lighten; it was five o'clock, Sunday morning.

"Okay, Ellsworth," I said to myself. "The Lord has seen fit to give us another day. Let's see what we can do with it." My body still ached terribly; but I could walk.

Then I heard the most beautiful sound: running water. I pushed cactus and catclaw away from a zigzag slit down a rock wall and there was a pool of clear water running over the edge. I fell into it and drank slowly. Now I know why Jesus used the words, "water of life."

I started walking again but by now my head was swimming and my body cried out in pain. And then I saw a lone pinon tree. Using my ski pole as a crutch, I half-crawled over to it.

A plane soared over quite high and I figured it was from the nearby Cottonwood airport. I took out my mirror to flash at any other plane that might fly over.

I just kept flashing. Finally another plane flew over. He dipped his wings, soared around several times before he disappeared. Had he seen me? I just couldn't do anything more. I crawled under that pinon tree and collapsed into the rich dirt.

Then someone yelled.

I half arose and croaked back. I could see two horsemen on a far slope. They yelled again. In about a half hour, I looked up to see my good friend Floyd Orr, along with another man. They had rescued me from my lonely mountain.

They fired their Colts to signal that I had been found. And in a little while, a helicopter took me to the hospital in Cottonwood where my son and daughters hugged and kissed me, even though I was covered with mud.

They told me my story was on radio and television, that people all over the Southwest were praying for me.

Imagine that. Not just my children and friends, but people who had never heard of me, praying for me. It gave me a lot to think about — that, along with the comforting presence of God who, I know now, will always be with me, whether I'm sitting in church or lying out on a mountain somewhere.

I'll never feel lonely again.

Section C

For the BRIDE

Wedding vows were exchanged April 13 at First United Methodist Church between Miss Karen Kraft, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Kraft, Hughesville, and Bruce Randall Bird, son of George Bird, Dodge City, Kan., and Mrs. Ronald Viebrock, 117 South Grand. The candlelight ceremony that evening was the climax of many months of preparation by both the bride's and groom's families.

The Sedalia Democrat-Capital hopes this annual bridal section, filled with information about all phases of wedding planning and setting up housekeeping, will be helpful to area families who are planning upcoming weddings.

See the latest in wedding fashions from area bridal shops and read about local women who have directed weddings, the effect of premarital counseling as seen by area clergymen, services provided by Sedalia florists and procedures for obtaining marriage licenses.

The Democrat-Capital wishes to thank the merchants and models who participated in this section as well as Sacred Heart Catholic Church, First United Methodist Church, Broadway Presbyterian Church, St. Paul's Lutheran Church and First Christian Church for use of their facilities in photographing this section.

Complete details of the Kraft-Bird wedding are given on page 3 of Section B.

Florists Provide Many Services

By LANA LISTON
Women's Editor

Even for the florist there's more to a wedding than flowers. From helping the bride plan her wedding activities to seeing that she is walking down the aisle correctly during the Lohengrin processional, complete wedding services are offered by two local florists.

Both Archias Floral Company and Pfeiffers Flower Shop in Sedalia service local weddings from bouquets for the bridal party and the church altar to complete reception set-ups, it was learned after interviews with the local shops.

Before sending out invitations or making complete plans, the florist should be contacted, Don King, manager of Archias, said. "If the prospective bride contacts us early enough and there are already too many weddings for that date or some other reason for us to have to reject her wedding, perhaps the bride can still change the date," he said, noting that such a problem arose recently when a girl wanted her wedding Mother's Day weekend."

"We have too much regular business to accept a wedding that weekend," King said. Luckily enough, the girl had not ordered invitations when she first contacted the florist and was able to change the date.

Other "floral holidays" which are difficult for floral companies to service are Easter, Christmas and Valentine's Day.

Mrs. Phillip Pfeiffer of Pfeiffer's Flower Show said she would like an appointment set so she can anticipate the girl's wedding before she arrives at the shop. "We try to make each girl's wedding unique," she said.

At the initial consultation with the florist, usually four to six weeks before the wedding, the bride-to-be and her mother relate pertinent details of the event: time, date, place, colors and types of flowers desired. "They should check with us regarding the flower type and colors available before doing any concrete planning," King said. For example, a girl should not plan her entire winter wedding around asters because they simply are not available in the winter. Daisies aren't available in the winter either," King noted, but said roses and carnations are used year round and stephanotis is good for spring and summer weddings.

After the initial conference Mrs. Pfeiffer said she suggests things for the girls to be thinking about. Between the first and second meeting she works out a plan for the bride's wedding.

At the second meeting Mrs. Pfeiffer said she takes fabric samples from the bride and talks about the individuals who are in the wedding party. "We like to know the gown styles, hairstyles and the general size of the attendants. Then we can suggest appropriate bouquet types, Mrs. Pfeiffer said. "For example, we would not suggest a petite round bouquet for a tall, large-boned bridesmaid," she said.

Flowers for the "average wedding" would include a bridal bouquet, bouquets for the attendants, corsages for the mothers, grandmothers and servers, boutonnieres for men attendants, altar vases and centerpieces for the rehearsal dinner and reception.

Equipment offered by both floral companies includes candelabra, altar decorations such as arches and kneeling benches, aisle carpets, table candelabra, tablecloths and punch bowls.

After setting up the church and reception with floral decorations and candelabra, the local florists say they help the wedding party prepare for the ceremony. Mrs. Pfeiffer said she carries a "panic kit" with scissors, tape, thread and facial tissues for any last minute problems.

Attendants are shown the proper way to handle bouquets and corsages and boutonnieres are pinned on other members of the wedding party.

When the wedding ceremony begins the florists are still there to help with any last minute adjustments, both said.

Mrs. Pfeiffer said she thinks the flowers are the most important part of the wedding after the ceremony itself. "Without the decorations and the party-look of flowers, the event loses its effect entirely," she said.

New Trends In Footwear

Instead of hobbling down the aisle on yesterday's spiked heels and pointed-toes shoes, modern brides take the natural approach to fashion.

Today's back-to-nature style trend has liberated the foot and placed it in sandals and open-toed shoes to match casual-style peasant or Victorian gowns.

With the show of bared toes, foot experts note that more young brides are emphasizing a head-to-foot grooming routine in preparation for luncheons, "showers," and especially the "big day."

The foot-grooming routine starts with a soothing, warm bath that includes using a pedi-brush and a beauty stone, to smoothe rough spots on heels and bottoms of feet.

A follow-up pedicure is polished off with a coat of enamel in a new earthy tone to match well-manicured nails, and bright lip colors.

Brides also give feet a lift — keep them in shape for the long hours of receiving-line-standing by wearing exercise sandals, a versatile accessory to pack into the honeymoon wardrobe, too.

Bridal Story Publication Rules Listed

Brides-elect who wish to submit their wedding stories to The Sedalia Democrat-Capital should secure blank forms at the newsroom. Information on deadlines is printed at the top of the wedding forms.

There is no charge for publication of bridal stories but only those forms submitted within the established deadlines are considered for publication.

Wedding stories, with or without a photograph, must be submitted no later than Thursday noon of the second week after the ceremony. Bridal pictures are to be black and white professional photographs, preferably a waist-length portrait of the bride in a 5-by-7 inch size.

Thursday at noon is the deadline for all bridal entries submitted for publication in the following Sunday's edition. Only the entries of brides or grooms who live in the Democrat-Capital circulation area will be considered for publication.

Photographs may be picked up at The Democrat-Capital newsroom following publication, but none will be returned by mail unless accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope. The Democrat-Capital will not be responsible for damage which may occur to photographs submitted.

Can Accommodate Large Groups

Complete reception facilities for spring and summer weddings are available at the Ramada Inn, according to catering director Mrs. Jean Gates.

"We can accommodate up to 350 or 400 people," Mrs. Gates, said, noting that the Ramada Inn furnishes the complete table appointments and decorates the room in the bride's color scheme.

"Many brides have their wedding pictures taken here, too," Mrs. Gates said. The center lobby staircase has been used for many wedding pictures.

Three weeks notice is required for all receptions but "the earlier they (brides) contact us, the better off we are," the catering director said.

Plan Wedding Around Bride's Wishes

By LANA LISTON
Women's Editor

Two Sedalia women who have directed weddings locally for several years say that the most important thing for the bride-elect or her mother to do when planning a wedding is to "keep in mind that it is the bride's wedding and to plan it according to what the bride wants."

Mrs. J.W. Wofford, 1428 South Park, began directing weddings when she planned the celebration for her daughter nine years ago. Since that time she has done everything from complete wedding services to planning receptions for all types of events including weddings, anniversaries and baby showers.

"I do it because I like to," Mrs. Wofford said. Her involvement in wedding directing has been a "hobby" not a business. For Mrs. William Dick, 1402 South Warren, directing weddings has also been a hobby.

Mrs. Dick, who is presently director of volunteers for the Meals on Wheels project in Sedalia, isn't servicing weddings this spring. "I have enjoyed helping girls who need the help," Mrs. Dick said, "but I have had to turn down many requests because of my family activities and involvement in Meals on Wheels."

Both women, however, have had years of experience in organizing weddings and relate their activities from the first consultation to wishing the new couple happiness as they leave for their honeymoon as fun and rewarding times, knowing they have helped to produce an important and meaningful event for all.

At the first interview with a prespective bride and her mother Mrs. Dick and Mrs. Wofford gather pertinent information.

Before wedding invitations are ordered Mrs. Dick suggests that the bride-elect contact her florist and photographer to make sure they can service her wedding. "There are just some days when the florist or photographer is so booked up that the bride may have to change her wedding if she wants a particular business to accommodate her."

The reception location should also be confirmed before obtaining invitations, Mrs. Dick said, noting that this is particularly important for a restaurant reception.

Church reception conflicts probably won't be encountered if the wedding date has been cleared with the church, but Mrs. Dick suggests that the bride-elect check into the possibility of a church women's group handling the reception.

"Some churches offer this service for a very small fee," Mrs. Dick said, "and they usually do a very complete job."

"Invitations should be ordered early enough to have them addressed and in the mail 30 days prior to the wedding," Mrs. Wofford said.

The bride's color scheme needs to be related to the wedding director or caterer so flowers and table decorations can be coordinated. Mrs. Wofford said the caterer should be contacted at least six weeks prior to the wedding. She will need to know the number of reception guests, types of refreshments desired and how the bride wants the tables to look.

As a reception caterer, Mrs. Wofford orders the wedding cake and takes care of the table decorations entirely. "The reason people hire a caterer, Mrs. Wofford said, "is because they don't want to have to plan the reception. They want to leave the entire thing in your hands."

One of the most important things to be done for a smoothly run wedding, according to Mrs. Dick, is for the ushers to be properly coached so they know exactly what is expected of them. "Ushers need to be reminded that they should arrive at the ceremony 30 minutes early, before the first guests," she said. "They should ask guests which side of the family they represent or if they are the friends of the bride or groom. Then the woman should be escorted to the proper area of the church by the usher with any men in her party following."

"Ushers should be told that after the ceremony they are to get the mother of the bride first, then the mother of the groom. They should then stand at the pews and allow the guests to exit row by row from the altar area to the back of the church," she said.

Mrs. Dick advises the bride and groom to leave the back of the church immediately following the ceremony to avoid any guests from greeting them at this time. "This is the reason for the receiving line," Mrs. Dick said.

Mrs. Wofford said she always has a drink of water waiting for the bride and groom when they get out of the church. "It's a kind of refreshment that gives them a quick chance to calm down. During the ceremony they have gotten so nervous and dry that I have found they really appreciate this."

Following the ceremony Mrs. Wofford said the bride and groom will usually go to the reception area, if it is in the church, to take the cake cutting picture and form the receiving line.

After guests have been greeted the wedding party returns to the sanctuary for formal pictures while guests are served refreshments.

"Just before the new couple leave on their honeymoon, I give them a little package filled with nuts and mints," Mrs. Wofford said. "It isn't much but they really enjoy having it."

One tip Mrs. Dick has often related to brides on their wedding day is "Be sweet to your daddy." "Dad pays for everything," Mrs. Dick said, "Mom is a nervous wreck and all Dad gets is to walk down the aisle, maybe five seconds."

Both Mrs. Dick and Mrs. Wofford said many brides lift their veils and give their dads a kiss when they get to the front of the church.

Her Hand Care Is Important

Even in today's innovative wedding ceremonies which are often written by the bride and groom, the touching of hands and the exchanging of symbols invariably remain an important part of the nuptials. Soft, well-cared for hands are vital for the ceremony.

To have them, begin as soon as the wedding date is set so you can guarantee yourself a beautiful hand for that most beautiful day. Avoid chapping, wear warm gloves when it's cold and take a few minutes several times a day to apply a good moisturizing lotion. Heated houses and cold weather both snatch moisture from the skin.

Check your fingernails, too. Gently push back cuticles each day and keep your nails trimmed evenly. With busy days and little spare time for grooming rituals, use a clear polish.

Bells Are Ringing

Wedding bells will soon be ringing for Miss Pam McGrath, Walnut Hills, who will be married to Jack Hamilton Lewis. Showing a summer sheer wedding gown of chalk white silk organza with ruffles to trim the high neckline, sleeves and flounced skirt, Miss McGrath wears a matching chapel length veil of silk illusion edged with lace and held by a small lace camelot cap. Miss Diane Bishop, LaMonte, displays a bridesmaid's gown of pink and blue floral print on voile with high ruffled neckline and tiered skirt. A wide grosgrain ribbon circles the waist and a picture hat of pink organza braid completes her fresh spring look. Both the brider and her attendant found their entire wedding wardrobes at the C. W. Don't Forget The License

With all the hustle and bustle of wedding preparations one thing which could easily be forgotten but should rank first among "last minute things not to forget" is securing the marriage license.

Probably the least expensive item on the entire wedding list, the license is essential before a couple can be allowed to be married.

The couple must apply for their marriage license in the state where they will be married and the ceremony must be held within 10 days after the date of the license or it becomes void, Mrs. Naomi Brown, Pettis County Recorder of Deeds said.

Most couples in the Sedalia area get their licenses from the recorder of deeds' office at the Pettis County Courthouse which is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily including the noon hour.

Mrs. Brown reminds engaged couples that blood tests are required to secure a marriage license. The test results must be obtained from a state-approved blood testing laboratory. In Sedalia couples may go to Bothwell Hospital, Boyce and Bynum Laboratory or contact their private physicians for information about the blood testing.

"Application for the license must be made three full days prior to issuance," Mrs. Brown emphasized. "If a couple applies for a license on Monday, they may pick it up on Thursday." Mrs. Brown said it is not necessary for both the bride-elect and her fiance to be present at both times, but the two must sign the license, so both must be present at one time or the other.

Mrs. Brown said she may require a birth certificate for proof of age. Permission from one parent must be secured for a girl under 18 or a man under 21 and marriage licenses are not issued to couples under 15 years of age without a court order, she said.

Within 10 days after the wedding ceremony a portion of the license is to be mailed back to the recorder's office by the officiating minister.

No guests are seated after the mother of the bride. Once she has been seated the wedding ceremony has begun.

VERY SOON YOU WLL BE MRS.

It will take quite a while to get used to your new name. And it will take a much longer time to settle down into the pleasing and very important "routine" of being a homemaker.

You have probably planned for your wedding for some time and you want this occasion of transition from bride to wife to be JUST RIGHT, everything the very best, consistent with your family's budget.

Don't ever lose this sense of value, the best in furniture is very often the lowest priced over the years and the most satisfying by far in comfort and "compliments." You will want to show off your new home to the many friends who will drop in on you and . . . whether it's a two-room apartment or a mansion . . . you will want to show it with pride.

So, when you start to pick out your furniture, start with McLaughlin Bros. We are a firm that has been furnishing brides' homes for over 93 years. Surely such confidence must be deserved.

Our brand names, too, are old timers and have stood up to the test of time. They are still in business because they are constantly improving and keeping up with the changing styles, fabrics, colors and trends that the young . . . and the old . . . love.

So . . . always get the best, young Mrs. . . .; you've started out with the best husband in the universe. Bring him and start your life together with the best furniture your budget will allow. Both McLaughlin Bros. and our suppliers will be here to back up everything we sell.

Before the Ceremony

Long before any of the wedding party arrives, local florists decorate the church according to plans set by the bride and her family. Here Don King of Archias Floral Company arranges a bouquet of daisies and cattylea orchids in a marble-like urn on a gothic column while designer Ron Mathews places candles in the 20-branch pyramid candelabrum. All types of altar decorations including arches and kneeling benches are available from the local florist.

At the Altar

On her wedding day the bride in an elegant gown of embroidered organza with wide Venice lace at the bodice, yoke and collar will long be remembered by all who witness her wedding. Long sheer sleeves end with wide cuffs of lace and close with tiny covered buttons on this gown shown by Mrs. Dala Yontz of Dala's Bridal Boutique in Tipton. Falling from the waistline is an embroidered organza skirt that sweeps to a flared chapel length train and her look is completed with a Juliet cap of matching lace that secures her long veil.

Compact Appliances Give Big Performance in Small Areas

Time was when only the homeowner could take advantage of the "luxury" of dishwashers, washers and dryers, and air conditioning.

Now, with the advent of new portable and compact appliances, most everyone can enjoy "the good life" — even in newlyweds' efficiency apartment or retirees' mobile home.

Portable appliances were a natural outgrowth of our highly mobile society, while the current trend to compactness seems to stem from the 1970 and 1971 slowdown in housing starts which forced many young Americans into apartments where space is at a premium.

Still another factor causing appliance makers to think small is the growimg number of retirees and "empty nesters" who do not feel the continued need for the full-size appliances that were so necessary when their children were growing up.

Most appliance makers have jumped into the "mini" market in the past two years to some degree — particularly laundry equipment — but only a few offer a complete line of space-saving compacts.

Many compacts are simply smaller editions of their fully featured big brothers, points out Gordon Koppert, who represents the manufacturer. Others, however, are "stripped" versions designed to be attractive price leaders. "Some of the so-called portable washers on the market today are little more convenient than doing your laundry in the bathroom sink," he says.

The firm's philosophy has been to try to put the kind of features on its compacts that the homemaker has come to expect on their full-size counterparts.

"Although space is the problem for most compact buyers," Koppert said, "we feel they still should be able to enjoy the convenience features of an automatic appliance."

Here's a quick rundown on seven different compact appliances, all UL-approved, that are truly space misers:

Air Conditioner: Weighs just 43 pounds and is less than 11 inches deep. Has a built-in carrying handle so it can be moved from room to room. This window unit operates on 115-volts.

Refrigerator: Only 24 inches wide but with 9.5 cubic foot capacity. "This is about a cubic foot more than the largest model we offered 20 years ago, but today is our smallest," Koppert said.

Freezer: A 6.2 cubic foot model with a food storage capacity of 216 pounds that is just countertop height.

Dishwasher: Top-loading model, with two pushbutton cycles. Wood cutting board top for extra work surface and concealed casters. It measures just 21¾ inches wide by 27½ inches deep by 32¾ inches high, far smaller than any front-loading convertible on the market.

Range: Just 21 inches wide but with deluxe styling and brushed-chrome backsplash and aluminum control panel.

Dryer: Automatic electric model, handles 5 pound load, operates on 115-volts, and requires no venting.

Buy China in Place Settings

China should also be bought in place settings. Again, eight each of dinner plates, bread and butter plates, cups and saucers, and soup bowls are recommended. Extras include soup plates, salad plates, dessert plates, one meat platter, three vegetable dishes and one cream and sugar set.

Silver holloware is the beautifully natural companion.

Check the linen closet, too. Your new home will be a popular one for the first few months or more. Make sure there is an ample supply of entertainment accessories and linen for overnight guests.

Explains Entertainment Ideas

Leave it to Olga, often called "the first lady of underfashions," to simplify life for every woman. European-born and bred, this gracious designer combines a knack for pleasing men with a practical sense of comfort that pleases the ladies too.

Take her new loungewear idea called "one-piece dressing." This begins as a bareback top and ends as palazzo pants or a flowing tulip-print skirt. Add shoes, and you're ready to entertain.

If the mirror tells you that by no stretch of the imagination can you wear that "stretch appeal" bodice, don't despair. Get rid of unwanted pounds and inches fast by substituting a diet food for one or more regular meals as needed.

When Olga designs a party dessert, you'd probably expect her to have something fluffy and light, delectable to look at and delicious besides, and you'd be right. Her Refrigerator Lemon Pie is all these things and more. It uses whipped evaporated milk, lighter in calories than rich heavy cream, lighter on flavor to let delicate lemon flavor come through.

Olga's Refrigerator Lemon Pie
(Makes 9-inch pie)

9-inch graham cracker crumb crust
1 package (3¼ ounces) lemon pudding and pie filling mix
Two-thirds undiluted evaporated milk
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon lemon rind
3 tablespoons toasted shredded coconut

Prepare pudding mix according to package directions for lemon meringue pie. Place in refrigerator until cool (about 30 minutes) stirring often. Chill evaporated milk in refrigerator tray until soft ice crystals form around edges of tray (10-15 minutes). Whip until stiff (1 minute). Add lemon juice. Whip until very stiff (1 minute longer). Add lemon rind to pudding. Whip pudding until fluffy. Fold whipped evaporated milk into pudding. Pour into pie shell. Chill until set (about 3 hours). Garnish with toasted coconut just before serving.

Bride and Maid

The fitted bodice and short puffed sleeves of Nottingham lace are accented by Venice lace trim and a satin ribbon in this wedding gown from Dala's Bridal Boutique, Tipton. Shown by Mrs. Dala Yontz, owner, the gown features a flounce of scalloped lace edging the hemline of the softly flowing skirt which sweeps to a chapel length train. Her Venice lace cap, secured to a three tiered elbow veil of illusion, completes her look which is complemented by her attendant, Mrs. Janett Briscoe, Tipton, who shows a white formal of pique with multi-colored embroidery. The short puffed sleeves are gently touched with eyelet and satin ribbons of yellow, pink and blue encircle the hemline of the softly gathered skirt.

Paper Towels Make Glass Areas Gleam

A new marriage and a new home usually go together. And whether the bride starts out in a tiny apartment or spacious house she'll want to keep it as shining as her new hopes.

To help make her environment sparkle, especially the windows and other glass surfaces, she'll appreciate the convenience of paper towels.

Many a new Mrs. (and her mother and friends, too) can't devote full time to housewifery because they're busy at outside jobs or going to school. So they welcome streamlined cleaning techniques. One of the worst chores, most agree, is keeping windows clean.

"Don't do it the hard way," says Bette Gollrad, Scott Paper Company's consumer information specialist. "Today's homemaker can't be bothered with the old method — buckets of water, sponges, squeegees, rags and old newspapers."

Miss Gollrad suggests that you spray on one of the special window-cleaning solutions, then polish the glass with a clean, absorbent paper towel. "And there's no lint hangover, either," she adds.

If you're an ammonia-and-water buff (or have you tried vinegar and water?), use the wet-strength towels for speedy washing as well as polishing.

Party Mixers

Anyone can give a party. But the secret of a party where the host and hostess have as much fun as everyone else is — preparation and organization. Even a party put together on the spot will benefit from prior just-in-case arrangements and having everything needed right at hand.

If you haven't a bar or a bar-cart in your living room, set aside one cabinet and a nearby drawer in the kitchen. The cabinet is for storing a selection of liquor and mixers so that you're ready for any chance visit.

Stock some Scotch, vodka, a blended whiskey and a status-symbol 101-proof Kentucky bourbon for the on-the-rocks sippers you know. A fine brandy-liqueur takes care of before and after-dinner brandy lovers very neatly. Keep a fruit liqueur to be either sipped plain, poured on desserts or cooked with.

Don't forget an aperitif for guests who are convivial but don't drink hard liquor. They'll appreciate your foresight in having ready a bottle of garnet-red Campari, for instance, which is only 48-proof and has a tart, lively taste. This European favorite is usually enjoyed mixed with club soda and ice, with tonic, or served in a Negroni or Americano.

Sterling Is Bride's Wish

Can a bride find happiness in marriage without sterling?

Yes — but think how much more fun it will be with it!

Sterling's just made for special occasions — like moving day after the honeymoon, and eating that first dinner-for-two sitting on the floor in front of the cocktail table. Even with cold cuts on the table and packing boxes in the background, sterling helps make the occasion memorable.

And later, when there are friends to entertain, new neighbors to meet, and in-laws coming to town for the big holiday weekend, sterling's elegance and company manners are there to depend on. Its authority is so unchallenged, in fact, that a girl can get along with even quite ordinary china and glass on her table. Solid silver carries the day!

It's why more brides than ever before are picking out their sterling pattern long in advance of the wedding day, and registering it. They recognize a good thing when they see it — and they know there's no better way to create a "special-occasion" atmosphere for those important meals they'll be planning in their new life.

Happily, sterling rates high with the very gift-givers who'll be responsible for providing the bride with her set. And their choice is a good one, for there's hardly any other thing they could choose that combines beauty and practicality in such a felicitous manner. What other possession can a woman own in her lifetime, for instance, that has high value (which continues to grow), great durability, and whose looks improve with age and use? If ever there was a "perfect gift," sterling silver is it!

Gift-givers will appreciate the utter convenience, too, of shopping for sterling silver at the bridal gift registry. It's merely a matter of suiting the gift to the budget, for when a bride registers her pattern, she lets the bridal gift consultant know which pieces she particularly wants — and the store keeps track of all subsequent gifts she receives.

If, for instance, the bride-to-be has registered her pattern and has already received, say, six place settings from her parents (the bride's prime donors, according to statistics), a close relative might choose to give her another place setting. Or the choice might be one or more of the serving pieces, such as the pie or cake server, the buffet spoon, or flat server.

If the gift-giver is a friend of the bride or her family, a more modest (but nonetheless hoped-for) gift could be one of the smaller serving pieces — perhaps the jelly spoon, lemon fork, or bon bon or nut spoon. Or it might be one or two teaspoons or dessert forks.

Frame It

What to do with the wedding gown after the wedding has puzzled many a bride who would rather see it go to better use than filling a closet.

According to Mrs. Dala Yontz, owner of Dala's Bridal Boutique in Tipton, the most unusual "post-nuptial" use for a wedding gown she has heard is to take the decorative train and have it framed over the bed for a large wall hanging.

Making Decisions

During an interview with the prospective bride and her mother, Mrs. Phillip Pfeiffer of Pfeiffer's Flower Shop, center, shows types of bouquets from the many books and photo albums at her shop. In a picture frame at the back is a screen for showing color slides of wedding flowers, types of reception arrangements and altar settings from former Sedalia weddings. Mrs. Douglas Jennings and her daughter, Pat, 2025 Fairview Court, are planning for Pat's Aug. 4 wedding to Rickey Craig, son of Mrs. Betty Craig, 128 South Park.

Consider Gown That Could Be Worn Later

If there's going to be a wedding in your family this year, don't expect it to be formal in the traditional sense. For one thing, gone are the days when an elaborate gown was purchased for the big day, worn once, then packed away in the cedar chest. What a waste! How much more with it to choose a very special dress that can be worn on the wedding day — and then worn again and again, on special occasions throughout the years.

Will the wedding dress stay in style? Of course it will, if it's chosen for simplicity and classic design in the first place.

The bride-to-be needs to ask herself first, which is the most flattering silhouette? Empire waist, skimmer or naturally belted shirtwaist are a few of the fashion possibilities. As for the fabric, it's possible to be both romantic and practical at the same time. From the shimmer of moire to the charm of ribbons embroidered white-on-white, there's a whole snowfall of fabrics available in modern easy-care blends. The most delicate looking meringue of a wedding dress could well be yours forever.

Construction Work

Few people realize the work or the art involved in creating a wedding cake. For Mrs. Marvin Mallory, Route 4, who decorates wedding cakes for Mallory's Bakery, 600 South Ohio, the art has been acquired over the past 30 years that she and her husband have been in the bakery business. Here Mrs. Mallory shows some of the steps involved in the construction of a wedding cake. After icing the first of two bottom layers, left, she matches the high and low points of the two pieces so the bottom tier will be level. Next she shows how the decorative edging is placed on the bottom tier with a scalloped spatula. After the second and third tiers are iced and decorated sugar roses are placed on the cake. A miniature bride and groom or some other ornament, maybe even fresh flowers, will complete the cake which will serve from 75 to 100 people. Decorating a three-tiered cake takes about one hour, according to Mrs. Mallory, who suggests the prospective brides order their wedding cakes at least two weeks before the wedding.

(Democrat-Capital Photos)

How To Save Wedding Cake

The first wedding anniversary comes a lot sooner than most young couples realize and what more appropriate way to celebrate that very special day than to serve out the top tier of their wedding cake which has been simply preserved in the freezer.

According to Mrs. Marvin Mallory from Mallory's Bakery, preserving the top layer is easy. The top tier should be placed in a cake box and the box should be wrapped in plastic wrap or a plastic bag then frozen. "The cake will keep very well for a year," Mrs. Mallory said. Most young couples use the top layer for their first anniversary, she noted.

When planning the amount of cake needed for a wedding reception Mrs. Mallory said the servings are usually counted, knowing the top will be saved.

A two tier round cake will serve 24, saving the top and three tiered round cakes will serve 50 to 60 or 80 to 90 depending on the size of the layers.

A three tier square cake will serve 100 and a four tier cake serves 175 to 190 persons.

Mrs. Mallory said she discourages the use of five tiered cakes because they are so heavy and hard to work with.

Cake cutting instructions are given by the bakery, Mrs. Mallory said.

Make Up Should Reflect Best

You're going to be married, and you want your face to look flawless on your wedding day, better than you've ever looked before.

You can do it with a little planning ahead. The idea is to look like the best you that ever was, not like an over-made-up mask. You want to look like your natural self, like the girl he fell in love with. But as every woman knows, that takes a bit of artistry.

Don't wait until a few days before the wedding to experiment with make-up ideas. You'll be too harried with last-minute wedding details to do justice to your own special face and look.

Instead, set aside an evening several weeks before that marriage date to experiment with all the make-up ideas and styles that you've been reading about and meant to try.

First, try a sampling of foundation. Sponge it on with a bit of cotton or with your fingertips. Decide whether your own special skin tone calls for all-over application or just touches to hide under-eye circles or such things as a slightly sallow tone or a too-pale look.

Next, experiment with rouge. Some girls look best with a dusting of the powder-compact type. Others look most bloomingly natural with liquid rouge dotted with the fingertips high on cheek-bones, then quickly spread over the cheeks toward the temples. After you try both methods, you'll know immediately which one most flatters your own skin.

Next, go to work on your eyes. This will take the most time, but it's also the most important. Your eyes are the accent of your face. First try several of the eye shadow shades to see which ones complement your eye color and complexion.

After shadow, experiment with eye-liner, from attention-getting jet to subtler shades of blue, green and taupe. Mascara can be messy to apply by conventional methods — so try this trick: use a cotton swab to lightly feather the color onto lashes. You'll find lashes won't stick together and get gummy.

Finally, find the lipstick that's right for you. Try a dark shade or a pale, pale tint even though you think it's not at all suitable. Remember, you're experimenting, and you wouldn't be the first one to be pleasantly surprised.

Once you've found your look, practice with it in the weeks before your wedding, so it all becomes easy and natural for you. And when the wedding guests exclaim, "What a beautiful bride", you'll know they mean every word of it.

Check Facilities Early

Mrs. Betty Timko from the Holiday Inn says prospective brides should be sure to plan their wedding receptions at least two months in advance to be sure facilities are available.

The Holiday Inn has the capacity to serve wedding receptions for about 200 people and a set fee includes the cost of punch, table appointments and mints and nuts and service.

"Love is an ideal thing, marriage a real thing; a confusion of the real with the ideal never goes unpunished." — Goethe

Premarital Sessions Help With Later Adjustments

By DENISE GROTZINGER
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

Premarital counseling is a routine part of wedding plans for most couples who plan to have a church wedding, yet few ministers expect the prospective bride and groom to be immediately affected by the sessions. They do hope, however, that what is discussed during the premarital sessions will become a basis for the marriage relationship in later years.

"I hope the couple might use the counseling as a guide," the Rev. Phil E. Newell of Church of the Open Bible said when questioned about the reason for premarital counseling. "I trust and hope that the principles shared might be remembered if later difficulties develop."

Premarital counseling is required in many of the churches of Sedalia. The number of sessions depends upon the minister and couple involved.

The Rev. Ray Gipson of Parkview Christian Church said, "Most weddings which I officiate occur within our church and little counseling is necessary."

Most churches require three or more counseling sessions before the wedding. The subjects discussed vary with each minister, some using books and tests as guides.

"We use a test which covers the whole gamut of marriage relationships," said the Rev. Gregory Hibbard of Trinity Lutheran Church. "The test proves to be an effective discussion starter." starter."

According to the Rev. William Lusk of Calvary Episcopal Church, the premarital sessions among couples in his church have a open format which involve the preparations for marriage and the spiritual and physical aspects of marriage. These sessions provide a way for the clergyman to see if the couple is ready for marriage.

"Counseling is based upon how the Bible sets up the home," the Rev. A. Wilson Phillips of Westside Assembly of God Church said. "It regards the relationship that man should have with his wife."

Most of the ministers agree that the positive results of counseling are not immediately seen. Any results at all come about only in the event that the couple is seeking answers.

The Rev. Vincent Hoying of Sacred Heart Catholic Church said, "There are definite benefits in having the couple talk if they listen and get down to the issues."

According to the Rev. James Kane of Maplewood Church couples often feel that something is derived from the sessions because things are explained that they weren't aware of concerning the Biblical basis of the marriage relationship. Few couples are even aware that the Bible sets up a divine order for a husband-wife relationship.

One fact particularly stressed by the Rev. Roger A. Williams of Broadway Presbyterian Church is that "marriage is not merely for procreation but for general happiness associated with physical companionship." He bases this belief on the second chapter of Genesis.

Most premarital counseling is done by the ministers of Sedalia. The Sedalia Counseling Center, based at Bothwell Hospital, will accept referrals from any source if couples want or need additional counseling.

According to Mrs. Vickie Manley, a psychiatric social worker at the Counseling Center, structured areas are discussed which include any and all subjects remotely concerned with marriage.

Roses and carnations are two flowers that are available year round.

Combine Old and New

Roth's Department Store combines the new and the old in a bridal gown worn by Miss Tonya Young. The gown, which begins with a raised neckline and sheer yoke trimmed with appliqued Venice lace, features Renaissance sleeves trimmed at the wrist with a slight ruffle. The skirt of her gown is softly gathered and falls from a bow in the back to a chapel train. The bridesmaid's gown worn by Miss Joy Young is as fresh and pretty as a bouquet of spring flowers. The raised neckline is sheer and delicately trimmed with lace while sheer cap sleeves are trimmed with a soft ruffle along the bottom and the bodice is fitted with an empire waist from which a softly gathered floral print skirt flows. The Rett Butler tuxedo, a new look in the formal fashion scene for both day and evening, is shown by Pete Healey. Colored ruffled shirts or dickies, shoes, gloves, vests and canes as well as a coat, flare trousers, while pleated shirt, cummerband, tie, cufflinks and suspenders are all available from Roth's.

Decorate Home With Carpets and Fabrics

If you're like most young marrieds, chances are you'll start off your new home with a few pieces of good furniture and then fill in the empty spaces as the budget permits. But that in no way means you can't have a beautiful first apartment or home. By letting your imagination take over where the pocketbook can't, you can create a personalized environment.

Decorators have discovered smart, new low-cost ideas using carpets and fabrics — and the practical aspects of these two decorating basics are built-in boons. Both cushion noise from next door or above. They are hardwearing too ... And if you choose materials of man-made fibers, they're a whiz to soap-and-water clean and maintain.

One eye-catching modern living room seen recently owes its success to a combination of floor carpet and upholstery carpet.

Although the room looks professionally done, you can manage practically the entire decor yourself. Both the carpet and fabric on the wall were applied with a heavy duty, double-faced carpet tape. To cover the plywood boxes, first measure the sides of the box or cube. Use carpet shears to cut individual pieces of carpet and affix the pieces with vinyl adhesive. Use headless nails to secure the corners. Carpet remnants found at department stores are good to use for the boxes and wall treatment. To construct the fabric window panels, measure the room from floor to ceiling and figure out the width you'd like the panels. Use ¾" x 1¾" pieces of plywood to make the frame. Nail a piece of homosote the entire length and width of the frame. Pull fabric over frame tightly and nail to back. Attach to a valance or ceiling with angle irons.

Weddings Are Becoming Personal

By DENISE GROTZINGER
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

Weddings are less restricted, more informal, the bride and groom are doing their "own thing" and the ceremonies are becoming a personal project. Tradition has ceased to be the law and become an option.

"Today the ceremonies are freer. The couples want individuality in the marriage rite," said the Rev. H. James Kane, pastor of Maplewood Church.

Music is the most obvious change in the ceremonies with popular music often being selected by the bride. Many times the music cannot be secular because of some ministers' objections to its use in a religious ceremony. Others, however, permit whatever is meaningful to the couple.

The Rev. Denis Craft of First United Methodist Church said, "If the music is suitable for the worship service then it can be used in the wedding. If not then I suggest that it be used at the rehearsal dinner, the reception or before or after the actual ceremony."

"The brides want modern pieces that they have heard played on the radio," said Mrs. Robert Woolery, organist at Wesley United Methodist Church. "Guitars and pianos are being used where the organ used to be the only acceptable instrument."

According to Mrs. Woolery, vocalists used to be a standard at weddings. Now the trend appears to be away from solos, she said.

"Vocalists now are usually friends of the bride, people who sing well and who the brides really want in their weddings. Very few brides I work with are just going out and hiring vocalists," said Mrs. Rosalie DeLozier, organist at Epworth United Methodist and First United Methodist Churches.

Meaningless fads and empty practices in weddings are being discouraged. Use of decoration, symbols and music which emphasize a feeling or meaning desired by the couple are being accepted by most pastors.

"It is the bride's wedding, whatever she wants I would go along with as long as it was not sacreligious," remarked the Rev. Ray Gipson of Parkview Christian Church. He added that weddings in his church are informal and he strives to make them personal.

Difference for the sake of being different rarely appears to be the case in Sedalia. Church weddings seem to have retained the basic format of tradition with symbolism the main reason for change.

"If a marriage is to be a religious service then to create a spectacle or impression other than one of worship is something I couldn't agree with," the Rev. Gregory Hibbard of Trinity Lutheran Church said.

Couples are beginning to change the vows to contemporary wording, to something meaningful to them. They are saying what they want to say to each other, and making promises they want to keep.

"The trend is to move away from commitments and away from the recognition of the wife as being submissive to her husband," said the Rev. Phil Newell of the Church of the Open Bible. "I require that the vows stay basically the same to agree with what the Bible describes as the proper relationship of wife to husband."

Festive Addition

Mrs. Phillip Pfeiffer of Pfeiffer's Flower Shop shows Miss Pat Jennings, a future August bride, a silver champagne fountain which makes a festive addition to any wedding reception. The decorative three tiered fountain topped with a bouquet of fresh flowers is only one of several silver pieces available from Pfeiffers for wedding receptions. (Democrat-Capital Photo)

CHAPERONE

In the Sixteenth and Seventeenth centuries women frequently wore small hoods called chaperones. In time the older woman who accompanied a young woman in society came to be known as a chaperone since, metaphorically, the experienced married woman sheltered the youthful debutante as a hood sheltered the face.

In view of some evidence of lowered confidence by some men reacting to "women's lib," more aggressive women, the high-heeled shoes of today may present some significant psychological advantages. Men may subconsciously see them as not only raising their height, but also their masculinity and confidence.

Ruffles, lace and love is the theme of this bridallure gown worn by Miss Joy Young for Roth's. The high neckline and lace yoke are trimmed with a soft sheer ruffle and the fitted bodice is accented with sheer Venice lace. Long sheer sleeves are trimmed at the wrists with ruffles and a delicate ruffle trims the pinafore lace front and chapel length back of this rayon-cotton-acetate blend. A sheer lace Juliet cap with veil completes this bride's total look.

Several Sedalia Stores Offer Registries

Area brides who have definite preferences regarding everything from china, crystal and silver to can openers, vacuum cleaners and bathroom accessories will want to be sure to use the bridal registries offered by several Sedalia stores.

Couples who register their china, crystal and silver patterns at Bichsels Jewelry, 219 South Ohio, are asked to do so about two months before the wedding, manager Ted Prater said. "Many times the couple will choose patterns that we only have samples for and by making their selections early we will have plenty of time to order a supply of their pattern for people buying gifts."

Prater said that about three years ago couples were very casual and conservative in their china, crystal and silver selections. "They were buying casual pieces that had a more practical value than the fine bone china," he said. "Now the trend is swinging back. We've been selling more fine china and crystal in the past six months."

One reason for the change is that fine china has become available in less expensive patterns, in more colors and with a more "casual" look, Prater said. At the same time, pottery or stoneware has gotten better, he said, and is still quite popular. "It's not unusual for a bride to select both a fine china and stoneware pattern," he noted.

Colors are not only big news in china patterns but in crystal as well. Many more brides are choosing tinted crystal rather than clear to coordinate with their china patterns, the Bichsel's manager said.

Jim Reed, of Reed and Son Jewelry Store, 309 South Ohio, said about 50 per cent of the couples who register china, crystal and silver patterns at his store select stoneware, casual crystal and stainless steel flatware.

Seven or eight years ago when the casual china patterns that are heat and chip resistant first came out, Reed said he didn't think they would sell. "But today's brides are very practical," he said, "and about 50 per cent will select the casual ironstone patterns."

Reed urges betrothed couples to select their china, crystal and silver patterns 100 days before the wedding and offers any couple who buys their engagement and wedding rings from his store a free plate and teaspoon.

Reed and Son Jewelers also offer tablecloths, punch bowls, cake knives and nut and mint dishes for wedding receptions to couples who purchase their rings at his store and said he can service up to nine weddings each weekend.

Cash Hardware offers a household appliance registry where everything from casseroles and stoneware type dishes to vacuum cleaners may be listed as gift preference items. Prospective brides may register at either the 106 West Main store or in the location at State Fair Shopping Center and copies of their preferences will be available at both places.

A "wish-list" is filled out by brides-to-be at Queen City Electric, 315 South Ohio, where color preferences for table, bed and bath linens are recorded by Mrs. Lois Studer. Mrs. Studer said, "We try to find the bride's style preferences for decorative things such as candlesticks, salt and pepper shakers and dishes."

Brass, milkglass and cut-glass crystal are materials for many decorative gifts, Mrs. Studer said. Placemats, cookware and complete bath accessories are also popular gift items available at Queen City.

'Juliet' Look

Self-striped voile forms the puffed Juliet sleeves and insert on the square necked bodice for Miss Pam McGrath, Walnut Hills. Pink floral bands form the bodice and trim the wide juted cuffs on this flax colored attendant's gown from the C. W. Flower Company while a narrow braided circlet of voile with long floating streamers falling to the waist completes her look for a happy spring or summertime wedding.

Make Kitchen Bright, Bold

Some good advice to a bride who is setting about decorating her first home or apartment is to be bold with color.

And one way to add that extra dash to the busiest room in the house — the kitchen — is to team the front of a dishwasher with a favorite wallcovering by making use of a decorator trim kit. In this way, according to advice offered by kitchen experts, strong colors can be enjoyed without risking the chance of tiring of them long before the appliances need replacing. You can change your dishwasher front at a whim, perhaps to match another color in the room, with little effort and virtually no strain on the family budget.

When choosing a color scheme, it's important to consider the preferences of both you and your new mate. If you are "beige" people, go easy on strong colors on walls, cabinets and floor. Restrict the bright spots to the appliances themselves. If on the other hand, you like a lot of color and your kitchen cabinets are in neutral tones, then spice things up with the flooring and countertops as well as with the appliances.

Warm colors such as red, orange, yellow and their combinations, are friendly and stimulating. Generally, they enhance rooms with northern or eastern exposure. Cooler colors such as blue, green, purple, etc., are quiet and soothing and can subdue rooms with southern exposure. A color scheme is easy, according to kitchen experts, if you start with a patterned fabric, wallpaper or even a china pattern.

Whatever your starting point, however, there are a few simple rules to follow:

✔Pick only a few colors. If too many cooks spoil the soup, too many colors can spoil the color scheme.

✔Make one color the magic color. When using fabric, wallpaper or something similar to color scheme from, notice which color has been used for background or which is the predominate color of the pattern. This is the cue for the selection of the major color.

✔Offset large areas of color with smaller accent areas. Black and white are especially popular now and they can spark any color scheme. It's like the highlights and shadows in a good painting or photograph — or salt and pepper used to season food.

✔Repeat colors. A color good enough to use once is good enough to use in several places around a kitchen.

Wood and metal are considered colors, too — though generally they're neutral and non-conflicting. Some appliance makers provide stainless steel front panels for kitchen equipment such as dishwashers. Always consider the wood tone as one of the colors in the scheme.

Storing Tips

When storing fine china, crystal and china, it is best to keep the pieces separated, Bichsel Jewelry Store manager, Ted Prater said.

Crystal should not be stacked and should never be stored with the rim of the glasses down. Silver is best kept in pacific cloth, a treated cloth that slows down the oxidation process which tarnishes silver.

Linens

When buying bedroom linens, check sizes closely. There are many different bed sizes available from twin to super king size. You will need sheets: Four per bed, two fitted and two flat; pillow cases: Two per pillow, also one bedspread for each bed and a mattress pad, and mattress protector. Selection of blankets should include one pair of winter weight and one pair of summer weight per bed, and one or more electric blankets.

Look Fresh and Relaxed For Wedding Photographs

Part of the perfect wedding day is allowing for cherished momentos of the occasion — like the traditional wedding photographs.

Shots of the bride in her wedding attire, portraits of the bride and groom together and the bridal party, as well as professional candids of the wedding and reception are all vital parts in assuring that this most important day will be preserved in the wedding album. And today, wedding remembrances can be brought a step further — by having the photographers make movies as well as still photographs at the wedding and reception.

While more and more professional photographers are now providing this total package coverage — from professional portraits, to formal candids and professional movies — they can still use a bit of help from you. To be extra sure your wedding pictures and movies are really great, portrait experts advise careful planning.

First, schedule your formal bridal portrait sitting several weeks prior to the wedding day. This will allow plenty of time for viewing the proofs and making a selection for the photo you want to accompany the wedding announcement in the newspapers. By scheduling the sitting this far in advance of the wedding day, you will avoid the last minute rush of wedding plans and be relaxed for the photographer!

Preparing for this sitting is easier than ever since today's sophisticated cameras will make the "prettiest "you" come across without heavy makeup or exaggerated hairstyles. As a matter of fact, today's key to successful wedding portraits is looking as dewy-fresh and natural as you will on your wedding day.

To do this, get plenty of sleep the night before the sitting and apply a minimum of shadow and mascara to make your eyes look their sparkling best in the portrait. If you plan to have your hair done professionally on the wedding day, now's a great time to try out a natural-looking hairstyle that looks well with your headpiece. Also, brief the photographer on the style of your wedding dress and headpiece. This information may affect his choice of background and will help him plan for the photographic coverage on the wedding day.

The next step in your wedding coverage comes with the formal and informal photographs taken on the wedding day. Your appearance will, of course, be at its sparkling best. But, remember to discuss this coverage with the photographer in detail beforehand. Examine his shooting style to get an idea of the type of candids he takes. Suggest other types of shots you'd like. If you've planned some special event during the ceremony or reception, brief the photographer so he will be ready. Provide him with descriptions of the bridesmaids' gowns so he can plan for some really colorful photographs and movies. And, if you would like to have the group portrait taken in a special outdoor location, remember to mention this to the photographer.

Inquire, too, about the new portrait card collections available at local photography studios. These special cards, which use one of the professional wedding photos, serve as the perfect wedding thank-you for gifts. The cards can be a memento of the occasion for the wedding party as well as all the guests who attended the wedding. And, for those friends who couldn't attend, the cards are a great way to share a bit of the wedding atmosphere.

Leave the movie coverage to the photographer and relax — he's a professional. This is your day, one of the most exciting ever. And, by being yourself and leaving the worrying to him the pictures are sure to be great. You won't ever know he's there!

A Good Husband

A Master of a house (as I have read)
Must be the first man up, and last man in bed;
With the Sun rising he must walk his grounds;
See this, View than, and all the other bounds;
Shut every gate; mend every hedge that's torne,
Either with old, or plant therein new thorne;
Tread o'er his glebe, but with such care, that where
He sets his foot, he leaves rich compost there.

August Is Big Wedding Month

June may still be the most popular month for weddings, but August is running a close second, it was discovered after talking with Sedalia merchants and local brides-to-be.

One future bride said she was getting married in August because that was the month she was out of school.

Another said having her wedding in August allowed her time to plan her wedding since she was in school from September to June.

George Scott, owner of Scott Floral Company, said, "June is still the biggest month, but it's going to fall, even September" because weddings are based around the school year and August is certainly as busy or busier than June is for weddings."

Mrs. Phillip Pfeiffer from Pfeiffer's Flower Shop said, "August will very soon be the first." She noted that last year she had more July weddings than June.

A spokesman at State Fair Floral Company said August is bigger and is getting heavier, maybe because summer school is out in August, she suggested.

Mrs. Lena Bassett, bridal consultant at the C.W. Flower Company said June is still her busiest month and an employee of Bichels Jewelry Store said according to their bridal registration lists, August is running a close second to June.

Bridal photographers told The Democrat-Capital that the number of August weddings is pretty well close to that of June. According to Glen McVey of Classic Studio, the business in July and August is "almost a toss up," and a spokesman for Fine Art Studio said, "It isn't all June weddings anymore. They're being spread out over the summer."

Pettis County Recorder of Deeds, Mrs. Naomi Brown said in Pettis County more August wedding licenses were issued in 1967 and 1968 but since that time there have been more June licenses issued.

Arthur Destined To Always Be Known as Groucho's Son

By JOAN CROSBY

BEVERLY HILLS — Arthur Marx, by virtue of growing up as Groucho Marx' son, knows you can't win.

But he still shakes his head when he thinks of the book critics who reviewed his book, "Son of Groucho" (McKay).

The book was not about Groucho, but about Arthur and his growing pains with a zany comic for a father.

"The book relates to me and my problems, but I don't want to sound paranoid about this. Most of the reviews have been good," he says.

Arthur and his writing partner, Robert Fisher, have been very active on TV this past season, turning out many scripts for The Paul Lynde Show.

"My father called after one of the shows and said he liked it," Arthur said. "That floored me. He usually doesn't like family shows or what I write."

Arthur, slight and bearing a resemblance to Groucho, says his father was responsible for his being a writer in the first place.

"He gave me the idea," he recalled. "He didn't want me to be an actor. He said, 'You don't need any talent to be a writer in Hollywood.' Later I looked back and realized that was a slur."

His first major sale was a magazine piece about life with his father. He got $45,000 from the Saturday Evening Post for it, and proudly told his father who, by this time, figured his son would never make any money as a writer.

"When I told him how much I got, he thought for a minute and said, 'Yeah, but the government will get it all.' You can't win with him," Arthur adds with a smile.

Arthur Marx and Groucho

Arthur also coauthored the hit play "The Impossible Years" and the not too-successful musical about the Marx Brothers, "Minnie's Boys."

He would like to see that made into a movie with Lucille Ball playing Minnie, the mother of the brothers.

There was much fuss over the musical, prior to its Broadway opening three years ago.

"It had a good chance," Arthur says, "but Shelley Winters screwed it up. After six months, she still didn't know the lyrics and she was stumbling around with the lines. We could have had Totie Fields, but my father detests her. He was also worried that having Shelley play the mother of the Marxes made them look too Jewish. I accused him of being anti-Semitic and he didn't talk to me for three months."

Groucho even threatened to sue about the book, but eventually his secretary-manager-girl friend called Arthur to say his father liked the book.

Arthur has learned that he will always be identified as his father's son, and he can now take it in stride. "But once, when I was younger, and a good tennis player, I scored a big upset in a match by beating Jack Kramer, I figured that would do it for me. But the headlines the next day read, 'Groucho's son scores upset victory.'"

Memories of Dad Quite Vivid in Actor's Mind

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD, CALIF. — It wasn't even Father's Day or anywhere near it but for some reason Edward Asner got off on the subject of his father. Asner, who does a lot to make The Mary Tyler Moore Show the hit that it is, was in a nostalgic mood.

"He was a bear of a man," Asner said. "He had eyes that were a devil's eyes, cold and hard. His bearing was always stiff and straight, like those pictures you see of Civil War generals.

"I'm big, but his shoulders came out to here (he gestured with his hands, six inches wider than his own shoulders) and his hands were twice as big as mine. They were black and calloused. I remember he used to rub them on the bricks of our fireplace.

"He started out with a pony and a cart, when he came from Russia, after first spending a year in the sweatshops of New York City. Then he moved to Kansas City, got that pony and cart and bought and sold junk. From that, he built a scrap iron business.

"When my mother first met him he lived in a shack at the junkyard with his dogs. My mother said there were lice in his hair.

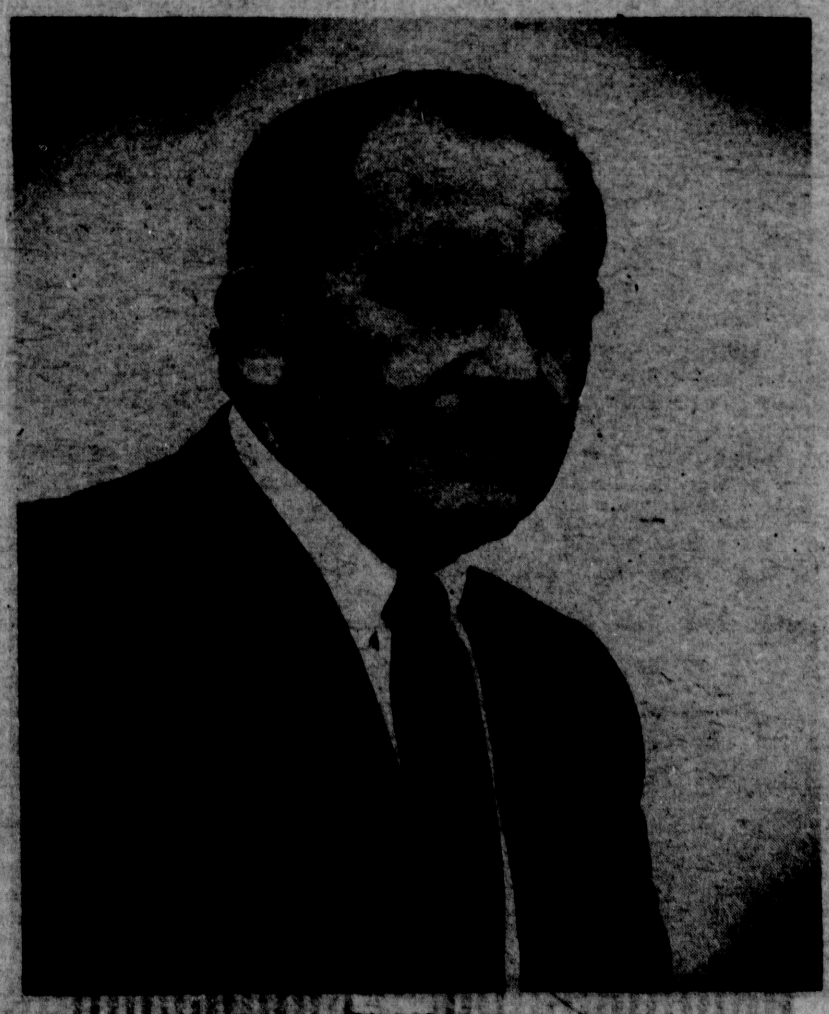
"I was the youngest of five and I was the one who was going to be the American dream-come-true. I was the one who played football and would go to college. So I went to the University of Chicago where I quickly discovered acting and sex.

"My father found out about the sex so the money stopped but I kept on at school anyhow, so I could do a play I was in. But then I had to go to work. I worked for a while on the GM assembly line in Kansas City. But I wanted to be an actor and went back to Chicago to join Paul Sills.

"My father said, 'You were no good at school work and you'll be no good as an actor, unless you have a voice like Eddie Fisher, which you haven't.'

"He came up to Chicago to see me in 'The Dybbuk,' the only thing he ever saw me do. My mother kept pointing me out to the people near her in the audience — 'That's my son' — but my father just watched."

His father is dead. Maybe he would have liked what he saw on The Mary Tyler Moore Show. Who knows?



Edward Asner

Everybody Knows That He Is the Top Director in Town

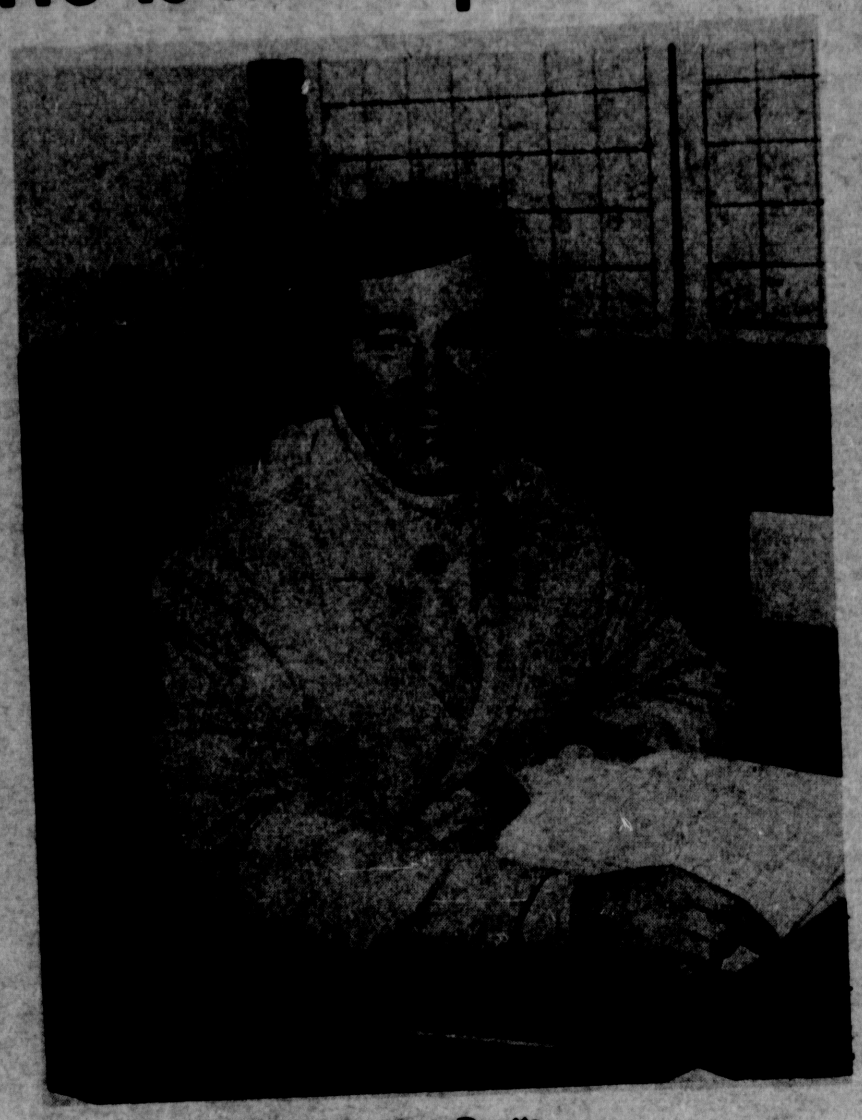
By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD — "Elvis," said the director, "you're dull."

Nobody had ever talked like that to Elvis Presley before and, for a moment, the singer was taken aback. Then he laughed. From then on Presley and the director were good friends.

And, if you saw the show they did together — Elvis: Aloha From Hawaii, on NBC — chances are you didn't find it dull, just because Marty Pasetta spoke frankly. That's the way he works, and he gets results.

Pasetta is a free-lance director, meaning he doesn't work for any one network. He works for himself and all three networks hire him when they want a well-directed special. As tribute to his skill consider the fact that this year he directed the Grammy award show and the Oscar show on NBC and will do the coming Emmy award show.



Marty Pasetta

He thinks the Presley show is one of his best although it was one of the toughest. It was done during a live performance in Honolulu and he had to make it exciting.

One of his biggest problems, he says, was working with Presley's manager, the legendary Col. Tom Parker.

Pasetta says that, for an example, they had a big disagreement at one point over the height of the platform on which Elvis performed. Parker wanted it six feet high for security's sake. Pasetta wanted it only four feet high, to bring the singer "closer to the people." The argument raged for two weeks but Pasetta finally won.

As for the Oscar show, he classes it as "a big headache." While the show is on the air, he must monitor 30 screens (12 cameras plus filed and special effects material) and choose the shot to go out over the air.

He personally arranges where the first 200 people will sit, which includes the top nominees, so he knows exactly where everybody is. He says he takes his own private poll ahead of time — "and it turns out pretty good" — so he can instruct his cameramen where to aim their lenses. But, at a split second's notice, they have to be able to switch to somebody else.

Pasetta is a good-looking man who comes from Santa Clara in northern California. He quit college because he knew what he wanted — a TV career.

Next Season Has a Total Of Sixteen Shows Canceled

HOLLYOOD (AP) — When a television network cancels a show, you can usually look for the reason in the ratings.

A show that can't pull in at least a third of the audience is not only in trouble, it's a money loser. It is difficult to sell to advertisers and usually pulls down the ratings of the shows that precede or follow it.

That brings up the case of CBS' "Bridget Loves Bernie." Here was a show that started off in the top five of the ratings and was regularly in the top 10. Yet when the networks recently announced next fall's schedules, "Bridget" was not listed.

In this case the ratings were deceiving. "Bridget" was slotted directly behind "All in the Family," the No. 1 show of the season. Even a test pattern immediately following "All in the Family" would get a high rating.

The show, about the intermarriage of a Jewish man and a Catholic woman, drew protest from both Jewish and Catholic groups, and one eminent rabbi said, "The program treats intermarriage in a cavalier, cute, condoning fashion, and deals with its inevitable problems as though they're instantly, easily solvable."

Nevertheless, that reportedly is not the real reason the show was canned.

As the season progressed, it became evident "Bridget" was not holding its own and was buoyed to its lofty ratings only because of the audience overflow from "All in the Family."

More important, it was not able to hold onto that audience and was hurting the highly regarded "Mary Tyler Moore Show" that followed.

Altogether, the three networks canceled 15 other shows. In all cases, it was due to anemic ratings.

"Laugh-In," a onetime ratings champion and the show that probably changed television more than any other, was among the victims.

"Laugh-In" stayed at the top only as long as it was fresh and the material good. When the freshness departed and the material became predictable and repetitious, it faded in the ratings. In its final year it ran third to "Gunsmoke" and "The Rookies."

After five years, Doris Day wanted out. In the early years, her show underwent annual format changes. She started as a farm girl and ended up a chic career woman, a sort of pale carbon of the roles she used to play in the movies. Her show also had dropped in the ratings and apparently there was mutual agreement to end it.

"Mod Squad" had been a trend setter in its day. Last year, the prime-time access rule went into effect on Tuesday night. This year the show moved to Thursday. There it was trounced by Flip Wilson and "The Waltons."

In addition, Clarence Williams III and Peggy Lipton wanted out, and only Michael Cole agreed to stay. It was decided to audition performers for all three leads, but in the end ABC decided the show had outlived its usefulness and new stars would not revive it.

"Mission: Impossible" is another show that died of old age. When the show first came on it was a sensation, but the complicated plots became old hat after seven years.

The other victims were all new shows that never got off the ground.

Paul Lynde, for example, was unable to capitalize on his wide popularity as the most frequent guest on other people's TV shows. ABC, however, is moving him into "Temperatures Rising," to replace James Whitmore.

Julie Andrews' lavishly produced show suffered from bad time periods. For the first half of the season she came on at 10 o'clock on Wednesday night, an hour too late for most young people who remembered her from "Mary Poppins" and "The Sound of Music."

Then she was moved to 9 p.m. Saturdays, where another woman, Mary Tyler Moore, did her in.

Chalk up poor concepts and bad scripts for the lack of interest in "The Men," "Circle of Fear" (the "Ghost Story"), and "Search."

A Dog's Life Is Better Than An Actor's Life

By NELLIE MELBA

UNIVERSAL CITY, CALIF. — It was my first interview assignment and I was a bit nervous. Meeting Rock Hudson didn't cause that trembling. After all he has a lot of dogs of his own and he's a nice dog person. I could tell that.

It was the nose to nose meeting with Lucky that shook me. Lucky is a STAR, and one of my people.

Like me, Lucky isn't sure of his ancestry. (I'm part Australian shepherd, which is why my opera-loving mistress gave me the name of the late, great Australian opera singer. She said she would have called me Joan Sutherland but there was already a Joan in the house).

But back to Lucky. He's probably part English sheep dog. At least his head is. He's black and white (my color scheme, although I also have a touch of brown in my freckles) and he came from the pound in Miami, Fla.

He was adopted by a newspaper, the National Enquirer which did a story telling people, if they were planning to get a puppy, they should save one in the pound. The editors decided to follow their own advice and that's how they found Lucky.

Meanwhile, Leonard Stern and Paul Mason, who are the producers of McMillan and Wife, the series Rock Hudson stars in, saw a picture of Lucky and offered him a role in the series.

Apparently the fact that he accepted was pretty big news because there were a lot of photographers around the day Lucky put his "pawtograph" on a contract and Rock Hudson showed up to watch the signing. They told Lucky he had the right of script approval and he wagged an OK.

I could tell which one was the real star when Lucky and Rock posed for pictures. One of the photographers said, "Hey, Rock, you'll have to move because we're getting the dog's bad side." Rock moved. Of course, Rock didn't look as if he had any bad sides to me.

There were a couple of questions I wanted to ask Rock so I barked them to my mistress and she interpreted them for him.

He said, "No, he had never worked with a dog before. He also said, no, he wouldn't want any of his dogs to go into show business."

I think I'm glad he said that. A dog's life is much better than an actor's life. As a matter of fact, it's even better than a journalist's life and so, after this story which I am writing as a favor to my mistress who feeds me pretty good food, I am turning in my pencil and stepping up and giving up any thought of being a career dog.

Because I'm always being told how cute and personable I am way down deep I thought some producer at Universal Studios, where all this took place might notice me enough to give me a screen test. I certainly made enough noise barking at everyone I saw to attract attention. But the truth is, no one even suggested I meet him in the casting department.

Tragic Romance

Please tell me about the movie "A Place in the Sun" and how it was rated. — Martin H., Anchorage, Alaska.

This four-star film account of Theodore Dreiser's "An American Tragedy" was released in 1951. Beautifully filmed and well-cast, it tells the story of a confused, young factory worker (Montgomery Clift) seeking social success via his girl friend (Elizabeth Taylor) and trying to get rid of his mistress (Shelley Winters), with tragedy resulting. Others in the cast were Keefe Brasselle, Raymond Burr and Anne Revere. Superbly directed by George Stevens, the film, Clift and Winters received Academy Award nominations.

Net Bill

Did Bill Bixby play Sam in Mayberry R.F.D.? — M.S., Lemont, Ill.

No. The part of Sam in Mayberry R.F.D. (1968) was played by dancer-singer-actor Ken Berry (The Ken Berry Wow Show). Bill Bixby costarred with Ray Walston in My Favorite Martian, aired in the early '60s. In 1969, he played Eddie's (Brandon Cruz) father on The Courtship of Eddie's Father, featuring Miyoshi Umeki as the housekeeper.

'30s Film

What studio produced "A bill of Divorcement" and who was in the cast? — Gene Beckart, Corpus Christi, Tex.

"A Bill of Divorcement," the screen version of Clement Dane's 1921 play, was produced by David O. Selznick for RKO in 1932. In the cast were John Barrymore, Katharine Hepburn (her first for RKO), Billie Burke, David Manners, Bramwell Fletcher, Henry Stephenson, Paul Cavanaugh, Elizabeth Patterson and Gayle Evers.

Papa Gilbraith

My girl friend and I have a bet. I say Clifton Webb played in "Cheaper By The Dozen." She disagrees. — K. L. S., Blue Island, Ill.

You win. This 1950 story of the 12 Gilbraith children starred Clifton Webb as Papa and Myrna Loy as his wife. Others in the cast of this turn-of-the-century tale were Jeanne Crain, Mildred Natwick and Edgar Buchanan. In 1952 a not-so-successful sequel was made called "Belles on Their Toes."

Oldsters Talk

What was the name of the quiz show where only old people used to answer questions. The show was on in the '50s and there was a regular named Fred. — John W., Easton, Pa.

Life Begins at 80 was the geristric answer to Juvenile Jury, aired in 1950. The wit and wisdom of the over-the-hill gang was observed weekly by regular Fred Stein.

Brown Humor

In the '30s I saw a movie with Joe E. Brown as a fireman and Evelyn Knapp. Can you find out the name and year? — Mrs. Charles Robles, St. Petersburg, Fla.

The film was was "Fireman Save My Child," released in 1932. Joining Brown and Knapp in this comic romp were Guy Kibbee and Virginia Sale. A 1954 remake had Spike Jones, The City Slickers, Buddy Hackett, Hugh O'Brian and Adele Jergens running amuck in sloppy slapstick.

TV Crime

Who was in the TV movie "Crime Club?" — Laura Lane, Chicago, Ill.

"Crime Club," a pilot recently shown on The New CBS Tuesday Night Movies, starred Lloyd Bridges, Victor Buono, Barbara Rush, Paul Burke, David Hedison, Cloris Leachman, Claiborne Cary (Cloris' sister), Martin Sheen and Belinda Montgomery.

Up & Down

I would like to know who starred in "Up the Down Staircase." — A Reader, Austin, Tex.

Sandy Dennis, Patrick Redford, Eileen Heckart and Jean Stapleton starred in this 1967 loccount of Bel Kaufman's best-selling novel about a young teacher's experiences in a New York high school. Robert Mulligan directed the Tad Mosel screenplay.

Eliza

My father says someone played the original "My Fair Lady" years before Julie Andrews. Can you back him up? — Tommy K., Little Rock, Ark.

Sure can. British actress Wendy Hiller (Academy Award winner in 1958 for "Separate Tables") created Eliza Doolittle in George Bernard Shaw's "Pygmalion," the play which is the basis for the musical, in 1936, long before Julie Andrews or Audrey Hepburn came on the scene. Two years later Miss Hiller played Eliza in the film version and was nominated for an Academy Award. (She lost out to Bette Davis in "Jezebel.")

Vet Ghost

Who played Topper and the Kirbys in the TV series? My husband and I have a disagreement. — Mrs. Clare Richard, Monona, Wisc.

Writer Thorne Smith's amusing Topper stories came to TV in 1953 with Leo G. Carroll as Cosmos Topper. Husband and wife Robert Sterling and Anne Jeffreys portrayed ghost couple George and Marion Kirby. The antics of Lee Patrick as Topper's wife, and Neil, the Kirby's ghost dog, stole the show every week.

Theme Song

Can you tell me who wrote the theme for "The Thomas Crown Affair?" — T. M. Nietse, Miami, Fla.

"The Windmills of Your Mind," theme for "The Thomas Crown Affair" (1968), was written by Alan and Marilyn Bergman (lyrics) and Michel LeGrand (music). "Windmills..." won the Academy Award for Best Song in 1968.

Two Men, Two Shows

My husband says Don Porter played the father on Leave It To Beaver. I say no. — Mrs. P. Hofmann, Glenwood, Ill.

Hubby loses. Hugh Beaumont and Barbara Billingsley played parents to Jerry Mathers and Tony Dow on Leave It To Beaver, aired in 1957. Don Porter portrayed Peter Sands, boss to Susie McNamara (Ann Sothern), on Private Secretary, aired in 1954. In 1958, Miss Sothern's show format changed and she became Katy O'Connor, assistant manager of a large hotel. Once again, Porter was her boss, as hotel owner Mr. Devery. In 1965, Porter became Gidget's (Sally Field) father.

C. B. Silent

When and where was "The Squaw Man" first done? I believe it was a silent. — Mrs. James Long, Riverside, Calif.

"The Squaw Man" was produced in 1913 by Cecil B. DeMille, then an actor and playwright, with colleagues Jesse Lasky and Samuel Goldwyn. The film was shot in an old barn on the corner of Vine Street and Sunset Boulevard in Hollywood, Calif. This marked the start of the Paramount Company.

Cugie

Please settle an argument. When and where was Xavier Cugat born? — Patty Lewis, Chicago, Ill.

Bandleader Xavier Cugat was born in 1900 in Barcelona, Spain.

Hepburn & Bogey

My mother and I would like to know about the movie "The African Queen," when it came out and the year Mr. Bogart died. — Ric McCleary, Alexandria, La.

"The African Queen," starring Katharine Hepburn and Humphrey Bogart as Rosie and Charlie, was released in 1951. Filmed entirely on location in Africa, the story took souse Charlie and proper Rosie for a voyage down the Congo to Limbasi in Charlie's boat, "The African Queen." Set during World War I, our hero and heroine were faced with combating the elements and the Germans — no small task. Bogart, who won an Academy Award for his performance, died in 1957 at the age of 58.

Julie's Age

I have an argument to settle. Would you please tell me how old Julie Andrews is and where she was born? — L. G., Chicago, Ill.

Singer-actress Julie Andrews was born in Walton, England, in 1935, which makes her 35.

Soul Dispute

I say Aretha Franklin is in her mid-30s and my aunt says mid 40s. Who's right? — Q. Ola Hogue, Chicago, Ill.

Both wrong. Soul singer Aretha Franklin is 31. She was born in Memphis, Tenn.

Buttons Concerned About What His Kids Watch on TV

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD — Concerned parents, meet another one of your band. His name is Red Buttons and he practically grew up in burlesque and vaudeville.

Now, however, he's almost getting to be one of the elder statesmen of comedy. He laughs about it, laughs at how people talk of Jessel, Benny, Burns, Berle and Buttons as though they're all of the same generation. And Red is considerably younger than any of them.

He's thought of in the same group, however, because he started so young and has been around so long. He is, however, the junior among comedy's senior citizens, and he has two young children — seven and three — to prove it.

In common with most parents he is concerned about what there is for them to watch on the home screen. He can't fault everything that's shown on TV for kids, however.

"My daughter," he says, "is a big fan of Little Rascals and there's nothing wrong with that. When I was a boy I loved the old Our Gang shorts and these are the same things."

Still, he wonders about some of the stuff and he's done something about it. He starred in the last of ABC's series of Afterschool Specials for the season, a drama he's very high on called "Alexander."

"It was a great part," he says. "The minute I read the script I grabbed it."

That's because he played several parts, from a 75-year-old man to a clown.

But, more important, he feels the drama-for-kids is good entertainment and good for them, besides. He thinks it treats of honest subjects — even death — in an honest way and you don't find too much of that around, even in shows for adults.

Red keeps doing everything — acting, performing in clubs, cutting records — and does it all well. What he would really like to do is limit himself to three good movies a year but there aren't three good movies a year for an actor.

So he still does clubs — he calls it "Variety" — and considers himself fortunate that he can.

"I hate to think what would have happened to me if I didn't have variety to do," he says. "All I need is a drum roll and I can go out there and do an hour or an hour and a half. I'm not dependent on getting parts, as most actors are. I can be choosy — and I've never made a film I'm ashamed of."

He turns down many things. He says he could have made "beaucoup money" if he accepted a lot of the offers that came his way. But he is, after all, a concerned parent.

CBS Protests Against Rumors of X Movies

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "CBS has announced that they will begin showing 'X' rated movies on the late show," says the unsigned mimeographed form. "Not so!" cries a chorus of top CBS television executives.

A church bulletin says the pastor recently observed "that he felt it would not be long before X-rated movies appeared uncut on CBS. He has since learned that CBS is showing such movies already late at night when the children in bed, or should be."

"That's not true," says CBS executives. But to no avail.

By the network's own count, almost 200,000 letters have come to CBS in a year, most of the writers saying they've "heard" or "learned" that CBS has or will show X-rated movies. All politely but firmly protest and oppose the idea.

"The puzzling thing is where they've heard it, because we aren't putting on any X-rated films and have no plans to," says a worried CBS spokesman.

His is a statement CBS president Robert D. Wood and Thomas J. Swafford, CBS' vice-president for program practices, repeatedly have emphasized in speeches and news conferences this year.

But still, the letters pour in at the rate of hundreds a day, virtually all of them addressed to Dr. Frank Stanton, CBS' vice-chairman. And they're driving the network nuts.

Network officials say the deluge began shortly before Feb. 28 last year, when a heavily-edited version of Visconti's "The Damned" appeared on the just-beginning CBS late-hour show.

The film, concerning the decadence of an emerging Nazi Germany, was X-rated for theatrical use, according to a spokesman for Warner Bros., the film's distributor.

CBS officials say they insisted in heavy cuts before buying "The Damned" as part of a movie package from Warner Bros. They say those cuts were made and would have gotten the film an R rating for theatrical release.

The movie was chopped even further before CBS aired it. Out went some 36 minutes of controversial scenes involving incest, child molestation and a homosexual orgy.

Here's what CBS has to say about the matter: It has no X-rated films in its feature library of nearly 500 movies acquired since late 1971, nor is it planned that any will be bought.

FOR SEN. ROBERT TAFT, JR., of Ohio

Politicians keep talking about the failure of our prison systems, but why should society have to foot the bill for turning criminals into good citizens when so many, who have committed no crime, need help?—O. J. L., Muncie, Ind.

● At present, we spend an average of $11.95 a day to keep a man locked up while his family often goes on welfare. Under a proposal I am cosponsoring, private corporations would lease prison industries, and prisoners would earn union skilled wages. They would then be required to pay the Government for their room and board, to support their families, to pay taxes and make Social Security payments. In addition, the prisoner would be required to contribute to a fund to compensate the victims of crime.

FOR SEN. EDWARD M. KENNEDY (D-Mass.)

How can the poor taxpayer ever afford the kind of national health insurance you're pushing so hard?—S. V. T., Bangor, Maine

● The point is that the average wage earner now works one month a year just to pay his health-care and health-insurance bills. And there is no limit in sight. Cost is not what appears in the Federal budget. Any American family will tell you that cost is what comes out of their paychecks—or out of their pocketbooks.

FOR CASS ELLIOT

Do you have any regrets about the Mamas and Papas years? —C. B., New Paltz, N.Y.

● I hate having been "Mama" Cass for such a long time. I hate to be called that now. But I was sure about us from the first day we got together in 1966. I said then, "When we win the Grammy, I want it!"

FOR SALLY KELLERMAN, starring in "Lost Horizon"

What kinds of jobs did you have before becoming an actress?—P.R., Watsonville, Calif.

● Well, to give you a bad example, the briefest was my job as an elevator operator. It lasted three days. I kept getting carsick. The job I liked best was as a cocktail waitress. It was the most physical kind of work, and I was always on the move.

FOR HELEN HAYES

Do you find that you are much more forgetful than you used to be at a younger age?—T. Malcolm, Salinas, Calif.

● A funny thing happens. I don't remember things very well that happened two years ago, but I have a marvelous memory for anything that happened 20 years ago.

FOR ROB REINER, star of "All in the Family"

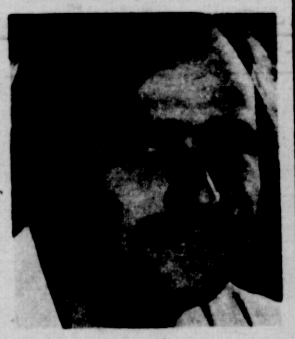
Were you really for McGovern, as implied in "All in the Family"?—George Harris, New Milford, Conn.



● Yes, I was, but my personal beliefs had nothing to do with the way I played the part. I believed then, and still do, that George McGovern had something to offer the American people.

FOR SYBIL LEEK

Does it bother you that witches are almost always portrayed as ugly old women?—M. George, Enfield, Conn.

● The literary concept of a witch is based on the three witches of Shakespeare's "Macbeth," who were portrayed as ugly old women. In Italy, however, art and literature have portrayed witches as sprightly (and spritely) young and beautiful girls. Anyway, isn't "beauty in the eye of the beholder"? I believe the inner spirit is more important than outward appearance.

FOR SEN. ALAN CRANSTON (D-Calif.)

Why should taxpayers all over the country be stuck for the $60 million price tag on your bill to predict earthquakes? Missouri doesn't have earthquakes.—J.P., Columbia, Mo.

● The most severe U.S. earthquake in modern times was centered in New Madrid, Mo., in 1812. Every state in the Union has suffered earthquake damage. Twenty-one states have suffered major damage, and, seismologists say, are likely to suffer major earthquake damage again.

FOR RAYMOND BURR

What made you decide that Chief Ironside, the paraplegic you play, should learn to drive his own car?—Mrs. Laurence Mills, Hobart, Ind.

● I was persuaded by letters from paraplegics who said I should be driving my own police van, since paraplegics hate to be any more dependent than they have to be. But I won't do all my own driving on the show, any more than any police chief would.

FOR EASTER: The Youth Who Made

"He bequeathed us . . . a sense of joy in simple pleasures, such as watching a flight of larks or the ripples of wind through the wheat fields."

Francesco Bernardone was born more than 750 years ago, but he had an "identity problem," just like the long-haired lad next door, or your sister Mabel's boy who won't go into the family business. Francesco threw bolts of his father's precious cloth into the streets, where it was snatched up by the poor. He cursed money, called it names and forbade his followers to touch coins.

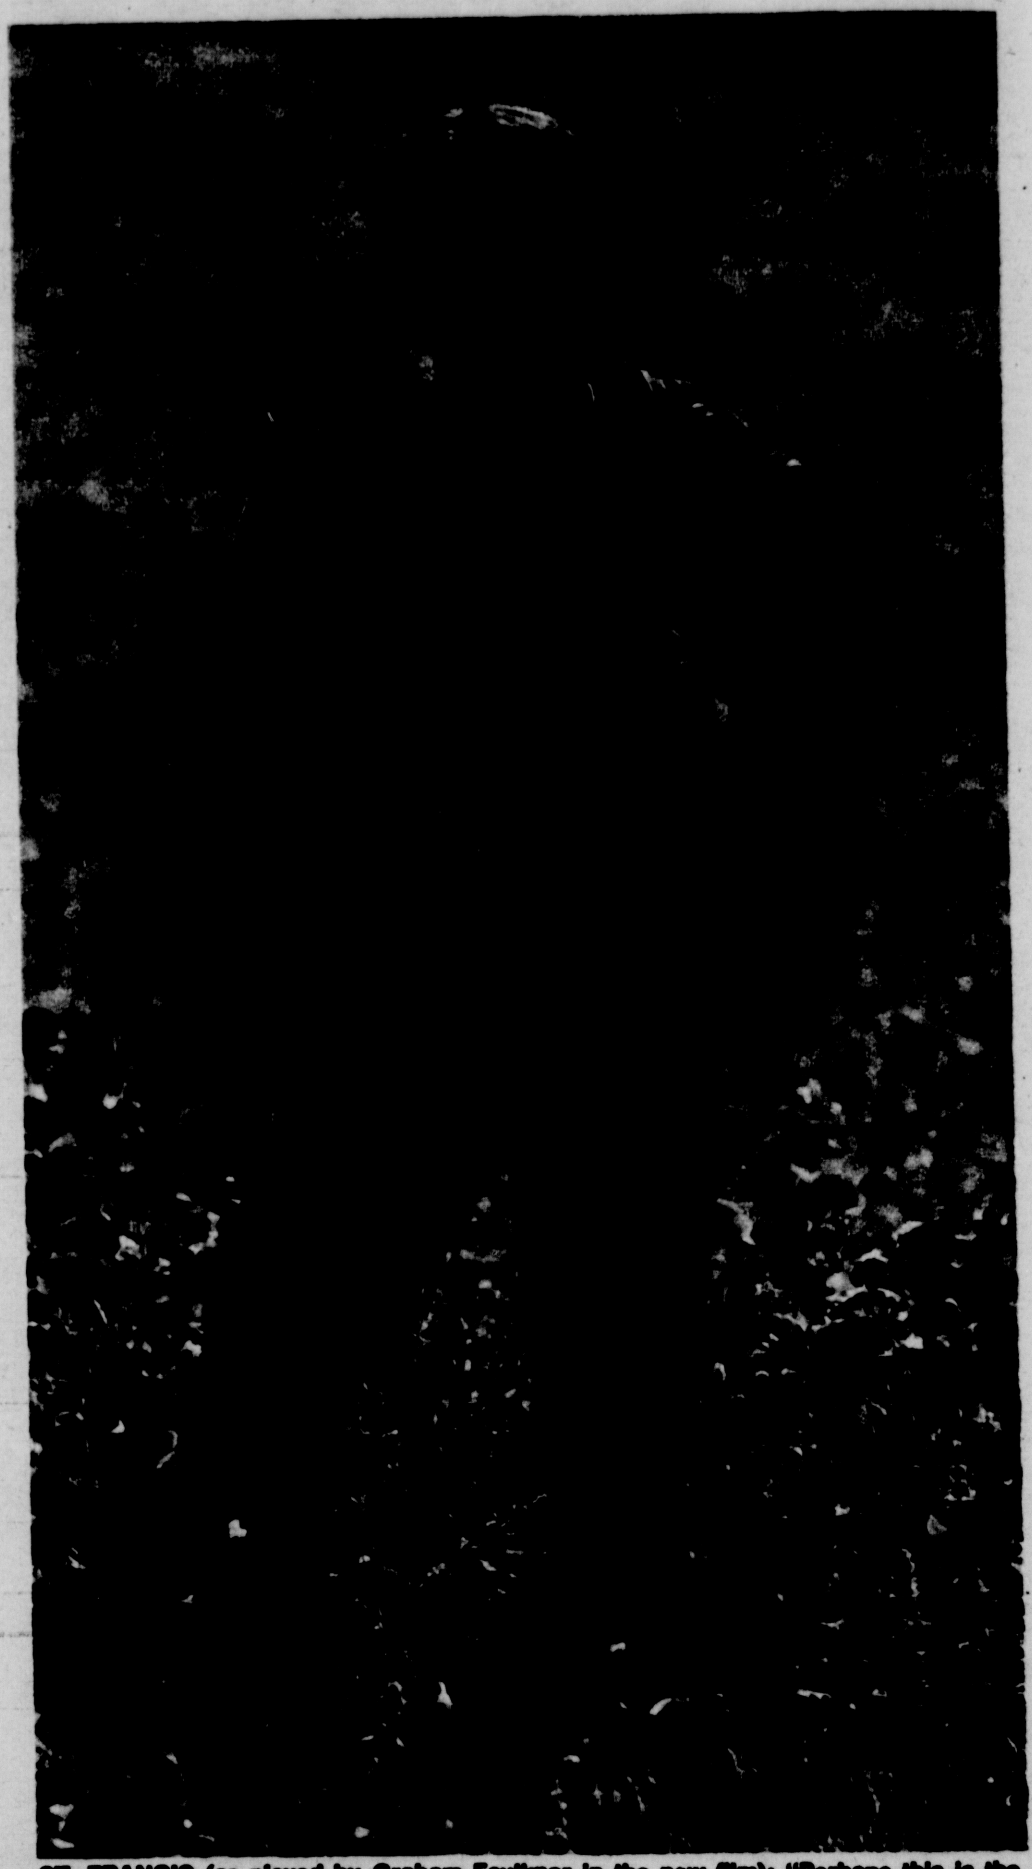
Was St. Francis a medieval hippie? Perhaps he was, but any direct parallel with the free-floating, pot-smoking, zonked-out hippie of the 20th century is preposterous. St. Francis needed no needle, no weed, no potions. You could say that he was high all his life on the glory of God.

Francis also had a high purpose in life, unlike the hippies sheltering their bruised egos in modern communes. The good Saint may have worn rags and slept in the open fields. He may have smelled, as one fastidious contemporary put it, "like a pigsty." But he saw himself as the busy servant of God, moving through his life's mission with all deliberate speed.

We sense a tough inner fiber in Francis. When we try to visualize him, we see an eager, anxious face peering from that monk's cowl. We see a dedicated life, humble but filled with joy.

Modern hippies may seem monkish to some, but practically speaking, they are monkish only in terms of poverty and, perhaps, stench. Francis had a divine faith. He wore a hair shirt and labored with his hands. And there had to be a dynamism in a man who walked barefoot to the Vatican with 11 apostles, seeking only a Papal blessing, and entered history as the founder of a great new religious order.

Now there's a new movie out about St. Francis, called "Brother Sun, Sister Moon," made by the Italian director Franco Zeffirelli. In it, we meet a St. Francis who talks to larks, cleanses lepers and lives in a hut of twigs and mud. With his ragged band of apostles, he rebuilds, stone by stone, the ancient ruin of St. Damian's Chapel. It's a killing task and his joy, at times, edges toward lunacy. We revere him but feel a twinge of annoyance as he trudges the narrow medieval streets of Assisi in a wild downpour, begging bread. He will neither cover his head nor step for a moment inside a doorway.



ST. FRANCIS (as played by Graham Faulkner in the new film): "Perhaps this is the secret of all sainthood: sacrifice beyond the reach of normal men."

One would assume this touch to be excessive and blame the director, were there not tales of far greater excess in the Saint's biography.

G. K. Chesterton, who wrote a charming biography of St. Francis, said, "He was, above all things, a great giver." A modern psychologist might add that he was also a great masochist. But perhaps this is the secret of all sainthood: sacrifice beyond the reach of normal men.

A troubadour at heart, Francis created a noble lady he could serve with fidelity. She was "my Lady Poverty." He spoke of her tenderly and never betrayed his vows to her. One of Giotto's great frescoes celebrates "the holy nuptials of Francis with Lady Poverty."

Harriet Van Horne's column appears in newspapers across the country.

People Quiz

By John E. Gibson

What Science Says Now About That Fascinating Subject–Your Dreams

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. You dream the most interesting dreams shortly after you fall asleep.

2. The introvert's dreams differ from the extrovert's.

3. You can't dream with your eyes open.

4. Nightmares have a physical effect on us.

5. Most of men's dreams are about women – the luscious blonde met briefly at a party, or the miniskirted brunette in the office across the hall.

ANSWERS

1. False. Studies show that the first dreams of the night tend to be so dull, boring and commonplace that if you weren't a captive audience you'd feel like walking out on them and doing something more exciting, like watching haircuts or Uncle Harry's home movies. But, as one leading investigator has noted, "As the night progresses, dreams become more vivid and emotional." The best dreams–or at least the most exciting–unfold in the wee hours of the morning.

2. True. In a study conducted by a team of university researchers, the dreams of men and women students were carefully catalogued and evaluated over a several week period. All subjects were then given personality tests. A definite relationship was found between dream content and personality type. Introverts differed from extroverts in that they had a greater tendency to experience "dreams having relaxed or pleasurable interpersonal relations with other human beings as their major themes." It would appear from this that introverts become more extroverted in their dreams, going to parties, enjoying the social spotlight, having glamorous relationships, etc.

3. False. In a University of Chicago study, subjects slept with their eyes taped open, while investigators monitored their dreams by recording eye movements and by awakening them at intervals to obtain reports of their dream experiences. Roughly half of the subjects had no difficulty falling asleep. The rest "took a long time to go to sleep and/or slept fitfully." Only one could not fall asleep at all. While the subjects were dreaming with their eyes open, the investigators performed an interesting experiment. Various objects and pictures were paraded in front of their eyes to see if it would affect their dreams. Findings: There was essentially no correspondence between the objects placed in front of the dreamer's eyes and his dreams.

4. True. Studies show that nightmares–which differ from the garden-variety unpleasant dream in that they are characterized by extreme panic, frightened screams and agonizing dread – have a very definite effect on bodily functions, with a sudden speeding up of the respiratory rate and the heart pounding with a marked increase in beats per minute. It's doubtful that there is any human experience more frightening than a full-blown nightmare.

5. False. A study of 7,000 dreams has shown that men's dreams differ from women's in one particular respect: Men tend to dream mostly about men. But women's dreams were found to be equally divided between the sexes. This finding suggests that women spend more time dreaming about glamorous males than men spend dreaming about gorgeous charmers.

One measure of a good haircut is: How many styles can you get out of it? Here's one possibility—a smooth rounded coil that frames the face.

Family Weekly / Beauty & You

In this section, Women's Editor Rosalyn Abrevaya charts a preseason course for shaping up your looks. "For most of us women," she says, "winter hides a multitude of sins. Here's what the people who get paid to know about such things say we should do now, before the parties start and the pools open."

Summer Shape-Up!

For Your Hair, Your Skin, Your Whole Body!

Your Hair & You

"The condition of hair and how it's cut is more important than the hairstyle," says Nicholas, expert hair stylist-consultant. "And hair is definitely going shorter," he adds.

A lot of hair has been cluttering his salon floor these days, as women decide to shear long locks to chin length. The popularity of the chin-length cut lies in its versatility, because it looks pretty when curled or straight—as long as the haircut is expert. (The photos shown here and on cover illustrate how to get three styles from one haircut.)

Nicholas, who has been styling and coloring hair in leading salons for over 15 years, also sees new interest in hair-coloring effects: frosting, streaking, tipping. The no-care, no-monthly-touch-up quality of frosting, for example, makes it perfect for summer. Since hair grows at an average of a half an inch a month, slightly faster in warm months, the woman who has color effects rather than a full-color change can maintain the streaking or let it grow out naturally, with no line of demarcation showing. (A word to brunettes: Frosting very dark hair produces a striped rather than a blended effect. Consider going to a light chestnut-brown before adding highlighting.)

What to do to get your hair into a healthy condition after the winter drabs? Here are a few pointers:

1. Shampoo as often as your hair seems to need it—even if it's every other day. Even dry hair can dull quickly, because it is porous and tends to collect dust and dirt easily. Just choose the right shampoo for your hair type and be sure to rinse well with warm water, finish with cool water.

2. After-shampoo rinses and conditioners can help give your hair a silky-smooth finish. If hair lacks body or is slightly dry, try one of the conditioners you comb through the hair before setting. For very dry or damaged hair, there are deep-penetrating conditioners that are left on for 20 minutes after shampooing.

3. Avoid sunburned hair and hair-color change by keeping your head loosely covered in summer. (A tight covering will cause perspiration build-up, which will cause discoloring more than the sun.)

Beauty Note: Perfect for summer hairstyles are two aids from Clairol: Easy Comb Easy Set is the first clear creme rinse and setting lotion in one that can be applied directly to towel-dried hair. And, if you want to try hair-color effects at home, there is a complete, easy-to-follow kit you can buy called Frost & Tip.

No matter how beautiful your tan is, how great you look in a swimsuit and how rested you are from your vacation, unless you resolve to keep your hair clean, shiny and well cut, you can't look your best.

30-and Right On!

Loving Care. It's not just a haircolor. It's a belief.

Your Skin & You

How to get that fresh-scrubbed look for summer?

1. Use cleansers that deep-clean, help revitalize winter-dry skin. A lanolin- or Castile-base soap is good for a dry condition. A soap with a slightly abrasive action should do well on oily skin.

2. Switch to moisturizers that are lighter textured than cold-weather ones. When the weather gets milder, oil glands become more active, diminishing the need for extra-rich skin creams.

In cosmetics, the prescription for achieving the most natural look during the sun-filled months is lighter, transparent makeup: clear, pastel eyeshadow, cheek gel and colored lip gloss. The moral: If you begin taking care of your skin through good cleansing and moisturing, the need for heavy pancake-like makeup to hide skin disappears.

Beauty Notes: Fresh Outdoors cheek gel by Clairol promises a transparent blushing finish. It can be worn over makeup, your moisturizer or bare skin, comes in a rich, ripe color collection.

A new hypoallergenic skin cleanser, pHisoDerm, with a gentle, deep-cleansing action, contains rich emollients to moisturize skin, replacing natural oils that normal washing can take away. Recommended for daily skin care, it has a pH value (which measures the acidity or alkalinity of the skin) of approximately 5.5, the same as normal, healthy skin does. Skin-care products that have the same pH factor as normal skin help to reinforce the skin's natural protective acid mantle.

A new-formula lipstick, Soft-Care LipColor, gives lips gleaming, nonstaining, semitransparent color as it moisturizes. It has special sunscreening ingredients and is dermatologist-tested. From Helena Rubinstein. Continued on page 14

"While Others Eat—I Dance"

"My beauty secret? That's easy—dancing! It's good for the body, perspiring is good for the skin, and it makes you feel terrific! When I'm not filming my show, I meet with a group of friends for an hour three times a week to keep in shape. When I'm working, the fellows set up a portable barre and while others are snacking or lunching, I train. My teacher comes on the set and sometimes cast members join me for a ballet session."

BARBARA EDEN

"Knowing About Good Health Is Not Enough"

"I just finished a string of nightclub appearances in Chicago and San Francisco. Doing a nightclub show is one of the hardest kinds of work. The stress and strain are unbelievable. I tend to get overly tired and lose weight. I get so tense I don't dare talk to my husband [Michael Ansara] on the phone before a show because I'm afraid I'll start crying. But when I lost my expected baby a little over a year ago, I learned the hard way that you can't take beauty and energy for granted. And that's my secret. Just knowing that there is nothing more important than good health is not enough. You have to do something about it. You have to invest time and effort on yourself. You have to diet properly, eat correctly, rest enough. I also take prescribed vitamins and get eight to ten hours sleep a night."

SUSAN DEY

"Think Twice Before You Envy Me My Skin"

"A lot of girls may envy me my complexion, but believe me, it causes lots of problems! My skin is very sensitive. It cracks and peels easily, depending upon the weather. And working under hot lights doesn't help. I know that if I don't make a special effort, my skin will lose its moisture. My secret is to use lots and lots of thick creams. Keep my skin constantly lubricated. Forget the soap-and-water scrubbing. And stay clear of makeup. What makeup I have to wear before the cameras must be completely without perfume, and thoroughly removed."

NATALIE WOOD

"Each Morning, Slip into an Active Mind"

"Stay alert! Keep the mind working! It shows through in how you look, and everything you do. I've always tried to keep interested and stimulated by learning new things. For instance, while I don't do formal exercises, I did take up ballet. After a class I look and feel better. I've studied French. I have a license to be an interior decorator and have done it professionally. My mother taught me to be a good Russian cook, and I've since gone to gourmet cooking school. And before my baby was born, I made the entire layette by hand. For me, keeping my mind and body busy is a beauty treatment."

KAREN VALENTINE

"I Get My Sparkle from the Sandman"

"I've had lots of people ask me what my beauty secret is. They'll say, 'How do you keep your sparkle—your vivacity?' And I have to laugh because my 'secret' is to get plenty of sleep. Not just stretching out to relax—although that helps, too—but good sound sleep. And there's nothing corny about it. It works! I believe a well-rested gal feels good and looks better. With the active schedule I have, I owe it to the people I live and work with to be at my best."

DOROTHY LAMOUR

"You'll Never Guess My Beautiful-Hands Exercise"

"A lot of women overlook a part of themselves that can add beauty or detract from it faster than anything else: their hands. Maybe because I've played so many native girls and done so many hulas, where the emphasis is on the hands, I've found that they really are a thing of beauty. And you have to work to keep them that way as you get older. I'm not a great one for rubber gloves and all kinds of hand creams. In fact, I wear gloves only for gardening. The best thing for one's hands, I've found, is typing! The exercise keeps up good circulation, keeps the muscles in tone, and makes the fingers and wrists supple."

CLORIS LEACHMAN

"Wear Maturity Like a Crown"

"Beauty doesn't happen on the surface. It begins inside. Inner peace is the key. If you don't have that, all the gunk and creams you spread on your face won't help. Learn how to keep your sense of obligation to your family (I have five children) or your work from wearing you out. Be moderate. That's a hard word to accept when you're young, but if you stick to it, you'll stay young a lot longer. Don't fight getting older. Too many women panic and attempt all sorts of artificial and unnatural operations to put off age. Wear maturity like a crown. It can be a joyful experience. Don't allow life to separate you from yourself. Stay curious. Children have this quality, and it's a shame adults lose that sense of wonder, because it keeps color in your cheeks and fire in your eyes."

Your Body & You

How to Exercise into Swimsuit Shape

Summer's on its way again, and right now is the time to start planning how you are going to get your figure into your bathing suit. Why now? Because you are not going to be able to tone up winter's flabby muscles in a few short days. It's going to take several weeks of gradual, consistent exercise.

FAMILY WEEKLY asked Shelda Bond, Women's Exercise Coordinator for Holiday Universal Health Spas, to tell us how to start shaping up.

First, begin by taking inventory of yourself. Stand in front of a full-length mirror. Take notes of the areas that leave too much to be desired. Take and record all your measurements before you start exercising. Then remeasure periodically.

Don't plunge into a violent program of exercise. You'll end up with aching muscles, which will really discourage you. Regular systematic exercise is what counts, and if you suspect any physical problems, consult your physician before exercising.

Now for the exercises: The ones Shelda Bond recommends here are ones she does at home to keep in shape. Do them slowly and carefully (in time to music is a good idea). Do each exercise smoothly and rhythmically. Concentrate on what you are doing, and don't strain yourself. When you reach the point where you feel any excessive strain—stop.

In a short time, our resident expert promises, you will begin to feel better. You'll have more energy. Then, gradually, you'll begin to see a change in your figure. And by summer, others will notice the difference.

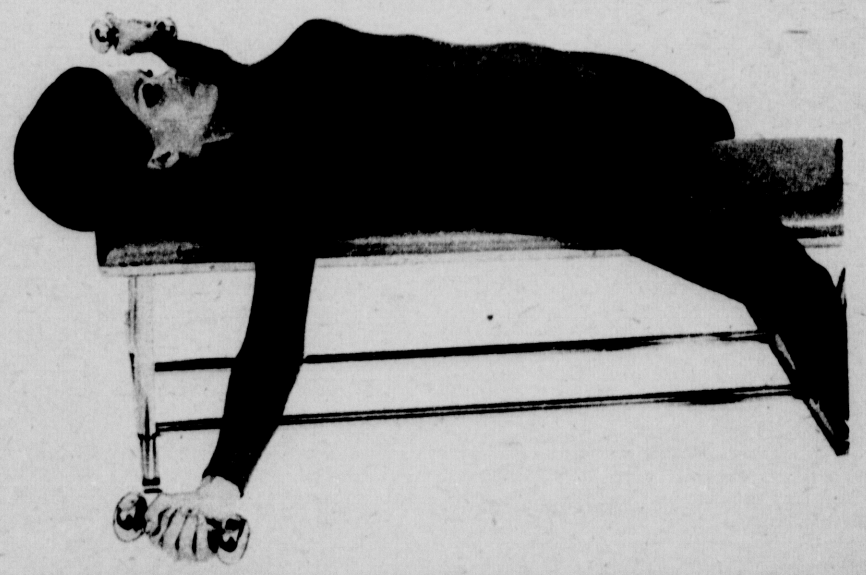
A Very Special

1. WAIST: This exercise is great for removing excess inches from the waistline and upper hips – prime trouble areas that are more on view in summer.

Stand with feet about 12 inches apart. Extend arms to the sides. Twist the upper body all the way around to the right and then to the left. Begin with 10 repetitions and work up to 25.

2. BUST: Another "must" exercise for a trim swimsuit figure is this bust exercise that prevents that sagging look, tones and lifts the chest muscles.

Lie back on the floor or the bed. Instead of weights, hold two small unopened food cans of identical weight in each hand (start with a 10½-oz. soup can) with your arms extended straight up. Move your arms to each side – still keeping them straight and taut. Bring arms back up and at that point cross them over. Start with 10 repetitions and work up to 20. Once you have the 20 repetitions easily, increase the weights in each hand (graduate to a 16-oz., then 28-oz. can) and begin at the lowest number of repetitions and work up to the maximum.



Who put the life in the party?

It was a girl who said, "Let's have a party outside. And for a change, let's get dressed up!" That was you, wasn't it? and when the party fell on "the wrong day," it wasn't a personal disaster.

Tampax tampons give you the protection and the security you need to carry on. It's the kind of protection that lets you feel as fresh and clean as a new blade of grass. The serenely comfortable, supremely confident protection you wear internally. With never the "I-know-it's-there" feeling you somehow always have with pads.

The internal protection that Tampax tampons give you is so much neater, so much more convenient. The container-applicator is readily flushable. And only Tampax tampons offer you three absorbency-sizes: Regular, Super and Junior. One that is just right for you.

So go ahead—plan as far in advance as you please and forget the calendar. The life of the party has 365 good days a year.

COUNTRY RAISIN GINGERSNAPS

1½ cups seedless raisins
¾ cup shortening
1 cup sugar plus 3 tablespoons sugar
1 egg
¼ cup molasses
2¼ cups sifted all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons soda
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon ground ginger
½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
¼ teaspoon ground cloves

1. Chop raisins, set aside.
2. In large bowl with electric mixer at high speed, beat shortening until creamy. Gradually beat in 1 cup sugar; beat until light and fluffy. Add egg, beat until blended. Scrape sides of bowl and beaters.
3. At medium speed, blend in molasses. Sift flour with soda, salt and spices. At low speed, gradually beat in flour mixture. Mix in raisins. Turn dough out onto a sheet of foil. Wrap, refrigerate for 1-2 hours.
4. Preheat oven to 375°F. Grease 2 cookie sheets. Shape dough into 1¼-inch balls. Roll in remaining sugar. Place on prepared baking sheets, 2 inches apart to allow for spreading.
5. Bake 10-12 minutes, until surface is crackled. Let cool 2 minutes before removing to rack to cool completely.

Alec Guinness: "What's Worth Doing, Is Worth Doing Badly"

Pictorial Parade

"Now, I am my own master," says Sir Alec.

"I was 11 when a teacher told me I would be wise not to think of a career in the theater. 'You wouldn't be any good at acting,' she said."

By Sir Alec Guinness

Especially for FAMILY WEEKLY

A few years ago, I came across a saying of G. K. Chesterton that has revolutionized my life. I only wish I had found it 15 years before I did. It might have liberated me sooner.

"If a thing is worth doing," Chesterton said, "it's worth doing badly."

As it applies to my own life, I read this advice to mean: "Not everything you do as an actor will win you an Academy Award—but that is no reason not to do it."

Before I found these words of Chesterton, my career had gone through three successive stages or acts. In the first act, I was just getting started, and I was grateful for any part in the theater. I had begun play-acting when I was about seven. I was 11 when a teacher told me I would be wise not to think of a career in the theater. "You wouldn't be any good at acting," she said. Another teacher, that marvelous actress, Martita Hunt, actually returned the tuition I had paid her for acting lessons. Said Miss Hunt: "You have absolutely no talent. Don't waste your time." Later, when we were both cast in "Great Expectations," Miss Hunt had the grace not to look surprised.

The second act in my career was getting big parts—and the recognition only films can give. Perhaps you remember "Kind Hearts and Coronets." In "Kind Hearts," I played eight assorted members—male and female—of an upper-class British family who are successively murdered by a young relative aspiring to their inheritance. I was terrified that the Duchess would open her mouth and the Admiral's voice would come out. I was, when I did "Kind Hearts and Coronets," rather proud of my achievement. But this was before I came to the third act of my career.

In act three, I now asked myself if "Kind Hearts" hadn't been a waste of time. It was pretty thin stuff, wasn't it? Pretty cardboard. But now we come to the fourth stage of my career. Now, thanks to Chesterton, I have again, more intelligently, I hope, reviewed the past: "Kind Hearts" was not a great film. But it did give pleasure to me and to millions and, more important, for what it was, it was done well, wasn't it?

I don't think I've ever been a perfectionist. There's a lot of stuff one can just chuck over one's shoulder and think: "It's not going to be marvelous, but it's worth doing," and so let it ride. One must take care, however, because this can make for slackness and laziness. Still, almost anything is better than that frightful prissy "Worth doing well" business, which is so Puritanical. What's worth doing is worth doing, period.

As an almost penniless youth, I did not understand this. As a young actor, I simply wanted to please. I got into the theater by the very simple and obvious process of going to the box office of a London theater and asking for a job. "Breaking into the theater" is perhaps the exact term I ought to use to describe my first experience.

At the time, I was working as an advertising agency copywriter and wanting to be in the theater. I got a scholarship to a dramatic school in London. I stayed only seven months because I had to earn a living. Footsore and weary, I rather lightheartedly went to the box office instead of the stage door.

The stage manager, who happened to arrive at the same moment, saw me, saw how lean and threadbare I looked, and asked me if I were a good actor. "Yes, of course, I am," I told him, never having done a professional job in my life before. I was given four parts to read and I understudied the four leading male parts. That was my rather inauspicious beginning as an actor.

Today, in my fourth stage as an actor, I feel that the words of Chesterton have helped to give me a deeper sympathy and understanding of men. At least they have helped me to understand myself. They have also helped me become (I think) a better actor, if only by making it easy for me to reject the idea of imitating my own success.

The bane of an actor's existence, you see, is typecasting. After "River Kwai," I was offered five very lucrative roles as a psychotic officer. I doubt I was foolish to turn down these roles. They were not even worth doing badly.

It is a great mistake to get frightened and seek security by saying, "Fine, I'll have a big contract for five pictures." It can harm you in the end. Basically, I like being my own master and, somehow, I feel now perhaps I am.

Announcing a distinctive gift for Mother's Day

"Generations of Love"

A LIMITED EDITION—SCULPTURED IN PURE SILVER
AVAILABLE ONLY UNTIL MAY 6th, 1973

This year, when you choose an appropriate Mother's Day gift, give something of enduring significance and value . . .

. . . The Hamilton Mint's 1973 Mother's Day Pendant, struck in .999 Fine Silver (the purest available), worthy of your love and respect. The original sculpture, "Generations of Love" by noted artist Alfred Brunettin makes this pendant an exceptionally fine work of art.

Just as important is that the total edition will be exactly equal to the number of orders postmarked by May 6, 1973, and no orders will be accepted after that date. Of course, early requests are assured delivery in time for presentation on Mother's Day, May 13th.

Each pendant, in gleaming, mirror-like proof finish, bears The Hamilton Mint hallmark and certification of silver content and arrives exquisitely gift boxed, complete with 28 inch solid silver neckchain and mounting.

Mothers and grandmothers will treasure the individuality that comes with wearing this Limited Edition pendant. Truly, it is a gift of love for generations . . . to last for generations.

But please remember that orders will be honored only if postmarked no later than midnight, May 6, 1973.

Also Available as a Medal

"Generations of Love" is also available as a .999 Fine Silver proof medal, an authentic collector's piece in itself. Again, only enough medals will be struck to fill orders postmarked by May 6, 1973. Each will be encased in a lucite display stand.

HAYLEY MILLS AND NEW BABY
With father, Roy Boulting

If you still think of bouncy Hayley Mills as a guileless teenager, maybe the announcement of Baby Crispian John David's arrival will help you to think of her as the 26-year-old wife of 59-year-old film producer Roy Boulting. Hayley and Roy were married in the south of France almost two years ago, and now they and Baby Crispian (he was born in January) live in England.

Garbage to keep us comfortable: European cities—with their very tough air-pollution controls—have long used heating and cooling systems that burn solid waste, and one such system has just gone into use in Montreal, Canada. Next year, Nashville, Tenn., will have a plant that will consume 720 tons of solid waste a day to heat and cool a loop of 27 downtown buildings. It's this country's first such system.

Sally Kellerman explains why she didn't have a boyfriend until she was 18: "I was afraid of men — I think because I was so scared of my father. He died last year, and it was only within the last few years that we became friends. He had a terrific temper. He never hit me but he would scream at me, and the fear of him transferred to every man I met until I was 18. In fact, it took me until my mid-20's, after my father and I became friends, before I was secure enough not to be afraid of men." Sally, who starred as Hot Lips in the "M*A*S*H" movie, is appearing in "Lost Horizon."

PETE MARAVICH
They went berserk

Pete Maravich talking: "I remember one high school game. The crowd was with me. I wanted to do more and more with the ball. So I threw a behind-the-back bounce pass on the move through a guy's legs! Oh, man, I remember I was coming down on a three-on-one break and my man was overplaying me to the left and giving me the open teammate on the right. But that was too easy a pass. We were going to get two anyway, so it didn't make any difference. As my man was sliding and I was dribbling I noticed his legs moving in and out, in and out. Still on the move, I saw the right moment and threw the ball when his legs were out—behind my back, now, not a straight pass—and I put it right through him to a teammate on the left. He converted for the basket. The crowd — I want to tell you — went berserk. I couldn't believe it. My man looked as though somebody stepped on his head. I think right then, show time was born in Pete Maravich." From "Basketball," by Allen Camelli (Bantam, 75¢).

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour

AND SO TOO BAD

I dearly love to read in bed
And while I read to munch on bread
With cheese or liverwurst or ham
Or peanut butter mixed with jam.

Yes, while I read, I sandwich in
Some sandwiches, and wipe my chin
If mayonnaise perchance should drip
Beyond my guarding lower lip.

Caught by a story, ere I stop
A bit of this or that I drop
And know by feel, or light of dawn,
Which side my bed is buttered on.

The economic systems of Russia and the United States do have their little similarities. Under Communism, everything belongs to the state. Under capitalism, everything belongs to your wife.

Being city dwellers, none of our children had ever seen a whole, live chicken. Recently the family got together for a chicken dinner. Several adults were happily complying with the youngsters' requests of "I want a leg," or "I want a wing," when our youngest boy, occupying the family high chair, chimed in with, "I want a mouth!"

POLLY'S

DEAR POLLY—I used to put off pasting trading stamps in books until I needed them, until I found a way that I could do two things at once. I keep my loose stamps, a book and a dish with a wet sponge in the drawer near the phone. During any lengthy conversation I paste away as I talk.—BETTY

DEAR POLLY—Those who like their cheese slices really thin might try using a hand carrot peeler. I just run the peeler over the cheese and the slices come off the way I like them.—CONNIE

Polly pays $1.00 for every idea used. Send them to her, c/o this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY—To remove rust on my bike I scrub such spots with mud. In a few minutes, when the mud is rinsed off, the rust goes with it.—DONNA

DEAR POLLY—My Pointer is for homemakers who can or freeze their own vegetables. To wash a bushel of vegetables, I first lay an old shower curtain in the back yard, spread the vegetables out on it and wash them with the hard-spray attachment on the hose. I do this near a tree or a flower bed so the water is not wasted. Vegetables dry quickly this way. Then the curtain can be hung on the line, hosed-off and left to dry.—CAROL E.

DEAR POLLY—Our family members are great salad lovers, and I always end up with small amounts of various bottled salad dressings in needed refrigerator space. I now pour leftover dressings in one bottle and then shake it well. Any combination I have used has been tasty. This is quite a saving, and it is always exciting to invent a new flavor.—MRS. D.

DEAR POLLY—Wetting and then folding a washcloth to the desired size and freezing this in a plastic sandwich bag makes a more comfortable cold pack for a sore spot than a lumpy piece of ice.—MRS. J. S.

DEAR POLLY—When cleaning, I have to lean the handles of my broom, sweeper and dust mop against the wall and they always mark it. I made little panties or mittens out of old washcloths and towels to go on the end of each handle. Also made "panties" for door knobs that hit the walls and now the walls stay clean.—ROSE

DEAR POLLY—I want to share a new time- and step-saver with the other girls. When I open a package of plastic wastebasket liners I put five liners and six twist ties in the bottom of the basket and then put the plastic liner in. When my son removes the full liner he has a tie for it and also a fresh liner for the basket.—MARIE

Poverty His Bride

By Harriet Van Horne
Especially for FAMILY WEEKLY

A poet whose life may be viewed as a poem, St. Francis created his own mythology. He made himself one with Nature, in a manner we all might envy in this age of concrete and steel. His "Canticle to the Sun" honors all God's works and establishes a sweet intimacy with them, with Brother Sun, Sister Moon, Brother Fire and Sister Water. He devised his own genders and they still seem exactly right.

St. Francis burned himself out before he was 50, and his final years were wracked with pain. When cataracts formed on his eyes, the monks who practiced the healing arts told him his only hope was cauterization—that is, burning the eyeballs with a hot iron, without anesthetic. As the flaming brand came near his eyes, St. Francis cried out, "Brother Fire, God made you beautiful and strong and useful; I pray you be courteous with me."

The operation failed. And this man whose songs—among the first recorded poems in a modern language – praised the glory of earth and sky died in darkness, offering "sweet words of comfort to those who tended him."

Except in the community of saints, there is no one like St. Francis today. But he remains an inspiration and a solace to millions of the devout. And he speaks across seven centuries to all of us.

Zeffirelli's beautiful boy of the movie, Francesco (Graham Faulkner), is perhaps more effete, more simpleminded than one could wish. The St. Francis who walked in his dirty beggar's rags up to the throne of the Pope and reminded him that Jesus didn't hold with so much glitter and grandeur was no foolish peasant. The toughness of the real St. Francis—as opposed to the pretty piety of the cinema saint—is easily understood in our time. Ideals must have iron in them, visions are nothing without action.

But it is not for his fiery spirit that we remember and love St. Francis. He bequeathed us a noble concept of life, a sense of joy in simple pleasures, such as watching a flight of larks or the ripples of wind through the wheat fields.

We do Francis less than justice if we catalog him as a simple mendicant with a touch of divine fire, an inspired preacher who charmed the birds off the trees. He was an ascetic and a mystic. He was a shrewd judge of men and a great proselytizer. At the time of his death in 1226, there were already three orders of Franciscans, and Francis' life was considered—in the classic phrase—an Imitation of Christ.

In his relationships with women, Francis was ever chaste, ever chivalrous. When addressing a woman, he lowered his eyes to the ground. His courtesy was matchless. "He was the sort of man," says one biographer, "who would have apologized to the cat."

Meek and mild though he was, Francis apparently understood the lust of the flesh. One legend describes him wrestling with the Devil by making "figures in the snow," shouting, "There is my wife, and these are my children!" A wife of snow apparently filled his needs. It is said that he never broke his vow of chasity and remained forever faithful to God and "my Lady Poverty."

As we reconstruct St. Francis from the scraps of legend bequeathed to us—plus our own instinctive knowledge of human nature—we see a gentle but zealous monk, blessed with gifts for drama and poetry that won him instant devotion wherever he preached.

At one village where he stopped, the entire population ceased work and begged to be taken into the Army of God. It was this great outpouring of love that inspired the "Third Order" of St. Francis. That is a vast lay confraternity, the Brothers and Sisters of Penance. Without leaving their homes or rejecting their customary life-styles, the Third Order could attend the sick and the poor as Franciscans.

St. Francis, Chesterton tells us, succeeded because he was "as simple and direct as a thunderbolt." He loved ordinary men and ordinary things. He counted on the hospitality of humanity and regarded every house as the house of a friend.

Zeffirelli's film is memorable for its projection of this peculiarly Franciscan joy. It is a series of glorious images, of beauty so rich, so pure that one feels almost humble in its presence. In remembering the film, it is wise to retain the imagery, the moments of Renaissance come to life, and forget the music and a good part of the dialogue as well.

In remembering St. Francis of Assisi, one would rather not think of his profound suffering, of the firebrand searing his eyes, of the bare feet slogging through the snow. How much better to retain in the mind the beautiful Franciscan prayer, an invocation Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt kept near her bedside:

"Lord, make me a channel of Thy peace, that where there is hatred, I may bring love; that where there is wrong, I may bring the spirit of forgiveness; that where there is error, I may bring truth; that where there is doubt, I may bring faith; that where there is despair, I may bring hope; that where there are shadows, I may bring light; that where there is sadness, I may bring joy."

Exercise Lesson

3. ARMS: Here's an exercise particularly good for trimming flabby flesh from the upper arm. Holding a dumbbell or full soup can (10½ ozs.) in one hand, extend one arm straight up with elbow close to head. Bend arm, dropping down toward the back of shoulders. Do 10 repetitions of this exercise and work up to 15. When the 15 repetitions become easy for you, increase the weights and begin at the lowest number of repetitions and work up to the maximum.

4. MIDSECTION: The following exercise is a modified sit-up, wonderful for tightening stomach and abdominal muscles.

Lie on your back with your knees bent. Place your feet under something stationary, such as a sofa or a heavy chair. Place your arms out straight and roll your body up so you can touch your toes with your fingertips. Begin doing 8 repetitions of this sit-up and gradually work up to 25.

5. LEGS: Other problem areas during swimsuit-exposure time are flabby thighs and sagging calves. The following squatting and toe-rising exercises will improve tone and increase firmness in the leg muscles.

(1) Squats: Place your feet approximately 16 to 18 inches apart, with your heels on a thick book (or books) for elevation. With your hands on your hips, bend down until thighs are parallel to the floor. To keep your balance, focus your eyes on a spot above eye level. This will also keep your back straight. Begin with 8 repetitions and gradually work up to 25. You will find that your front- and inner-thigh muscles begin to firm up quickly.

(2) Toe Rises: To tone up sagging calf muscles, place the balls of your feet on the edge of a step or thick book. Rise slowly on the toes and then press the heels down as far as you can. The position of the toes on the book determines which muscles in the calf will be exercised:

(1) When the toes are parallel, the back muscles of the calf are tightened.
(2) When the toes are pointed out, the inside calf muscles are firmed up.
(3) And when the toes are pointed toward the inside, the outside muscles of the calf are affected.

YOUR NERVES CAN CURE THEMSELVES

once you learn how to de-sensitize them, this doctor's ingenious new way...

If You Suffer From A Single One Of These Torturous Symptoms Of Nerves, Tension Or Chronic Anxiety, THEN THE FACTS BELOW MAY BE THE MOST IMPORTANT YOU HAVE EVER READ IN YOUR LIFE!

Because they reveal, for the first time, how your nerves have tricked you into the following mental symptoms:

constant nervousness and over-irritation... indecision... depression... loss of confidence in yourself and others... feelings of unreality... overwhelming obsession with one or two horrible thoughts...

a hopeless feeling that your entire personality is coming apart... that your identity is dissolving... or that you may be helplessly drifting into a nervous breakdown!

And—equally as bad—how your nerves have tricked you into the following physical symptoms:

chronic fatigue, that starts in the morning, and grows worse as the day goes on...

"missed" heartbeats—"racing" heart—palpitations—or sudden sharp pains under the heart...

sweating hands—or "pins and needles" in either your hands or your legs...

"churning" stomach... nausea... choking feeling in the throat... inability to take a deep breath... tight band of pain around the head... "ready to jump out of your skin"... strange tricks of vision ...weak spells... insomnia, that goes on night after night after night...

hand shaking... panic spasms... knots in your chest... dizziness... difficulty in swallowing... vomiting... and all the other physical tortures that turn your life into one continuous hell!

And Every One Of These Nervous Symptoms Can Be Controlled... And Then Diminished ...And Then Eliminated—OFTEN BY AS LITTLE AS THIS ONE SINGLE INSIGHT INTO THEIR HIDDEN CAUSE!

And that insight is this:

If you suffer from any of the nervous symptoms listed above, then you must understand at once that your nerves are not ill... they have not deteriorated... they have not lost their true physical health in any way! What has happened to them instead is that they have simply become OVER-SENSITIZED..."rubbed raw" by too much outside irritation... and are now ready to discharge the emotional and physical symptoms of panic at even the slightest thing that goes wrong!

Thus, the depression... indecision... loss of confidence and all the other emotional symptoms you feel are all caused by OVER-SENSITIZED nerves! And the churning stomach... palpitating heart... never-ending headaches and all the other physical nervous-symptoms you feel are—again—all caused by OVER-SENSITIZED nerves!

And therefore the way to treat ALL these symptoms is NOT with drugs... NOT with shock ...NOT with medical formulations or hospitalizations at all! The way to treat these nerves is to change the poisonous-thoughts that are rubbing them raw!

And this is done (as proven by this internationally-famed physician on thousands of patients) in four simple steps! The first of which stops nervous symptoms (both physical and emotional) from multiplying from that moment on! The second of which serves to tranquilize and quiet down those over-sensitized nerves far more powerfully (and permanently) than any drug a pharmacist could ever give you!

The third of which lets you stop fighting those symptoms (which only intensifies them in an ever-increasing spiral of sheer torment), and—instead —leave them alone in an ingenious way that lets them start healing themselves!

And the fourth of which—the great reward—brings you slowly-but-surely back to the person you used to be! With a new, enduring feeling of control and confidence that nothing can destroy! So much so that this doctor actually comes right out and states bluntly: "The advice given here will definitely cure you, if you only follow it"!

In Fact, Case History After Case History Proves That Cure May Be So Dramatically Quick That Your Friends And Family Will Beg You To Tell Them Your Secret!

Once again, it doesn't matter what physical or emotional symptoms you are now suffering from ...how "deeply entrenched" they are... how long you have been plagued by them... how "old" or "weak" or "out-of-control" you may feel today! Here is specific, step-by-immediate-step advice that will (again to quote directly from the doctor) "banish every unwelcome sensation and regain peace of mind and body"!

For example:

The two-minute self-treatment (you perform one ingenious little action with your chest) that ends sudden panic seizures on the spot—including all their side effects such as dizziness, pins and needles, involuntary stiffening of the joints, inability to breathe, and all the rest.

That "lump in the throat that won't go away"—how to banish it in minutes... and enjoy eating any food you wish to once again!

Physical weakness—perhaps the most dreaded of all symptoms—and (surprisingly) perhaps the fastest of all to banish!

How to deal with the twin monsters of fatigue and guilt! And leave behind emotional exhaustion ...morning depression... thoughts that once raced around and around in your mind without cessation! (And leave them all behind—for good!)

Why so many patients who tried these simple techniques actually came out of their nervous sicknesses as far finer and stronger people than they ever were before!

How to recover from chronic tension caused by an insoluble problem! The only sane way to overcome it! How to avoid unnecessary suffering, for both yourself and others! And, perhaps, actually turn your worst defeat into crowning success!

The surest and most permanent way to cure obsessions!

How to tap the forces of Nature, every morning, that are just waiting to cure you!

How to bring happiness back into your everyday life! Not by waiting for some great event or reward... but simply by developing the eyes to see joy in the little things all around you!

How to beat insomnia! Again, specific, proven step-by-step instructions! Ten different aids that may have you waking up tomorrow morning as fresh as a baby, with eight full hours of blissful sleep replenishing every cell in your body!

And—the final goal: How to develop the kind of nervous control that automatically turns panic off the instant it starts! That frees you forever from "nerve-crutches" such as drugs or alcohol! That lets you pick up your life again from the point where over-sensitized nerves forced you to abandon it, with absolute confidence that you now have the poise and self-possession to accomplish the goals you have always wanted!

WHAT THE PUBLISHER SAYS:

HOPE AND HELP FOR YOUR NERVES has sold over 250,000 copies and has been endorsed by medical and mental-health associations throughout the world. Millions of Americans have heard Dr. Weekes on television and radio shows and have read excerpts from the book which recently appeared in Reader's Digest.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

DR. CLAIRE WEEKES became interested in the problems of nervous illness when she observed in her medical practice that those who suffered most suffered "nervously." Dr. Weekes is Consulting Physician to the Rachel Forster Hospital in Sydney, Australia. She has appeared with Mike Douglas, Arlene Francis, Barry Farber and many other U.S. radio and TV shows.
